Embezzler Gets $7

A "smooth guy" and a cheap notion ring of a dime value worked an embezzling combination on the Rhinehart confectionery store, near the Southern Pacific station, Monday morning that ended in a $7 loss to the storekeeper, according to the police. The confidence man entered the store in the early hours of the morning and asked for a $6 loan on a ring, to enable him to get an express package before the banks opened. Domestic Trouble and Divorces Are Laid to Relations

By WILLIAM J. HUSKE (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent) CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 16.—Money, liquor and relatives. These three are declared by Bradley Hall, director of the bureau of domestic relations, to be the principal cause of divorce and domestic troubles in Ohio.

"The extravagance of the wife, the shiftlessness of the husband, or the desire of the wife to be free to earn her own money and thus enjoy a better economic status, all tend to loosen the matrimonial bond," he declared. Hall's duties bring him in direct touch with causes of domestic infelicity, and there few who can speak with greater authority than he upon the troubles which cause the breaking up of homes and the separation of families.

Liquor, he said, while still in the first three, as a moving factor in the breaking of the marriage tie, is not nearly so important as it was before the advent of prohibition. "While booze of one sort or another is still plentiful," he continued, "its cost is high, and law enforcement makes it more or less difficult for the average man to satisfy whatever desire he may have for alcoholic drinks.

Home a Supply Base Now "The housing shortage, too, contributes to the unrest. The newlyweds live with their parents to save expenses. Petty quarrels between the young folks, which would be forgotten with the dawn of a new day were they living alone, are taken up and prolonged by the older people until they become festering sores that end too often in the divorce court. Reconciliations become difficult because the older people display too lively an interest in the outcome." Too great emphasis is placed by the modern young people upon material things, Hall believes. Home nowadays is too often only a place to eat and sleep—a base, as it were, from which forays are made upon the world at large for the things that people now regard as important. "In other words," he said, "the home is only a means to an end—not the end itself, and this makes for unrest when young wills clash and the income dwindles. There is not that unity of interest that used to be so marked a feature of our home life, with the husband earning the money and the wife safeguarding its outgo."

Hall also declared that changes wrought in war's aftermath contributed much to clogging the divorce courts. Many young fellows returning from overseas, he said, had contracted the wanderlust. "And what's the remedy for all this?" the interviewer asked. "More emphasis upon spiritual values; less upon material well-being," he answered. "America is suffering more from the breaking up of family life than from industrial depression or any other cause. The disease from which we suffer is within us. The cure also can be found there."

School for Brides. If a future helpmate suggests that there is room for improvement in his bride-to-be, the situation is not always strained. "A delegation of young Chinese men visited us recently with a request that we begin classes for their wives and fiancées," writes the Y. W. C. A. secretary from Nanking. "They even offered to pay tuition and had a list of subjects already made out. The young women brought by them are enthusiastic in their attendance and invariably arrive hours ahead of time. At a tea given to talk things over, one energetic bride remonstrated that she was not there to waste time on teas but to learn to read and write like her husband."

Curiosity. In a street car the other day a man and his wife saw a cockroach on the floor. "I never see one of those things," said the man, "without wondering where it came from." "And I never see one," said the wife, "without wondering where it is going."—Youngstown Telegram.

Hard Luck? An automobilist parked his car on a hill. Some kids fooled with the brakes—and a big plate glass window at the bottom stopped the runaway.
