What Constitutes Advertising
 In order to allay a misunderstanding among some as to what constitutes news and what advertising, we print this very simple rule, which is used by newspapers to differentiate between them: "ALL future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection is taken IS ADVERTISING." This applies to organizations and societies of every kind as well as to individuals.
 All reports of such activities after they have occurred is news.
 All coming social or organization meetings of societies where no money contribution is solicited, initiation charged, or collection taken IS NEWS.

Christmas seems more like Christmas when one begins to buy holiday gifts several weeks before December 25.

This gives rise to reasonable hope. Let improvement become steady and let the fact be recognized, throughout the country, that business and industry are on the up-grade, even though progressing slowly, and the effect will be extremely beneficial. For soon the betterment will become cumulative. Improvement in one industry will beget betterment in another industry. And as the general status of industry becomes more satisfactory, business will respond. The heights of prosperity cannot be reached at a single bound. But they can be attained step by step, even though the steps be short and halting for the time being.

It would be calamitous to the country if the membership of congress should become divided up into "blobs," with class selfishness the motive for division. Congress should not be composed of groups, each one of which would be for one class to the exclusion of all others. Congress should be composed of patriots and Americans who should be for the good of all classes and should not represent any one class exclusively.

Among other things, be thankful, on Thanksgiving, that you do not have an income of $200,000, for by not having it you escape having to pay $100,000 income tax. What a luxury it is to be poor!

Entente in Pacific
 The United States never has entered into a political alliance with any foreign power or group of powers. It never should. But it has associated itself with other powers in furtherance of a masterful common purpose, for the good of the world, as in the world war. Just as the United States, logically and rightfully, became partner with the allied powers for the defeat of kaiserism, so this country with equal propriety may join with other powers in non-political understanding, or entente, for preservation of peace in the Pacific. Whether or not this entente shall include the United States, Great Britain and Japan, or whether it shall be principally between the United States and Great Britain, is to be developed as the arms conference proceeds with its momentous work.

 Commonality of interests is impelling nations to enter into friendly understandings and agreements. Enlightened self-interest is leading nations, as well as individuals, to co-operate to promote some common purpose, which purpose is for the good of all countries or individuals concerned, even though some concessional sacrifice may be required of the nations or individuals co-operating thus.
 It is to be hoped that the delicate problems of the Pacific and the Far East may be brought to practicable and peace-promoting solution in such manner as may satisfy all nations concerned, and yet not develop any "entangling alliance" involving the United States.

MODERN SIAMESE GIRL

This is Miss Clara W. Xavier De Bibadh Kosha, daughter of the Siamese minister at Rome. He is one of the very enlightened Siamese men who believe in a western education for women. He has a family of ten children, all girls, and is sending his daughters to England to be educated in the professions. One of the minister's daughters is a nurse, another a doctor, and this daughter, Clara, is the only Siamese woman who has taken a course in a maternity hospital. She has received the diploma C. M. B. from the City of London Maternity hospital, and the South London hospital for women and children.

PRACTICAL TUXEDOS MERIT THEIR FAVOR

HOWEVER far the fancy of the restless sex may wander in pursuit of new interpretations of the sweater and the sweater coat it always comes back to such practical models as those two shown in the illustration above. Manufacturers know by experience that sweater-coats of this type are sure of a welcome and the beginning of each new season reveals them in the season's new colors, the knitted ones ingeniously varied in the stitches used and in other details of the making. Usually they are rechristened with a descriptive name and this year we have with us the "tuxedo."
 The handsome model at the left of the two pictured is knitted in a heavy ribbed pattern of wool, in a fancy stitch. Knitters have become incredibly ingenious in varying and combining stitches, when one considers that the work is done by machinery. This ingenuity is illustrated in the checked band which forms the collar and cuffs and adds much to the style of this coat and so do the patch pockets. It is provided with a wide belt to match that crosses at the front and buttons at the sides.

 The model at the right might be made of wool jersey cloth or other fabric. It has the same sort of collar and pockets as its companion, but a wide, soft girdle instead of a belt, and this is adjusted at a higher waist-line. This coat is becoming to slender figures, while the straight-line coats are worn by everyone—slender or otherwise.
 The tuxedo has a lively rival in sweater blouses—the latest development in knitted garments. It is very pretty in the surplice model, the fronts extended into sash ends that tie at the back, and is shown in several styles. Angora is the strongest ally of both the blouse and the tuxedo, making an unsurpassed finish for them in collars, cuffs or bands.

Chicago's Location the Only Thing About It That Is Just Right

By DEAN J. H. WIGMORE, Northwestern Law School.

I believe that Chicago, in its destiny of civic happiness, prosperity and leadership, is located just right. But that is the only thing about it that is as yet just right. It is still dirty with smut and smoke, noisy with needless noise, congested by inadequate traffic ways, disunited by commercial and industrial rivalries, stunted in public donations, infested with unpunished criminals, tardy in solving its civic problems, commonplace in political methods and weak in aggressive, courageous leadership of good causes.
 It is lacking in all these things, relatively to its own acknowledged ideals. It can show little to boast of in the last 20 years. Instead of boasting should be heard the humble voice of courageous resolution to make itself worthy of its location and of its past glory.

SAVORY DISHES.
 Calves' hearts are tender and delicious, cut in slices and fried in a little butter. They should be cooked until well browned and served with the gravy which may be thickened or not.
Braised Liver.—Wash two pounds of fresh liver and flour well, seasoning with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Lay in a casserole; add two sliced onions and six carrots shredded lengthwise, a bay leaf, a sprinkling of parsley and a pint of boiling water. Place thin slices of bacon over all; cover tightly and bake for one hour and a half; then remove the cover, baste and brown ten minutes. Serve with tomatoes or chili sauce.
Fried Peppers With Cheese.—Choose large green peppers and blister them in the oven until they peel easily. Remove the seeds and veins and wrap each pepper around a piece of cheese. Fry in good sweet lard or butter, or better, olive oil. Prepare a sweet sauce of browned butter, flour, a flavor of garlic, to pour over the peppers when ready to serve.
Baked Mexican Chicken.—Steam two young chickens for 20 minutes, then cut up as for fricassee. Strain a can of tomatoes; mix with a can of corn; add one green pepper chopped, a little parsley, cayenne pepper and paprika. Put the chicken into this mixture; thicken with bread crumbs and bake with pieces of butter over the top, for half an hour.
Ripe Pear Salad.—Cut pears in halves and scoop out the core with a potato scoop, leaving a good-sized, perfectly round cavity. Make cream cheese balls, season them well before rolling, and dust with paprika. Fill the cavity with the ball arrange on lettuce and serve with a French dressing prepared with some of the pear juice if possible. Canned pears may be used for this recipe.
 Muskmelons may be served the same way, using just the melon or a combination of melon and banana, if desired.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL
 Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

GEORGIA.
 GEORGIA has a deeply religious origin among the Marinite Christians who have a tradition that Georgos was a Christian sentinel at Damascus who convived at the escape of St. Paul when he was let down in the basket, and was therefore put to death. The next Georgos was a Cappadocian saint and martyr in whose honor Emperor Constantine erected a church at Byzantium. Throughout all early church history Georgius appears as saint, martyr or hero until, finally, the famous St. George of the Dragon legend became renowned in England.
 Curiously enough, though George penetrated every country of the west, being adopted by England, France, Hungary and Germany, the feminine is quite a modernism. It was not until comparatively recent years that Anne of Denmark was instrumental in having a godchild of hers christened Georgia Anna. She was the first English Georgia, though the name is said to have existed previously on the continent. It is possible that this same Georgia Anna coupled her two names for the sake of euphony and is responsible for the Georgiana which is now so popular in all English-speaking countries.

The French adopted George, but quickly changed her to Georgine and Georgette. Germany liked Georgine and took her over, making her one of her most popular feminine names. England has a form Georgina and Portugal is responsible for Georgetta. In America alone does the original Georgia seem to flourish.

Georgia's talismanic gem is the bloodstone, which has strong therapeutic powers and not only preserves its wearer from danger and disease but it is said to be a curative in hemorrhages and other disturbances of the blood. Tuesday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number. The violet, signifying modesty, is her flower.

RESOLUTION.
 PURE dust am I, and unto dust
 Some day, somewhere, return
 I must.
 But while I have the breath of life
 No bit of blatant windy strife,
 Or blast of wrong,
 Dust though I be,
 Shall I'er blow me
 Along
 And land me high and dry
 In some wayfarer's eye

Mr. D. L. Glenn, Ashland, Or.

Mr. "Dear Sir:—The Tidings of October 26th has just reached us and both Charlotte and myself enjoyed very much reading your article published in that issue. We ask to be permitted to add our congratulations to that of your many friends on account of the fiftieth anniversary of your marriage. Few indeed are the couples who are spared to each other and permitted to celebrate their golden wedding as you and Mrs. Glenn have, and I may say regretfully, that in the present day there seem to be few who care to live together even half that length of time, if we may judge from the great number of divorce cases that burden the court dockets. There must be something radically wrong with many of our young men and women of today, at least they seem to have very frivolous ideas in regard to the sacredness of marriage, as they rush into it after a brief acquaintance and after a brief experience, during which time they become slightly acquainted with each other, they appeal to the courts to undo what they have done. We hope your lives may be spared many years yet and that both may be blessed with good health.

We were so glad that both the Simpson boys escaped the fate of so many other brave Americans during the frightful tragedy in Europe, and were permitted to return home in safety. We were interested in the letters Harold wrote home, those that were published. I was also deeply interested in the account of the funeral of the unknown soldier at Washington last Friday. It is

Nellie Maxwell Florida Tidings Reader Keeps Ashland Interest

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following self-explanatory letter has been received from G. W. Kennard, Jacksonville, Fla., by D. L. Glenn, in reference to the recent observance of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn's fiftieth wedding anniversary, details of which were published in the Tidings at the time. Mr. Kennard formerly owned a ranch southeast of Ashland. Miss Charlotte Kennard, his daughter, was at one time a
