ARMORY BEING EQUIPPED FOR WINTER SPORTS

things necessary for relaxation and taking things easy.

In addition to numerous officers' and other rooms for strictly military purposes, there is a ladies' rest room just off the main auditorium. The auditorium itself is now furnished with 700 chairs, 300 of which have been recently purchased. These is a large stage and several dressing rooms, an electric spot light and device for flooding the main floor with colored lights.

Where did the artillerymen obtain all the money to make the improvements named? Partly from the proceeds of dances and other entertainments and party from state funds. Two thousand dollars was received from the latter source. Captain Briggs is a member of the general staff, which has charge of all the armories of the state, and well represents Southern Oregon. In the management of the local company, Captain Briggs is ably assisted by Lieutenants H. T. Elmore and Clyde

Young and several sergeants. Homer Billings is the company clerk. The Ashland Armory was built about eight years ago at a cost of $30,000, the city paying one-fourth of this amount and the state the remainder. If built now, it would probably cost double this sum. The walls need kalsomining and other repairs and improvements. The First company now number about seventy enlisted men and officers. About twenty guardsmen are out of town during a good share of the year, attending college.

VINING THE THEATER BEAUTIFUL FRIDAY—SATURDAY A CERTAIN RICH MAN William Allen White's Story of the Kansas Wheat Fields DO YOU KNOW WHO THE AUTHOR MEANT? He calls the central character in this fascinating narrative, "John Barclay." In reality "John Barclay" is one of the best-known figures in the United States—a man whose name is a household word in every home. With a pen as keen as a surgeon's knife, William Allen White has written the history of this man—traced his life from its beginning until the present day—a day which finds him as well-known as President Harding or Billy Sunday. See the picture—and see if you know the man. Also a "Ham" Comedy "THE GREENHORN" 220 FOURTH STREET
