With all due respect to the galaxy of eminent personages reporting or commenting on the arms conferonce in Washington, the seasoned correspondents who are giving the straightaway news accounts, from day to day through the press associations, are giving the most lucid and most comprehensive reports that emanate from Washington. There is no discounting the work of the veteran newsgatherer. He knows gold from dross; he knows real news from endless trivialities and verbal rubbish.

Charles E. Hughes has had no special training in diplomacy. But the diplomats of the Old World find no flaws in his efficiency as a redblooded dispenser of get-there diplomacy.

Scientists say there are 25,000, 000,000 bacilli in one teaspoonful of ice cream. But there is a girl in this block who is remarkably courageous along this line.

Possibly Uncle Sam made peace as slowly as he did so that no other country could up and shout at him, "What's your burry?"

Japan Has Everything to Lose, Nothing to Gain by Aggressiveness

By H. C. BYWATER, in "Sea-Power in the Pacific."

To foreign observers, it seems that Japan has everything to lose and nothing to gain by a policy of aggressiveness. By sheer hard work and indomitable courage she has triumphed over the handicap of scanty natural resources and raised herself to a commanding position in the world. The problem of overpopulation has been solved in part by the annexation of Korea and Formosa, and of late years a new outlet, practically limitless in its possibilities, has been found in China.

It is here, if anywhere, that Japan may realize her true destiny, and it is here that her claims for priority are less open to challenge than in any other quarter. There is plenty of room in China for all legitimate interests, and if Japan could bring herself to discard the methods she has borrowed from Prussia in favor of a policy of conciliation and genuine friendship with the Chinese people, she would eventually acquire in that for flavoring sauces and soups during the winter. If an abundance is found, prepare a few bottles of mushroom catsup; these will make most acceptable gifts to the friend who enjoys the flavor.

A two or three-pound coffee can makes a fine receptacle for holding lettuce, parsley or other greens. Even wilted lettuce may be revived by washing and placing in a covered can in the ice chest. Parsley kept in a glass jar will keep for two weeks. Take out, wash and return to the jar once or twice. Any small fruit keeps better if spread out on a platter or plate; if heaped in a dish the berries are crushed and soon spoil.

In cooking any of the succulent green vegetables, salt should not be added until they are ready to be seasoned. Peas, if lacking sweetness, may be supplied with a teaspoonful of sugar to remedy this lack, much improving the flavor.

Mexican Scrambled Eggs .-- Put a dozen green peppers into the oven to roast until the skins may be easily removed; peel and chop removing the seeds and veins, then boil until tender in a very little bolling water. Season well with butter.

Beat six eggs, add salt and the peppers, stir for a moment in hot butter and serve hot.

A tablespoonful of butter makes a butter ball or pat of good size.

Popovers may be used as shells for fruit or creams, and are much more digestible than rich pastry.

Lardoons for larding should be cut from the pork next the rind. They are easier threaded and do not break. Mustard seed and nuts are a good flavor for a change in chicken salad.
