

THANKSGIVING

The three hundredth anniversary of the Pilgrim's first Thanksgiving gives a peculiar interest to this year's recognition of Thanksgiving Day. The people who established Thanksgiving Day had little bounty and many dangers. How much more have we to be grateful for! America today has greater security and greater bounty than at any time before. That all of us may partake of the season's good things, merchants now make their most attractive offerings. Profit by these announcements, so you too may have good cause for Thanksgiving

Phipps and Colorado Roads

Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado did his state a good turn the other day. He wrote to State Treasurer Strong:

"I am advised that unemployment in Colorado has been aggravated on account of the stopping of state highway work because the state of Colorado is unable to sell the highway bonds at the price fixed by law in competition with other offerings of securities. That I may help in a practical way to relieve the unemployment in Colorado, I shall be glad to purchase $50,000 of the state of Colorado 5 per cent bonds on as favorable terms and price as may be arranged for the sale of these securities. Not only will the unfortunate condition of men being out of work be remedied by the purchase of these bonds by our citizens, but all of the citizens of the state will benefit by the development resulting from the construction of proper highways."

There are $2,000,000 of these highway bonds. Senator Phipps' offer inspired plans for a statewide campaign to sell the bonds and prevent 5,000 men from losing their jobs on more than 60 highway projects, embracing about 250 miles of roads. Then a trust company of Denver stepped in and bought the whole issue at par with accrued interest. Word of the sale reached Maj. L. D. Blauvelt, head of the highway commission, as he was informing a meeting of contractors that construction would have to stop two days later.

NO TROUBLE TO KEEP CAR QUIET

Oil Can and Wrench Will Banish the Squeaks.

Necessary to See That All Parts Are Greased Regularly and That All Nuts Are Properly Tightened.

There is no excuse for a noisy automobile. Only carelessness and lack of attention can account for squeaks in any car. The automobile that passes you, carrying its own band is a reflection on the owner and he may be set down as thoughtless. "Sometimes it is hard to find a squeak, but that does not mean that it is hard to find the big ones," says a prominent dealer. "The one and only enemy of the squeak is the oil can and the single enemy of the rattle is the wrench. Keep the car tightened up and the parts greased sufficiently and your car will run as silently and smoothly after a year's use as the day you bought it."

"It is not necessary to be everlastingly at it. But it is necessary to see that all parts are greased regularly. If you have a driver see that he takes care of the car properly, that he goes over it carefully all the time and greases and oils it when he should. If you drive and care for your own car, you must grease it and oil it regularly. Take the oiling chart and make it a rule to do your work at stated intervals."

"Keep the car lubricated. It will repay you in added car life, minimum mechanical trouble and greater satisfaction all round."

BEST THINGS ABOUT LOVE

You never believe that anyone ever loved just as you do.

You want to tell him everything you have ever thought or said or done.

You are sure that every other woman is anxious to take him from you.

You cannot imagine life without him.

You resent any criticism of him from other people.

You are jealous of his mother, because she knew him first.

You count a day blank in which you do not see him.

You are sure that if you marry him earth will be better than any poet's paradise.

You would rather live in one room with him than in a palace with anyone else.

If you fail to feel like eight of these nine things, including the last—don't marry him.—Tit-Bits.
