Pomona Grange Saturday

Josephine County Pomona grange meets at the Fruitdale Grange hall November 26. A report will be received from the delegate to the state and national grange which have just closed sessions in Portland. Delegate Blanchard carried resolutions from Pomona asking the national grange, through its representative at Washington, D. C., and through the agricultural bloc in congress, that laws be enacted to compel commission men to deal squarely with the producers. There will be discussions on this subject and possibly there will be in open session in order that all interested in a square deal at the hands of commission men may participate.—Grant Pass Courier.

Central Point Visitors

Several local shots attending the turkey shoot held at Central Point yesterday, shot at blue rocks with a shotgun and at bulls eyes with a rifle. Among those who attended from Ashland were O. O. Helman, Thad Powell, George Hake, George Parmon, Allie Powell, Fred Patton, Fred Neil, A. C. Nininger, and Ben Bowers. The Ashland boys got their share, as Ben Bowers, A. C. Nininger and Fred Neil left about noon, bringing home five fine gobblers in Nininger's car. The Ashland boys are going to give a big shoot Sunday, December 18, when an attractive program of events will be carried out. They will shoot for turkeys, beef, pork, cash and merchandise prizes, and expect a large crowd from all over the valley.

MAN GIVES WIFE

GLYCERINE MIXTURE

She had stomach trouble for years. After giving her simple buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ka, her husband says: "My wife feels fine now and has gained weight. It is wonderful stomach medicine." Adler-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing foul matter which poisoned stomach and which you never thought was in your system. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach or chronic constipation. Guards against appendicitis. The ipmurities it brings out will surprise you. T. K. Bolton, Druggist.

Asphalt to Embalm Mummies

Almost as far back as our knowledge of ancient civilization extends authentic evidence exists that asphalt, which is now used in sixty per cent of the street paving in American cities, was known by the human race for its useful and valuable properties. The earliest recorded use of asphalt was by the Sumarians, a people inhabiting the Euphrates Valley prior to the ascendancy of the Babylonians. Some of the oldest relics which have been unearthed by archaeologists, demonstrate that as early as 3000 B. C. asphalt was used by the Sumarians as a cementing medium or binder for attaching small objects or ornaments to sculptures, carvings and pottery. An asphalt mastic cast excavated at Lagash, near the mouth of the Euphrates, dates back to 2500 B. C., and as early as 2,500 B. C. the Egyptians utilized liquid or melted asphalt as a preservative coating for the cloth wrapping of mummies. Its waterproofing value was known also at this date and there is good reason to believe that the ark built by Noah was treated with asphalt within and without for this purpose.

As a mortar for brick, asphalt evidently was used in the construction of the Tower of Babel, for the Book of Genesis states that "slime had they used for mortar" and the word "slime" is translated as "bitumen" or "asphalt" in the Vulgate. This same "slime" is also recorded as having been used to daub the basket which served to conceal Moses in the bulrushes when the Children of Israel were suffering under the bondage of Egypt about 1500 B. C. It was Nabopolassar, King of Babylon, who, about 500 B. C., first demonstrated that asphalt could be used as brick pavement. His son, Nebuchadnezzar, continued the practice, as is demonstrated by an inscription on a brick taken from one of the streets of the ancient city of Media. Asphalt was used also in the construction of foundations subject to water action in the ancient city of Media. In the Western Hemisphere this material appears to have been used in ancient times by the Incas of Peru, who established a magnificent system of highways. Thus asphalt, instead of being a product of exclusively modern use, as may be commonly supposed, really is a world-old material, the use of which has been handed down from the oldest civilization.

Big Winter Fair and Jackson County Christmas Edition of the Daily Tidings will be issued Saturday, December 3. It will contain between thirty and forty pages, and carry a cover printed in three colors.

It will be the largest Christmas edition ever printed in Ashland, both in point of number of pages, circulation and general appearance. It will be well printed and will be distributed over the entire county.

We hope to have one or two sections featuring the Winter Fair, and will devote much of the space to boosting that enterprise.
