of concessions and merchants' exhibits depends upon the number of visitors.

The success of the fair held here last winter is believed by Mr. Anderson to have been largely due to the free admission feature. Visitors not only came in large numbers, but being admitted free put them in the best possible frame of mind toward the show, which would not be the case if they had paid money to enter.

TELLS OF TRIP TO ALAMEDA MINES passed, with good swimming and fishing. This is one of the most scenic rides in Southern Oregon, if not in Oregon or the entire United States. It should be developed and used as a lure for tourist travel. We need have no fear of advertising it widely, as one of the chief attractions of Southern Oregon.

The miners told us that the scenery below the mines was much more beautiful than that which we had just enjoyed. If that is so, it would be a great lure to tourists, and might seem to warrant agitation at this time for the construction of a highway down to the coast, in order to open up the beauties of the Coos Bay country, in addition to this beautiful drive, in time for the Fair in 1925.
