YANKS WIN SECOND GAME, HOYT PITCHING

GRANTS PASS TO PLAY A. H. S. FRI. FOOTBALL MIXUP

The Ashland and Grants Pass high school football teams will battle for supremacy tomorrow afternoon on the gridiron of the neighbor city in the second game of the season in Southern Oregon. Under the watchful eye of Coach Hughes the local boys have been putting in a strenuous week, hitting the line hard in practice scrimmages. The team is keyed to the point of wiping out the Klamath Falls defeat with a victory over Grants Pass, a team that is said to be stronger than last year.

Studies at the local high school will be suspended at noon tomorrow and the schedule arranged so that the students will get credit for a full day's work. The early closing hour will be observed to permit the students to send a strong rooting delegation to Grants Pass. A large Ashland crowd is expected to attend the game.

Nominations of yell leaders were made yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the student body. The nominees are Harry Snyder, Short, Grant Selby and Misses Heer, McElvaney, Pauline Plummer and Pauline Clift. Tryouts will be made this week and the election held next week.

The school constitution was read before the student body for the benefit of the freshman class and new students.

Owing to the absence of Raymond Finnern, president of the student body, who has not yet entered school, the meeting was presided over by Leslie Heer, vice president.

A girls' tennis tournament, started during the last year but not played to the finish matches, now is being revived at the high school. The tourney is played off in elimination contests until the decision is narrowed down between two players, who will play for the championship of the school.

The contestants entered in the tournament are: Lullion Berner, Kathryn Pratt, Virginia Jones, Eileen Nutter, Laura Prescott, Viola Wilton, Gertrude Carlton, Ruth Aitken and Pauline Plummer.

The newly-organized high school Forensic society held its first regular meeting Monday evening. Interesting talks on current events were given by the society members. The work was under the direction of Miss Knopp.

Merchants Boost Civic Imp. Club Rest Room Idea

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Civic club was held Tuesday afternoon. Discussion was principally in regard to uses of the new community club house and ways and means for its completion. The merchants throughout the town are offering a percentage on special sales. Knapp's grocerteria will give 5 per cent on all sales Saturday, October 15. Other merchants are offering coupons and commissions. Dr. Shaw is planning a treat in the way of a recital, which is in charge of Mrs. McWilliams and Miss Lydia McCall. All these helpful offers the Civic club accepts as one of the best indications of interest. If every one will put on some speciality, giving help that will not burden the giver, the object will be accomplished.

The Civic club has assisted in every worthy cause in Ashland since 1908, when it was organized by Mrs. Reader, Mrs. Vaupel and Mrs. Winter. Now that the opportunity has come to help the Civic club, the city is returning favors by allowing the club to have the tent house on East

Committee Leaves To Purchase Dairy Cows For County

Resulting from the appointment of a county committee to increase the number of dairy cows in Jackson county, C. C. Cate, J. B. Bichan and Ike Merriman left this morning by auto for the northern part of the state to purchase a carload of dairy cows.

This undertaking is being financed by the four banks of Medford and is but the beginning of a campaign to increase the number of dairy herds in this locality.

None but high-grade Jerseys will be included in the carload to be shipped in and they are being purchased at Jefferson, near Salem. These will be from 3 to 4 years old and all will be fresh from between now and December 1. It is expected that the car will arrive in Medford next Saturday and the cows will be sold at actual cost to farmers having the feed and stable room.

There will be a dairy meeting next Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Gitzen stables in Medford, at which there will be a number of speakers from the O. A. C.

BARNUM HOTEL IN MEDFORD TO TAKE 3 MONTHS, REBUILD

MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 6.—Fire which had been smoldering on the second floor ever since the fire department quit work on the Barnum hotel building at 1:30 p.m. yesterday, broke out again at 7:30 last night in the rear between the first floor ceiling and second-story floor near where the waste paper of linen chute passed through, and the firemen worked for an hour and a half, chopping holes in the floor to allow the smoldering sparks to flame up before again leaving the scene. Two watchmen patrolled the building all night watching for further signs of smoldering fire.

It was learned today the loss on the building and contents was about $50,000, and Mr. Barnum's insurance only covers about 70 per cent of this sum. It will be about fifteen days yet before the insurance is adjusted, after which, Mr. Barnum stated, he would at once begin the work of repairing the fire damage. It will probably be three months before the structure is in shape for occupancy again.

In the meantime, the many burned-out tenants of the building are busy hustling up new places in which to reside, and in trying to trace some of their personal effects which were carried or thrown out of the building during the fire excitement. The scarcity of furnished houses and apartments in the city makes the problem of a number of the temporary homeless tenants a difficult one.

W. S. Barnum, owner of the building, today said that no one knows how the fire started Tuesday morning, and scoffed at the story his son, George Barnum, who left the city today on a hunting trip, told Fire Chief Lawton last night as to the origin of the fire. This story was to the effect that there was a leak in the gas pipe of the wash room in the basement which had existed long enough to fill the room and basement with gas, and a woman tenant entered the wash room yesterday ignorant of this fact and struck a match. An explosion followed which blew the windows of the wash room out and shot the flames up through the paper chute to the fourth floor and attic. This account does not state what happened to the woman match striker. So far as could be learned today, no woman tenant was injured or burned except Mrs. Pearl Brown, who had her eyebrows singed.

The Barnum hotel is a four-story structure, built in 1915 at a cost of $75,000, and was one of the newest of Medford buildings of any size.

ASHLAND WATER IS PURE—STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

According to a report made by the state board of health and read before the city council at its last regular session, the city's water supply is practically free of contamination in Ashland creek and is 100 per cent pure by the time it reaches the consumer after going through a purifying process. The report was made from samples submitted to the state board of health by the city water superintendent. Several samples were taken in Ashland creek, in addition to water drawn from a faucet in the business section of the city.

Bills amounting to $5,289.08 for the month of September were approved by the city council Tuesday evening.

Property owners on Sixth street presented a petition to the city council for sidewalk paving between A and Sixth streets, abutting on Sixth street. Objections to the improvement will be heard by the council at its next regular meeting, October 18. It was agreed by the council that if the property owners were desirous of making the improvements at their own expense, the work could start immediately after the contracts were let and have the supervision of the city engineer.

Stating that the city electric bill from the California-Oregon Power company was $980 for September, Councilman Shinn urged that action be taken to curtail the expenditure. Stating that the city's street lights had cost only $25 for the month, members of the city council intimated that very little could be done in cutting down the expense by shutting off street lights. The matter was referred to a committee for investigation.

In preparation for the coming winter, C. W. Fraley, street commissioner, was instructed by the council to see that the gutters were cleared of

I just grabbed the splendid proposition of The Tidings that its columns were open always to the free expression of ANY citizen and started to write these Haz Kiks, and, notwithstanding the paper says it does not approve wholly all of them, it has never shut me off. I would never complain, therefore, that the paper discriminated against anybody until some article I had written, and signed had been turned down. It is my understanding that the local newspaper is, or should be, an open forum of the people, and I know The Tidings is, or it wouldn't stand for my stuff.

There are lots of things like the water problem, that Sylvester Patterson wrote about yesterday, or the camp grounds, that Frank Jordan discussed, which should be generally agitated, so folks would have both sides of the argument. Why don't you fellows put your ideas down on paper and submit them to The Tidings? You could do Ashland a lot of good and save her from many pitfalls, if you would take the pains to do that.

And The Tidings, going into nearly every home, would spread the news to all the people.

ORANGEMEN AND CATHOLICS ENGAGE IN STREET DUELS

DUBLIN, Oct. 6.—The British and Irish truce was broken today from the north to the southern end of Ireland.

Reports from Belfast indicate at least a half dozen separate instances of disorder and riots, when the Orangemen and Catholics fought revolver duels in the public streets. In the general inter-factional warfare a bomb was hurled into one of the Catholic homes, but failed to explode.

The auxiliary police at Dunmanway claimed that they were fired upon and replied to the challenge in kind. Later the auxiliary of the crown forces appeared in force and began firing wildly. The known republicans were roughly treated and Sinn Fein dwellings were forcibly entered by the military. The Sinn Feiners charged that the auxiliary forces were drunk.

$110 IN CASH FOR APPLE SHOW PRIZES

The Rogue River Apple Exposition at Medford is an assured fact because a sufficient number of premiums have been offered by the business institutions of the county.

There will be a total of $110 in cash offered, $80 in merchandise and a silver trophy cup. Growers should set aside their apples which in their estimation will bring them some of the premium money. Further details will be announced within a day or two.

Former Medford Woman to Open Kindergarten Here

President Harding recently said: "Because the kindergarten seems to me an effective means of providing early moral, social and intellectual training and promoting patriotism, I am hopeful that this educational advantage may presently be provided for all children of the nation."

These words have stimulated much recent legislation regarding kindergartens, patterning largely after the California system, the most effective in the country. Oregon would do well to soon bring this branch of work into the public school system.

The lack of kindergarten privileges prompted one of our new residents, Mrs. S. E. Willard, to conduct a kindergarten in Medford last year for the benefit of her own children. Now she is ready to open a class in Ashland next week with a thorough kindergarten equipment, including specially constructed chairs, work tables and sand table. Besides typical kindergarten work, there will be story telling, nature study and, later on, the new "project" system. Mrs. Willard is asking those interested to meet at her home on Pioneer avenue, adjacent to the park, this Friday and Saturday afternoons.

MINER FINED $10 IN FEDERAL COURT FOR SISKIYOU FIRE

MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 6.—When the United States court term for southern Oregon convened for yesterday's session, Jake Baer, a miner from near Kirby, when arraigned on the charge of having started a fire in the Siskiyou forest, pleaded guilty.

United States District Attorney Humphreys then explained to the court that Baer started a small fire to burn out a rattlesnake, and neglected to put it out, whereupon the flames spread over two acres of ground before they were extinguished. Baer's act was one of thoughtlessness and the damage done was small. Judge Wolverton imposed a fine of $10.

Martha Schonchin, a Klamath Indian woman, when arraigned on a larceny charge pleaded guilty and was fined $25. Some time ago she purloined some articles of clothing for spite work from a Klamath Indian reservation home, where she had been staying. This property was later recovered.

Following the disposal of these two cases, the trial of Levi Barney and David Willie, Klamath Indians, charged with the larceny of a calf on the reservation, was resumed.

It appears that Barney and David were tried on two counts in United States court a year ago and were found guilty on the first count. The second count charged them with the larceny of a red heifer calf from Herbert Nelson, another Klamath Indian, and the testimony showed that instead of the alleged calf being a heifer, as charged in the indictment, it was a gentleman calf. The judge instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Both men were reindicted for the crime of swiping this calf, the gender of which was named right this time in the indictment, and they now are being tried on this charge. The case will reach the jury this afternoon.

Howard P. Swetland, one of the new deputy United States marshals, arrived here today from Portland to assist Chief Deputy Mann and Deputy Stretcher during the remainder of the session of the court, which it now appears will last until the middle of next week.

YOUNG MARVEL WINS LAURELS, SIGNAL VICTORY

By JACK VEICOK (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 6.—A youth has entered the hall of fame.

Waite Hoyt, 21, pitching star and marvel of the New York Yankees, stood the tall, hungry Giants on their heads in the second game of the world's series baseball game, winning the game for the Yanks by a score of 3 to 0.

Young Hoyt let the Giants down with two hits, twirling one of the greatest games ever pitched in a world's series game. His victory gave the Yanks a two-game lead over the Giants in the fight for the world's championship.

The game was a signal victory for Hoyt. He was the unwelcome chicken who came home to roost on the shoulder of John McGraw, who once had him on the Giants' roster and let him get away.

More than 36,000 rabid fans, most of whom are in sympathy with the Yanks, cheered madly for the youthful twirler and the fighting team behind him.

Hoyt won his game brilliantly, but not without a struggle, for he engaged in a red-hot pitching duel with Art Nehf, and during the first seven innings his mates found rough going, for Nehf only allowed one run.

Babe Ruth, the ball hitter premier, was not permitted to star, as Nehf walked him three times. He is not to be denied his share in the glory of the victory, however, for he stole two bases in succession in the fifth inning and scored the Yankee run in the eighth inning.

The Yanks outplayed and outfought the Giants, who made three errors. Nehf pitched a pretty good game. He let the Yanks down with three hits, but was wild as a hare at times and the persistent fighting spirit of the Yanks gradually wore him out.

Elks' Show Ends Two Night Stand Of 'Purple Flashes'

Again the Elks' show, "Purple Flashes," classed as a jolly "bit of all right" and of a par excellence that refuses to take a back seat for the average professional road show, played to a full house at Vining theater yesterday evening. Last night's performance concluded the two-day "stand" of the show, a strictly home-talent play under the direction of C. J. McNaughtan.

Throughout the entire performance of two hours the house was in a constant uproar of laughter at the mirth-provoking complications of a swiftness plot centered about the antics of a non-working Ferris wheel and the jealousy of a questioning wife.

With a galaxy of pretty girls and a musical program filled with zip and zest, the crowd was kept in an appreciative frame of mind, enjoying a "flashing" time until curtain and the final windup of "the lived-happily-ever-after" ending.

BRITISH CABINET AGREES ON SIX CONFERENCE DELEGATES LONDON, Oct. 6.—Tentative decision was made at today's meeting of the British cabinet to appoint six delegates to the international disarmament conference to be held at Washington November 11. The proposed delegation will be representative of both Canada and Australia, as well as the British empire as a whole.
