CURTAIN WATER WASTE—C. OF C. FORUM SPEAKER

The elimination of waste in the matter of the city's water supply was urged by Kenneth Shibley, San Francisco engineer, at a Chamber of Commerce forum luncheon given this noon at the Hotel Ashland, attended by forty members and guests. G. M. Frost and H. E. Carl Loveland, director of the Ashland band, entertained the diners with several musical selections. E. T. Moore, who has been in charge of the work on the recently completed Green Springs road, gave a brief talk on the "building of a city," liking his subject with the possibilities for development since the opening of the Green Springs road. With the road's completion greater travel between Ashland and Klamath Falls is expected. The road makes a shorter route to Crater lake possible. Mr. Moore urged that a great amount of timber land on the Green Springs road be made tributary to Ashland. Plans for the completion of the road beyond the summit are being made. Members of the Chamber of Commerce commended the management of the Hotel Ashland on the excellent menu prepared for the forum luncheon.

TO PLAY ANCIENT VIOLIN PROGRAM AT THE ARMY
rid," said the dealer, "I was presented to a collector of art works, in whose collection, however, there was but one violin, namely, a Stradivarius. Naturally, I inquired how a violin could have become lost among so many paintings and he then informed me that it was An Old Heirloom which had always been in the family, and that he had once found a book with a history of how Stradivarius made this violin in memory of his dead son, and that they had therefore retained it in the museum." With the instrument went the romantic tale of its origin—how in Cremona, through the love of one of Stradivarius' best pupils for a girl violinist, an instrument that the maker particularly prized had been Stolen for the Girl when he returned it to its maker he refused to part with it and was not until after his death that his sons sold it to a collector, who, in turn, sold it to the Spanish museum, where the instrument descended from father to son in many generations. The price demanded for the violin was $13,000, and was paid by Skovgaard. This violin fulfills the most enthusiastic expectations as all will believe who bear its tone.

WATER WASTE IS OUTRAGEOUS, SAYS ENGINEER

Mr. Shibley based his statements on a settling experiment made with debris taken from a clogged meter and shaken in a jar of water. He admitted that a settling basin, as planned, would take the heavier material out but would still leave the "bath tubs black." He stated that the mica and debris contained in the city's water during the freshet periods was nearly the same gravity of the water and difficult for a settling tank to handle efficiently. In his experiment, he said, three hours settling "hardly made an impression." He stated that with the use of chemicals the water would need at least four hours additional time.

If filters are installed, Mr. Shibley recommended that one be placed on Crowson's hill, up the canyon, and one below the lower dam. "Bring an expert engineer in here," he emphasized, "to look over the situation and take his advice."

Surprise was expressed that irrigation was being done from domestic pipes. Mr. Shibley stated that such a condition was unusual. The proposed system presented by Mr. Shibley would have an auxiliary settling tank which by use of chemicals would settle 70 per cent of the
