

Malaria germs cannot survive three months in the rich ozone at Ashland. The pure domestic water helps.

ASHLAND DAILY TIDINGS

Ashland climate, without the aid of medicine, cures nine cases out of ten of asthma. This is a proven fact.

VOLUME 3 (Successor to the Semi-Weekly Tidings, Vol. 43)

ASHLAND, OREGON, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1921

No. 78

JAPAN ACCEPTS NAVAL PROGRAM

ORE. EDUCATORS PRAISE ASHLAND SCHOOL SYSTEM

"Ashland schools are as good and as well organized as any in Oregon," declared Miss Bertha Davis, state supervisor of vocational training, at last night's meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association at the Junior high school. The speaker also gave high praise to the parents and teachers of Ashland, 202 of whom have banded themselves together for the betterment of the children of our city.

This association is to give a candy and fancy work sale the evening of December 17, at the high school gymnasium, and to assist the Hawthorne school in putting on a big entertainment at the same time and place. The sale begins at 7 o'clock. All members of the association are urged to donate fancy work, or to furnish goods to be sold on commission, or to give supplies for making candy, the latter to be manufactured by the domestic science teachers of the high school. If members respond liberally no personal soliciting will be necessary, which will mean a great saving of time and labor. Funds will be used to pay for a piano in the Hawthorne school. The Junior high school expects to hold an entertainment a little later to finish paying for their piano.

E. E. Elliott, state director of vocational training, made the principal speech at last night's meeting. He arrived late yesterday afternoon from Klamath county, where he had been hunting, saying he had seen 3,785,423 geese, but all of them saw him first. Mr. Elliott is visiting Ashland's school today, and those who are showing him around are confident that he will heartily endorse Miss Davis' high opinion of them.

"Instead of domestic science, we should teach domestic 'art,' training our girls to be home makers," said Mr. Elliott. "Home economics work in our schools is becoming manual training, which is a wrong tendency. Children should be taught that which will directly aid them in their work in life. Women are home makers. The main purpose of the home is the preservation of the human race. The duties of a home maker are fourfold; to provide shelter, food, clothing and education.

"The training which our girls receive in domestic art is good, but it is too restricted in its scope. The Smith-Hughes course aims to enlarge this branch of education so it will cover every duty of the home maker. We establish practice houses such as you have here in Ashland, and as there is at Cottage Grove, Forest Grove and Ontario, where girls take complete charge of the

(Continued on Page 4)

Dublin People Peaceful But Apprehensive; Exports More Than Imports; Girls Spirited

BY DANIEL O'CONNELL, Dublin, Dec. 2.—Twelve months ago Dublin was one of the most unhappy cities in Western Europe. Today, though anxious for the future, the Irish capital is at ease, rejoicing in the peace of the moment. The Dublin of 1921 compared to the Dublin of 1920 is as different as the New York of 1918, with its war fear and its short rations, is to the New York of today.

Ireland is prosperous, but could be more so. Ireland, despite the terror of the past three years, is the only country in Europe that is paying its way. The exports from Ireland today greatly exceeds her imports. Yet I have seen most of the factories where Erin made her world-famous butter burned to the

Tremendous Ovation Given Foch By Ashland Throngs

ALTON T. ROBERTS, CHAIRMAN AMERICAN LEGION NATIONAL COMMITTEE

HANFORD MACNIDER, Commander American Legion

FRANKLIN MILLER, PAST COMMANDER OF AMERICAN LEGION

School Children March To Depot; Prof. Vining Gives Welcome Address

Heralded by the blowing of sirens and whistles thirty minutes before, Marshal Foch, the internationally honored commander of the allied armies during the world war, arrived at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the recipient of a clamorous and cheering ovation. "Standing room only" describes the appearance of the Southern Pacific depot platform, jammed with throngs of Ashland people and school children who awaited the arrival of the French leader. Members of the American Legion, veterans of the civil war, and city officials took a leading part in welcoming the Marshal and his party.

When an half hour before train time, the fire whistle and sirens announced that the party had left Medford, the Ashland school gongs sounded dismissal, and the school children were marched through the streets to the depot, bent on seeing the man around whom history still unfinished was surrounded with the glamour of accomplishments.

The scene at the Southern Pacific yards was an inspiring one and will long remain in the memory of those who were fortunate enough to be present. As the special train slowly came to a stop, the band played the Marsellaise, the French tri-color and Stars and Stripes mingled their folds together, while every eye was focussed upon the Marshal's car. When the noted Frenchman appeared, he did not fulfill the expectations of those who expected to see a typical god of war, massive in stature. Though but small in body, Foch impressed the gazing multitude as great in spirit, with an indomitable will and unflinching courage.

Glenn Simpson commander of the Ashland post, had charge of the ceremonies, introducing Prof. Irvin

Vining, who delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the Legion and the city of Ashland. Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, was then introduced and made a short speech, followed by Marshal Foch. Ashland members of the American Legion were much interested in the speech made by Hanford MacNider, the thirty-two year old national commander of the Legion, who accompanies Marshal Foch's

(Continued on Page 4)

Haz Kik

The secretary of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce appears to be a crackerjack on putting up schemes to induce Ashland merchants to double their advertising expense without increasing their business. Witness his backing of the Medford Record special edition, the Medford Clarion, and the Medford printed literature of all kinds and character which he has lately sponsored, all of which has taken out some six or seven hundred dollars of Ashland merchants' coin to pay the pay rolls of our neighboring city. This is a splendid way NOT to build a city. And somebody said a Chamber of Commerce was supposed to be a city building organization. Of course those wise Medford printers will egg him on. It no doubt looks good to them. Wonder how long Ashland merchants will follow his lead and put up their good coin to help build Medford industries instead of Ashland's.

HAZ KIK.

(Continued on Page Five)

'SACRIFICE' FOR WORLD PEACE IS PLEA MADE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 2.—Japan will completely accept the American naval program, the International News Service was informed on the highest authority today.

This break in the official Japanese attitude represents a sweeping victory of the diplomatists of that country over the powerful militarist party. Japan's decision was revealed by a high official of the Japanese delegation whose authority is unquestioned.

The Japanese Diplomatic group is winning its demand for the acceptance of Secretary of State Hughes' proposals, he declared, only by impressing upon the opposing group the fact that Japan alone would have to bear the blame for another frightful world war if she wrecked the Washington conference.

Acceptance of the American proposals should be made as a "Japanese sacrifice" to the attainment of world peace, he stated.

Lengthy Appeal For Brumfield Be Filed Soon

ROSEBURG, Or., Dec. 2.—The appeal in the Brumfield murder case will be filed within a short time, according to Attorneys Rice and Orcutt, who appeared for the defendant during his trial here. Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, court reporter; is now working on the transcript, which will probably be finished within a few days. As soon as the papers are prepared the appeal will be filed and this will automatically work as a stay of execution for the condemned man who is sentenced to die on January 13, 1922. The transcript will be four or five hundred pages in length, according to the attorneys, and will cover much of the examination and testimony. The defense endeavored to obtain an order providing that the state should pay for the transcript of all proceedings, but Judge Bingham held that only those proceedings where there was disputed examination or testimony were needed in the transcript. The defense intimates, however, that the transcript will contain much more than that designated by Judge Bingham. The transcript of the entire case was desired, but the defense did not have funds for this, and consequently took only that portion held to be most vital to the case. The attorneys were unable to state the exact date upon which the appeal will be filed, but said that it would be in the near future.

SWOLLEN RIVERS THREATEN NORTH; ROADS SWAMPED

PORTLAND, Or., Dec. 2.—The rivers in Washington and Oregon are swollen today, due to the heavy downpour of rain yesterday.

Rain, accompanied by a severe windstorm which felled trees, and tore down telephone and telegraph poles and wires, is stopping traffic on the highways in scattered sections of the two states. Telephone and telegraph service is badly crippled.

Some of the highways of both states were covered with several feet of water. King and Pierce counties, in Washington, are threatened with the worst flood conditions since December, 1917. The town of Kent is partially flooded.

The gales blew in plateglass windows and hurled signboards to the ground, uprooted and broke off trees and poles in different cities.

The city park of Vancouver, Wash. was almost entirely covered with fallen trees. Forty trees were felled in the Laurelhurst park here, and hundreds of telephone and electric light poles were blown down. Huge plate glass windows in department stores were smashed and the displays damaged or wrecked.

The Spokane, Portland and Seattle railroad to coast points was blocked, due to a washout of 2000 feet of track.

Two Kentuckians have invented an electric power plant for rural purposes which is so automatically controlled that it produces current only when a light or motor is switched on.

PRISON RELEASE TRIED BY SINN FEIN; 2 KILLED

DUBLIN, Dec. 2.—Two sensational breaches of the Irish armistice, in which two men were killed and several wounded, occurred at Dublin and Derry today. The riots followed close upon a long period of quiet which has prevailed in Dublin for the past several weeks.

A jail delivery was attempted at Derry, and a number of prison wardens overpowered while men on the outside attempted to storm the jail. Two wardens were killed by applications of chloroform. Soldiers were rushed to the scene and fired upon the Sinn Fein sympathizers who were trying to climb the prison walls with rope ladders. The men attempting to effect the jail release escaped in swift motor cars. Armed civilians rushed into a

Undercurrent of Obstruction Thrown in Way of Recognition of Mexico by U. S. Government

By LOUIS P. KIRBY (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Dec. 2.—Doubt is mixed with hope among those here who wish to see the United States government come to an early agreement with the Mexican government and grant recognition to the Obregon administration.

On the surface everything is apparently moving swiftly in the direction of recognition, but there is an undercurrent of obstruction. For this reason, it is said, too much is expected as a result of court interpretation of article 27 of the constitution as not retroactive and as not confiscatory. Enemies and opposers of the United States have wanted this interpretation, as they have property interests in Mexico and hope to acquire more while keeping the United States and Mexico apart.

Dublin hotel shouting "hands up!" at two army officers who were seated in the office. The officers drew revolvers instead of complying, and in the exchange of shots, several civilians were wounded.

The fact that the Mexican government has sent Dr. E. J. Dillon to England as an agent to work for recognition in London, regardless of what Washington may or may not do, is pointed to as a strong indication that President Obregon is still under the foreign influences which have guided him in international matters from the beginning of his administration, and that he has not been entirely open and frank with the United States government.