Alfalfa Growers Use Sulphur—The time is drawing near when it will be too late to apply sulphur to alfalfa and get the desired benefit next season, according to C. C. Cate, county agent. Attention is called at this time to the farmers who expect to apply sulphur to their alfalfa, as the best results cannot be obtained if it is not applied within the next thirty days. Plenty of sulphur is now on hand at the Farm Bureau exchange, and every farmer who has alfalfa will do well to use about 100 pounds to the acre on all leguminous crops.

Catholic Church Permits a 'Mixed Marriage' in Denver

CATHOLIC GIRL AND PROTESTANT YOUNG MAN GRANTED SPECIAL DISPENSATION; AGE-OLD CHURCH CUSTOM BROKEN

(By International News Service) DENVER, Colo., Dec. 31.—All precedent in Catholic church custom in Colorado was broken today when Verner Z. Reed, Jr., and Gladys Quantell were united in marriage in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. Father O'Dwyer.

Reed is the son of the late Verner Z. Reed, one of Denver's wealthiest men. Miss Quantell is a former resident of New York City.

Young Reed is a Protestant, and his bride is a member of the Catholic church, and the so-called "mixed marriage" before the altar of a Roman Catholic church has created extensive comment.

Today's ceremony, according to prominent Catholics, marks an innovation in ecclesiastical procedure in the Catholic diocese of Colorado. It has been generally understood that no Catholic can marry one outside the faith without a special dispensation. This dispensation, it is said, has never previously permitted the contracting parties being united within the portals of the church.

A "mixed marriage" may be performed by a priest of the church in the home or in the sacristy of the church, but not before the altar, according to rules laid down by Catholic clergy.

In explaining the situation, Bishop J. Henry Thien, D. D., of the Colorado Catholic diocese, issued the following statement: "The Reed family asked the privilege of having the ceremony performed in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, and in appreciation and gratitude, I saw fit to grant the request."

"Mr. Reed is not a Catholic, and the procedure of allowing the 'mixed marriage' before the altar in the cathedral is against church custom. The dispensation, however, was granted in appreciation of the great gifts given this parish by the bridegroom's father, the late Verner Z. Reed, who was not a Catholic at the time the gifts were made, although he died a member of the faith."

"We expect much from a Catholic, but from a man not a member of our church we have no right to expect anything, and Mr. Reed was lavish in his assistance to the cathedral."

"The man or the community that can show no appreciation and no gratitude is, indeed, to be pitied. They are beautiful things."

Young Reed resigned from Yale university two months ago upon the announcement of his engagement to Miss Quantell.

One Day More
Just one day more, and 1922 will be occupying the center of the stage. It's a fine time to look back over 1921, particularly in the direction of finances. Perhaps it was hard to save this past year. But the purchasing power of money is gradually increasing, and every drop in living expenses means that much more for savings.
We hope 1922 will see a big growth in many First National bank balances, and many new accounts opened.
