Renewed Subscription—

C. P. Bates, of Manteco, Calif., has sent in his renewal to the Tidings for the ensuing year. Mr. Bates will be remembered by his many Ashland friends as having operated the transfer business now owned by Mr. Whittle. Mr. Bates writes that he has about 500 hens and is getting from 20 to 25 dozen eggs a day, three fourths of which are going to the hatchery and bring ten cents more on the dozen than market quotation prices. He expects to have 1000 small chickens by the middle of February. He further states that they have a garden nicely started and are using head lettuce, beets and carrots.

Revenue Collector to Come—

George Hewett, federal deputy income tax collector, will be in Ashland in an advisory capacity February 11 to 16 inclusive. Mr. Hewett will be at the city hall and will gladly give any information desired. He states that these taxes must be paid early in March.

PARTY GIVEN FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Round the year with the young women's class of the Presbyterian church was the entertainment furnished by the hostesses, Mesdames Leslie and Icenhower at the home of the latter, Tuesday evening. Resolutions were made to start the New Year; the cherry tree was cut down in February; an overhead Irish potato race occurred in March; a sale of Easter bonnets marked April; a spring song heralded May time; a hasty wedding trip was taken in June; the immortal Declaration of Independence was read on the Fourth of July; August camp life enlivened with a story; September was given over to music; a most weird witch swept fortunes down from the sky on Halloween; Armistice day was ushered in with noise, and Christmas brought a veritable feast of tiny hot biscuits and creamed chicken and other goodies.

Miss Emery's side won the most points in games and were entertained by a graceful stunt by the losers. Prof. Eugeni performed some wonderful magical tricks. Miss Rogers' readings and solos by Mrs. Ashcraft and Miss Allen were delightful features, and when the guests did depart, it was conceded that seldom is there crowded into one evening such a lot of real wholesome fun.

ABSORAKA COMPANY SETS UP NEW WELL

A 28-star drilling machine has been set up by the Absoraka Oil company, on the northeast quarter of section 34-15-30, where a well will be drilled for the Oregon-Cat Creek syndicate. The location is about a half mile southwest from the Frantz-Homestake producer in section 26. The water supply will be taken from the Frantz deep test well in section 27, by bradenheading the flow between the casings so as to provide the force to put the water through the two-inch line without the use of a pump.

The Absorka, which had made location for a new well one offset east of the Oregon-Cat Creek location, will not drill its own well until after the completion of the test for the Oregon-Cat Creek company. Well-informed oil fields opinion holds to the theory that in this location a field of considerable magnitude will be developed.

The owners of the Oregon-Cat Creek syndicate are Ashland and southern Oregon people with offices in Ashland.

Early in the sixteenth century, wooden rails were laid in certain English collieries, over which a cart loaded with coal could be drawn by a horse. This was the crude beginning of railways. Later a strip of iron was laid on top of the rail, and about 1767 rails made entirely of iron were introduced.

RECORD OF WAR DEPT. SUPPORTS WATSON CHARGES

the body was placed quickly in a coffin and so far as he recalled the rope and cap were not removed. But in both cases, other witnesses declared they were removed before the bodies were prepared for shipment home.

Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, whose charges concerning illegal executions led to the investigation, attacked the burial of men hanged for "unmentionable crimes," alongside of soldiers who fell in battle. Asking a witness if white men and negroes were buried in the same part of the cemetery, he was told that they were—that all were soldiers.

Taking up the charges of ex-service men that bodies shipped here from France were handled in helter-skelter fashion, officers and men attached to the graves registration service declared that there was no foundation for such assertions and insisted that not one body was sent home until identification had been positively established.

John Sebastian, a sailor of Jacksonville, Fla., told how, when in a prison at Gieves, he saw the bodies of two negroes lying face down on the ground and was informed by the guards that two negroes had been lynched. He was unable, however, to say whether the bodies were those of the men put to death by a soldier mob.

The committee went into hanging methods as part of its general investigation. Disagreeing with witnesses who preceded him, Richard C. Sullivan of Somerville, Mass., an assistant embalmer with the graves registration service, declared he saw two bodies taken up with rope and black cap intact.

"Was there any evidence that the heart and brain were removed from the bodies of the men hanged?" asked Senator Watson.

"I did not notice," answered the witness.

AMERICAN LEGION

day of political bickering, unrest and reconstruction, let it be said that their buddies did not give up the spirit, but "carried on," that they gave their all for a clearer vision of right and wrong, for cleaner politics, for a better, bigger humanity.

The American Legion can do more for ex-service men than any other organization known. Join up.

The monument committee has just been informed that the Elks' lodge and the Shriners have donated most substantially toward the fund being raised for the beautiful public monument to the heroic comrades who died in all our wars. The committee are overjoyed at the splendid results of their labors.

The Clement Summers unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, Ashland post, is a very much alive organization. A splendid staff of officers for 1922 took their chairs at the last meeting. They are: Mrs. P. K. Hammond, president; Mrs. B. M. Heath, vice president; Mrs. Mary Broker, recording secretary; Mrs. Verne Carey; Mrs. Nellie Dunn, treasurer.

The unit has set a mark of 100 per cent membership for this year, if hard work can accomplish it. No next of kin to any ex-service man can afford to be a slacker. The war of powder, gas and torpedoes has been won, we hope, for all time. The battle for the preservation of American ideals, by education and standing four-square for everything that makes for the best interests of our country and for the honor of our flag, is still on. The Auxiliary of the American Legion has a wide field of work. Those eligible to membership are mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of members of the Legion.

The first of many activities, in a social way, for the year, is a dinner to be given next Friday evening at the Armory. All ex-service men, whether in the Legion or not, are invited. Also, all ladies eligible to the Auxiliary are to be welcome guests. It will be much appreciated if those who expect to come inform Mrs. S. A. Peters, chairman of the committee, by telephone or otherwise, so that enough plates may be laid. But come anyway. Mrs. Peters may be reached by calling No. 641-Y.

It is rumored that roast pork, apple sauce and lemon pie and the other good things on the menu do not half tell the story. Guests may be toasted, though only the pork will be roasted. The committee hints that though unable to secure Mile. Fifi, the dancer, for the occasion, a real French chef may preside over the kitchen. It is said that Victor Mills, who is some little chef himself, is to fry the toast. Why not pass up other engagements for that night? Friday evening, January 20, 6:30 o'clock, at the Armory.

—Jennie L. Hogue, Publicity Chairman.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 17—

The most important meeting of the American Legion ever held between national conventions will be called in this city January 20 and 21, to arrange for a census of every ex-service man and woman in the country. The plan that National Commander Hanford MacNider will present to delegates calls for personal interviews by Legion canvassers of all veterans.

C. R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' bureau will come as the personal representative of President Harding, and Federal Judge K. M. Landis of Chicago, will be one of the speakers. All state commanders, adjutants and national executive officials will be present. Representatives of the war and navy departments will also attend. The national executive committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, an organization of women relatives of Legion members, will meet concurrently.

The census will be known as a service and compensation campaign and is modeled after the "Iowa plan" successfully used in that state when Mr. MacNider was commander there. After approval by the convention, the census will be undertaken at once. The country will be divided into districts, with a Legion committeeman to supervise. Districts will be small enough so that thorough canvassing can be assured. Legion volunteers will work under the committeemen and will visit every house and interview every veteran.

Questionnaires will be used to ascertain, first, what form of adjusted compensation is preferred of the five offered in the pending federal bill; veterans have the option of cash payment, paid-up insurance, vocational training, aid in buying a home or aid in settling land. Mr. MacNider has a plan whereby veterans will be given the option of turning their compensation payments into a general fund, to be administered by the Legion and out of which loans will be made to disabled, unemployed or needy comrades. He believes this fund will total several million dollars. Canvassers in the census will ascertain how many veterans will lend money to this fund.

The subject of unemployment also will be considered at the convention and some means devised whereby the Legion can assist nationally in placing ex-service men in jobs. A committee will bring in a report on the memorial proposed in honor of the late F. W. Galbraith, who was killed while serving as Legion national commander.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Because he had not his commitment papers, Wallis D. Willis, a disabled soldier, was turned away from government hospitals to wander in the streets of Washington until overcome by exposure. Roused by Willis' treatment, the American Legion is starting a vigorous investigation of red tape evils.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Money received by the United States from foreign countries in payment of debts would go to ex-soldiers under a bill introduced in the house. This measure supplements the American Legion's adjusted compensation bill.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—To lay proper emphasis on the five optional provisions of the pending adjusted compensation, the American Legion will present its case before every chamber of commerce in the country. The hue and cry raised against the "cash bonus" clause in the bill has befogged the issue, Hanford MacNider, national commander, charges.

Appointment of Senator McCumber, author of the bill, as chairman of the finance committee of the senate, is expected to speed up congressional action on the measure.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The 43,262 good deeds to unfortunate buddies performed by American Legion posts of Minnesota in 1921, cost $75,000. The list does not include 21,000 cases wherein hospital treatment, back pay, vocational training, and compensation were secured for disabled men.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Ex-soldiers who have lost their discharge papers will be able to obtain duplicates from the secretary of war under a bill introduced into congress at the request of the American Legion.

FEEDING THE LAYERS

Keep dry OLYMPIC BUTTERMILK EGG MASH or OLYMPIC EGG BUILDER in self-feeding hoppers before the birds constantly. See that the hens eat at least as much dry mash by weight each day as scratch grain. The mash is very largely the egg builder, and hens may eat 55 to 65 per cent of OLYMPIC BUTTERMILK EGG MASH or OLYMPIC EGG BUILDER. Don't mix anything else with Olympic laying mash. Feed only enough OLYMPIC SCRATCH in deep straw litter to keep the fowls active and supply the necessary body maintenance. The amount of scratch will vary with kind of hens, weather, season and production. Ordinarily, 8 to 12 pounds of grain per day to 100 hens will be required. Feed by judgment, not by weight or measure. Feed about one third of the daily grain ration in the morning, and two thirds at afternoon feeding. Watch the hens and feed according to demands. Old hens and retarded pullets can often be boosted along by an additional moist mash feed once a day. Mix the straight egg mash just crumbly with water and feed in troughs about noon. Feed only what will be cleaned up in about 30 minutes. There should always be an unlimited supply of green feed, grit, shell, charcoal and pure water.

We are confident that Olympic Feeds are "FOREMOST IN THE FIELD." We know that they are scientifically made and are serving satisfactorily all users. Buy them from your dealer.
