EUGENE DEBS IS LIKED BY CELLMATES

By WILLIAM E. HAYES (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 19.—While it has been said prison life has been hard on Eugene V. Debs, socialist leader of America, now in the United States penitentiary here, a good look at Mr. Debs shows that no hardships are evidenced upon his genial brow.

Watching what he believes his swiftly receding days of confinement pass by, Mr. Debs is still philosophical.

When visited here by a representative of the International News Service his broad smile spread over his kindly face, and when asked how he liked the place he said it was far the best prison he had ever seen.

"You know I have been in a great many prisons over the country," he said with a smile, and hastened to add, "though not as an inmate. I have visited them for a good many of my friends have been confined."

"As for myself, it is true that I have been incarcerated in another penitentiary, and also a few jails, but that was something inevitable in my life."

Mr. Debs is a great favorite at the prison. Almost every man is his friend, and he is said to never tire in his efforts to do what he can towards lightening the burdens of fellow inmates.

WAR AGAINST TOBACCO HAD SMALL EFFECT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.—The various campaigns waged on tobacco in the past year had little effect on the production and consumption of the "weed" in this country.

The enormous amount of 62,000,000,000 cigarettes were produced in this country in 1920, of which 46,000,000,000 were consumed here, and the remainder exported. This does not take into account the number of cigarettes consumed by smokers who "roll their own."

In addition to the vast amount of cigarettes produced in 1920, 20,515,996 cigars and 3,979,568 pounds of smoking, plug and twist tobaccos were turned out.

Kentucky, with 550,000 acres and 467,500,000 pounds in 1920, led all tobacco-producing states, followed by North Carolina, with 582,000 acres and 384,120,000 pounds, and Virginia, with 243,000 acres and 177,390,000 pounds. Prior to the Civil war Virginia led all other states in producing tobacco, but Kentucky usurped this distinction in 1869 and has led the field since.

796 Pounds per Acre

The estimated average yield per acre for the United States in 1920 was 796 pounds, compared to 761 for 1919. Yields for the various states vary greatly, ranging from 1510 pounds for Pennsylvania to 600 pounds for Georgia. As a rule, higher yields are obtained in localities producing the high-priced types used in the manufacture of cigars.

Although the United States is the greatest tobacco-producing and manufacturing country in the world, a considerable quantity of both unmanufactured tobacco and tobacco products are imported. The leaf imported is mostly devoted to the manufacture of high grade cigars and certain brands of cigarettes. Cuba is the greatest contributor of leaf tobacco to the United States.

The number of tobacco factories in this country is approximately 13,591, of which 11,483 manufacture cigars; 237, cigarettes, and 1871, tobacco and snuff. New York has the largest number of tobacco manufacturing concerns, followed by Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Wisconsin in the order named.

As a revenue bringer to Uncle Sam, tobacco ranks among the foremost, bringing in $294,267,609 in 1920 in the various forms of tobacco taxes. This was an increase of more than $89,000,000 over that of 1919, which, in turn, was larger than that reported for any prior year.

The fall of temperature in twenty four hours constituting a "cold wave" is variously defined by the weather bureau, according to the part of the country affected and the season of the year.
