JACKSON COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN CONVENTION

By MRS. C. F. KOEHLER
The Pilgrims wrought with a far vision when they built, first homes, then the church, then the school—a perfect triangle, and "set the child in the midst." Later they made the triangle a square by making the community house for the town meeting—the state. So the child should grow to citizenship with all these forces, building into his character, each adding its share of protection, guidance, experience and wisdom, until he attains the full measure of the stature of God in Christ Jesus, a Christian citizen.
The shock of war, the consequent immortality and the lowering of standards, have awakened the best educators, churchmen, statesmen and parents to the fact that there have been weak places in these defenses; homes have failed to render all their share; schools have been lacking; the state has sought the material often at a very high expense; the church has failed to make the spiritual and moral so permeate the other three that the unity of purpose might be kept clear and the desired results reached.

That the church is alive to its task is evidenced by the tremendous work being done in Christian education. The Sunday school forces are awake as never before, and with a sure faith in the power of God's word to make of our boys and girls citizens four square, are bringing to their task, enthusiasm, intelligence and faith. Get into the home and assist the parents in training the child, in the word and in prayer, to enter the schools and learn normal and psychological methods of teaching the word, to clasp hands with the parents and teachers and insist that the child is a three-fold nature—body, mind and spirit, and that it must have a three fold culture; all three co-operating with the state to give every soul the best chance to grow into citizenship worthy of our inheritance.

The Jackson County Sunday School association at its initial session in the Ashland district seemed to have caught this spirit in full, as evidenced by the splendid attendance the earnest spirit, the unflagging interest and the good fellowship.

Rev. Oldfield set the assembly in tune with the opening moments of devotion with the text, "Let this mind be in you that was also in Christ Jesus." Each speaker through the day's busy program, had a definite message, the speeches being short, pointed and inspiring.

The noon time lunch was enjoyed by 50 delegates and the attendance at each session far exceeded the number hoped for.

Messrs. Bickerdyke and Robison, who worked so hard to start the institute, deserve high praise, and the splendid co-operation of the superintendents of the Sunday schools, the spirit of the new Bible School union, made each teacher glad to be part of it.

Rev. E. P. Lawrence and Mr. Mor-doff of Medford, as good neighbors, gave splendid help. Dr. Van Nuys, field secretary; Miss Parker, state secretary; Mrs. Essen, Bible teach-stand the scientific inventions of the white race. Still, there remains the possibility that the white race might be swamped in time."

To qualify that last statement Mr. Burbank cited the facts that in the semi-savage races the weak are weeded out by cold and illness, but that in the case of highly civilized people, such weaklings are petted through life. "By our insane asylums and medical science in preserving the weak, we are enabling them to barely exist and reproduce themselves," he said.

"Still," he continued, "with the present-day scientific inventions, civilized people are long lived, because they make the forces of nature labor for them and hence, all survive in the end, I believe. The fight for supremacy in the civilized races has been transferred from the physical to the mental. No call is sent out for brute labor, but for persons who can lead."

As a tribute to their famous miles away. Gallon in those days townsman, the citizens of Santa Rosa have acquired a location here, and a memorial garden to Burbank will be laid out. Luther Burbank has promised to donate some of the prominent creations as his tribute to that shown by his fellow citizens. The garden will be open to the public and will be one of the most unique in the world.

PRES. WARREN G. HARDING RECALLS "GOOD OLD DAYS" here to pay you, but I want to go up to Cleveland to see a show. How about letting me give it to you next week?"

"It looks to me," he said, "if you have got money enough to run around to shows you ought to have money enough to pay your help."

"Well, that made me mad, so I said: 'All right, take it.' But I decided to go anyway."

"I knew all the railroad boys on our division, so we went down to the station and climbed on the train for Cleveland, I with our $6, one pass made out to Warren G. Harding, and another to George T. Harding, my father."

"He Knew Me and Twas All Right" "When the conductor came through in time for Bill's using my father's pass. He knew me, and it was all right. Everything looked rosy."

"Then we got to Gallon, twenty was the division point. They changed conductors there. When the new conductor came through I repeated my explanation. But it didn't get anywhere.

"Two-sixty," said the conductor, "or off you go."

"There wasn't anything to do but pay it. That left us $3.40, and we landed in Cleveland with $3.40."

"We went straight to the theatre and bought two seats at a dollar apiece. That left us $1.40, and a hundred miles from home."

"I don't think I ever enjoyed a show more. Nor did Bill. We just fairly revelled in that show. We forgot that we had $1.40 and were a hundred miles from home."

"Never Did Dollar Look So Big"

"Coming out of the theatre we started down the street, figuring how we were going to get something to eat and a place to sleep and get back home.

"Looking for a match or something I poked my finger in my watch pocket. And there, long forgotten, was a one-dollar bill. Never did a bill look so big. It was monumental. That gave us $2.40."

"Well, we went down to an old but very good hotel, and with my heart in my mouth I asked how much it would be for us to spend the night, two in a room. The clerk said a dollar and a half. We took it."

"Next morning we rose, paid our bill, had a substantial breakfast for 25 cents apiece, had our shoes shined and purchased the morning papers.

"Then came the question of getting home. We went down to the station, and I said to Bill: 'There's nothing to it now. You are George T. Harding and that ends it.'

"Well, sir, we went through flying. The conductor never glanced at Bill, posing as my father, and we landed in Marion some hours later, still with ten cents."

"There we had gone one hundred mile from home, attended a theatre, slept in a good hotel, had breakfast, had our shoes shined and read the news of the world in a leisurely fashion—all for less than $7."

"And those," sighed the president of the United States, "were the good old days."
