J. E. Patterson, forest entomologist, Sunday brought his wife home from Pinehurst, where she is teaching school. Mr. Patterson, went by auto as far as Keene creek, which is east of Green Springs mountain and six miles from Pinehurst. The road to this point is graded and graveled and in fine shape. Fire Hall Stunt—
The enterprising co-ed, Miss Mildred Spears, who was in Ashland a few days ago soliciting magazine subscriptions to pay college expenses, killed chickens and did many other interesting stunts in order to coax coy coins from reluctant palms. At the fire hall Chief Robinson offered Miss Spears fifty cents if she would go upstairs and slide down the brass pole. This interesting stunt was obligingly performed. At one of the Ashland pool halls it is related that a party of card players was canvassed without results, whereupon they were informed by the proprietor that if they couldn't "vote," they could get out. They chose the latter course.

"Salvation Nell"—
"One of the most powerful and touching photo plays I have ever seen," says O. H. Barnhill, referring to "Salvation Nell," which will be shown at the Vining tonight and tomorrow night. "People who don't approve of many of the pictures shown on the cinema screen should patronize this remarkably strong, clean play and thus show managers and producers that it pays to exhibit this class of pictures. The acting is wonderfully realistic and dramatic, the photographs very artistic and unusually well taken, the heart interest strong and affecting. The saloon scenes are brutal and revolting, but—fortunately—saloons are a thing of the past in this country. The church music by the splendid photoplay organ adds much to the realism. The play is a dramatization of a book by the same name. It will pay anyone to see the Salvation Army in action at the Vining." 11

Married Sixty-Five Years—
Rev. and Mrs. William Johnson celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary Saturday at their home on Lower Almond street. Rev. Johnson is a personal friend of John Wanamaker, former postmaster general and millionaire Philadelphia merchant, who each year sends his Ashland friend a valuable birthday present. Rev. Johnson left Wanamaker's employ many years ago to accompany Rev. Dwight L. Moody, the celebrated evangelist, as organizer, serving in that capacity for six years. Rev. Johnson teaches a large Sunday school class in the Presbyterian church, and he and Mrs. Johnson are loved and respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

demonstration agent offices received support, as well as giving the Talent experiment station all the assistance possible. The league is also responsible for procuring the services of Mr. Young, of the frost service. During the period when the blight situation was serious here, the league backed C. C. Cate, the county pathologist, to a considerable extent and aided in seeing to it that the blight situation was completely cleaned up.

The object of the league is to protect the interests of fruit growers in the Rogue River valley and the policy of the body does not involve the solution of marketing or political problems in any way whatsoever. The reason that the activities of the organization are not made public frequently is that few general meetings are held; a general meeting being held only in the case of some circumstance arising which demands the action of the league as a body. Problems which require attention to details are worked out by the board of directors which, as can be seen by the list, is a representative body of men of varied interests.

The league is at present composed of 125 of the progressive orchardists of the valley. It is worthy of the consideration of every grower as it is an association for the protection of the interests of the men involved in the largest and most important industry in the valley. In order to become a member one must be a fruit grower or must be engaged in some closely allied industry and must pay $3 dues which go entirely for the payment of administrative expense, such as stenographer's fees and telegrams. None of the officers receive salaries. No application blank is necessary to obtain membership. D. R. Wood is treasurer and a $3 check made payable to the Fruit Growers league addressed membership for any person who to him in Medford will secure a meets the other requirements.
Some of the more important problems which have been mapped out for solution by the league for the coming year are: Co-operation with other organizations of the Northwest in an effort to secure reduction of freight rates; the arrival at a better understanding of the fruit wiping question with less stringent regulations and numerous other matters of vital interest to local fruit growers.
