

LOCAL AND PER.

Home from Portland—Rev. P. K. Hammond returned home this morning from Portland, where he has been attending a convention.

Wanted to rent an up to date house of about five rooms. Ashland Realty Company. 123-2

Old Friends Visit—Walter Jones is here visiting his old friend and school mate, T. N. Fleener. It was a pathetic scene when the two met after 48 years.

Able to Leave Hospital—O. E. Rohrke, 263 Seventh street, who has been in a local hospital the past week, returned to his home last evening much improved in health.

Prices always the lowest at Detrick's—not up today and down tomorrow. We buy for cash and sell for cash. That's why we sell for less. Detrick's Groceteria. 124

Visits from Rogue River—Mrs. Priest, of the Allen apartments, returned home from Rogue River yesterday, accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Priest of that place. Mrs. J. H. Priest returned home in the evening.

Health Bread. Pure Malted Milk Twins—10 cents

Our Snow—Reports from Medford show that only a very light fall of snow was experienced there Thursday night, and that is entirely gone now. Reports from Siskiyou are to the effect that they have only about six inches of snow at that place, and that machines are wending their way over the top of the Siskiyou daily.

Ashland Hotel Guests—The following parties are late arrivals at the Hotel Ashland: K. A. Mather, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Atchison, Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. M. Ashley, H. E. Hardy, W. W. Woodruff, F. B. Emmons, J. L. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sylvia, and Mike Majors, Portland.

Don't Forget for Sunday—Oranges, lemons, bananas, grape fruit, apples, celery, cauliflower, head lettuce, cabbage, turnips, carrots, parsnips and more of those delicious Louisiana yams. Detrick's Groceteria—prices always the lowest. 124

Taken to Hospital—L. Scott of Salem came to Ashland and returned on train 16 Friday. He was accompanied on the return trip by Frank Penniston, who is going to a hospital at Salem for treatment.

Not cash today and credit tomorrow. Always cash and always the lowest. Detrick's.

Make Moves—J. F. Butler, who recently sold his property at 886 A street, has moved to 368 Otis street. T. H. Elliott has moved to 468 Helman street. W. L. Hart, the Fourth street restaurant man, has moved his family to 299 Scenic drive.

Prominent Banker Stops Over—Mr. and Mrs. M. A. M. Ashley, of Portland, stopped over night here last night. Mr. Ashley is a prominent banker of the Rose City. They will be gone several months, visiting various points in southern California.

Genuine Chicken Hot Tamales. The Fountain. R. R. Porter, Prop. 90tf

Brother Dies—Mrs. J. M. Morgan, of Mountain avenue, received word yesterday that her brother, who resides near Sheridan, was dead. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left for there on train 16 last evening.

Mount Ashland flour, a hard wheat blend. If your grocer cannot supply you, call at the Ashland Mills. 125-1

Fine Enlargement—Bert H. Hinthorne took a number of photographs of the ice in Lithuania park a few days ago, and now has one of them enlarged and colored and on display in his window. It is certainly a typical winter scene.

Business Meeting—The Christian Workers Band held a business meeting last evening at the Methodist church. A report of the calendar sales was given and some new lines of service outlined. The next meeting will be February 5 at the Congregational church at 2:30 for drill on Bible and personal work.

v. Champie Interests Large Audience

The revival meetings at the Christian church are starting off with splendid interest. Last evening, in spite of the inclement weather, the house was well filled. The large choir under the direction of Mr. Gilmore, sang in a way that gives promise of excellent music all during the meetings.

Rev. Champie brought forth in her sermon on "How May I Know That the Bible is the Word of God," unanswerable arguments from both the Bible itself and profane history, that the Bible is an accurate and true record of the Creator's dealing with mankind.

Tonight, she will tell about the "beginning of things." Are you in doubt about the origin of man? Do you fear that your ancestors used to swing by their tails from a cocoon tree? Come and hear this sermon. Come early. We begin promptly at 7:30 every night.

Carnegie Heroes

JULIUS HASSEL, DECEASED (Father), North Farms, Wallingford, Connecticut

Bronze medal to the father—Hassel, aged 15, student, died attempting to save Nathan Dorman, 31, designer, from drowning, Wallingford, Conn., August 12, 1920. Dorman waded into deep water in the North Farms millpond and sank. He rose 15 feet from the bank. Hassel waded and swam to him, but Dorman grasped him before Hassel could take hold of Dorman, and both sank and were drowned.

ROBERT STEWART

42 William Street, New Haven, Conn. Bronze medal—Stewart, aged 54, street car conductor, attempted to save Rugiero Curci, aged nine, from electric shock, New Haven, Conn., August 14, 1918. Rugiero picked up the broken end of an electric light wire which carried a current of 2500 volts. He was knocked unconscious and fell across the wire. Stewart, wearing a pair of very old rubber gloves, attempted to separate Rugiero from the wire, but was immediately shocked and fell unconscious on the wire. Stewart was rescued by two young men, who dragged him away by means of a strap. Rugiero was fatally injured. Stewart was severely burned on his hands and knees and one of the fingers of his right hand had to be amputated. He was disabled 30 weeks.

Bridge Club Meets—The Wednesday evening bridge club met at the home of Mrs. O. W. Long on East Main street Wednesday evening. A delightful time was had at bridge and light refreshments were served. Mrs. Elsie Churchman ran up the highest score, and Mrs. Roy Hale won the booby prize. Those present were the Mesdames J. C. Poor, J. R. Lily, J. D. McRea, Roy Hale, Buy Jacobs, Walter Frulan, Elsie Churchman, Shutts, Bevington, Dryud, McVicar, O. W. Long, and Miss Elsie Alexander.

Leaves for Klamath—Rev. W. L. Van Nuys, of Portland, who has been assisting in the series of Sunday school institutes in Jackson county, left for Klamath Falls this morning for a similar service there.

MARY A. ROLFE, OF O. A. C., LECTURES TO H. S. GIRLS

Mary A. Rolfe, dean of the girls at the Oregon Agricultural college, arrived in Ashland Friday morning from Corvallis for a three day stay. Yesterday afternoon she delivered an address to the high school students, emphasizing in particular the duties and responsibilities that they, as men and women of the world, would soon have to assume and endeavored to make these students of today realize that they must get ready to handle the problems of tomorrow. Dean Rolfe spoke along the line of encouraging attending college and gave the proportion of successful men and women as one who completed common school, 80 who have a high school education, and 800 who complete a college course.

Dean Rolfe served overseas as a Red Cross nurse, and as there is no dean of men at O. A. C., quite frequently comes in contact with men of the college who have seen overseas service.

All social affairs of the students must be arranged for through the dean's office, which assures the parents of students that only parties with her approval are allowed. She further stated that she believed the O. A. C. is a type of school unsurpassed by any school in the United States in that it has all of the refinements of the exclusive women's schools of the east, and all of the advantages of the schools of the middle west. Dean Rolfe is now serving her first year at Corvallis and is delighted with the work there.

Saturday afternoon she received a number of ladies at the high school home economics bungalow on the Boulevard. She will appear at the Sunday school hour at the Presbyterian church tomorrow.

SAVES COSTLY BOOKS

Blotting Paper Used to Prevent Loss of Priceless Library.

Collection of Books on China Had Been Soaked With Sea Water During Visit of Tidal Wave to Jap Port.

London.—The late Dr. G. E. Morrison, correspondent of the London Times at Peking, had collected a splendid library of books relating to China which he sold to the house of Mitsui in Japan. The Mitsuis, the Rothschilds of the Far East, were about to establish a seat of Oriental study and desired the Morrison books for this purpose. This much is known, but what happened to the library between the books leaving Doctor Morrison's house in Peking and their arrival at Tokyo is not generally known and reads somewhat like a romance.

These priceless volumes were packed by the Japanese agents of the purchaser in ordinary packing cases and made the journey safely through the Yellow sea and were landed at the Japanese port of arrival. The cases were then put into the ordinary warehouses of the port. Then a strange thing happened.

The Japanese port was suddenly visited without warning by a tidal wave of unprecedented force and dimension. All the warehouses were flooded and the whole library was drenched in sea water. It seemed that the damage to the priceless collection of books must be irreparable.

The house of Mitsui, however, is resourceful; every scrap of blotting paper in Japan was secured and literally thousands of hands were set to work interweaving every damaged page with blotting paper. The entire approach to this particular port was blocked with wonderful books being dried—like Bombay ducks—in the sun. The damage, of course, was heavy, but from the literary standpoint the library was saved.

OLDEST MEDAL OF HONOR MAN

Joseph Lonsway of Clayton, N. Y., the oldest holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor, given for bravery under fire. Lonsway will be eighty-five years of age next March, and served with the Twenty-fifth New York infantry during the Civil war.

CAN'T TELL DAY FROM NIGHT

Sun Is on Job Long Time in Newly Discovered Oil Fields of Canada.

Ottawa, Ont.—Residents of Fort Norman oil fields, newly discovered in the remote northwest of Canada along the Mackenzie river, forget whether it is day or night. This is the result of the long periods of daylight.

O. S. Finkle, who has recently returned from there, says he met a native, who asked the time. "It's eleven o'clock," was the reply. "Day or night?" Inquired the native, with a languid glance at the sun, which had been shining continuously several days.

THE TROTTEUR SUIT HAS NEW POINTS OF INTEREST

ONCE more we pay homage to our faithful ally, the tailored suit. It has been rehabilitated, with all the honors of its former prestige restored, for the tailored suit is an absolute essential to good dressing. There are many new points of interest in the up-to-date winter tailor suit. First of all, the fashion powers that be refer to it as the trotteur, a favorite word in the modern style vocabulary. Again, the general consensus of opinion is that it is perfectly proper for the trotteur to answer the requirements of winter with one of the new "cushion" fur collars, and that the semi-tailored suits be heavily bordered and collared with fur. The all-black tailored suit, with trimmings of glossy black fur, is the last word in fashionable attire. Dealers declare they are having difficulty in meeting the widespread demand for black caracul, Persian lamb and American broadtail. Monkey remains a trimming favorite, and suits of cloth or velvet are heavily garnished with this novelty. Very effective black cloth suits for young girls have collar and cuffs of gray squirrel or krimmer, with which is worn a silver or steel link girde. Not all fur-trimmed suits are black, however, for the season abounds in lovely models in glowing rich rust tones, Oriental reds, taupe or beige, contrasted with handsome fur trimmings. For her morning constitutional or shopping tour milady of fashion feels the assurance of correct apparel when she wears a conservative tailored suit of African brown wool velours, collared with Hudson seal, the tie ends finished with fur balls, such as our illustration shows. Her companion indulges in a becoming semi-tailored effect (see illustration) of Pompeian red duvetyn with scroll of matched braid. Use 500,000 Trees Yearly for Safety in Coal Mines

EXPERIENCED mining men say that the average person has greater dread of going below the earth's surface than undertaking excursions on land or sea that actually are attended by greater hazards. It is the thought of being inside the earth that apparently breeds fear. The anthracite miner doesn't consider himself a hero. He goes to his work with no more thought of danger than comes to the man whose occupation is above ground. He enjoys a feeling of security arising from the knowledge that the strength of forests protects him. It's literally true—this reference to the strength of forests. For every ton of anthracite mined, about 70 cents is spent for lumber to insure that mining shall be as safe as possible. As the miners go forward, "timbering"—as it is called—goes forward. Heavy beams or logs are used to build a ceiling or roof. This prevents loose rock or coal from falling on the miners as they work or as they pass to and fro. Similarly, staunch timbers are put in place to form stout walls. So the open space or "tunnel" created by excavation is prepared to resist pressure from overhead and from the sides, up-keep.

ROME MAKES PREPARATIONS FOR CONCLAVE

ROME, Jan. 28.—Orders were given today to speed up preparations for the conclave which will elect Pope Benedict's successor. The officials are working in three shifts making final arrangements. During the day numerous motor trucks loaded with beds, stoves, wash stands, cooking utensils and other household necessities, arrived at the vatican for the use of members of the sacred college and their attaches during the time they are locked up in the vatican.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER DIE IN EACH OTHERS ARMS

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 28.—Mrs. Lellah Langford, aged 58, and her daughter Olive, aged 19, closed every entrance to their sleeping room last night, turned on the gas, and died in each other's arms. A week ago the girl, who has been supporting herself and her mother, lost her position and was unable to secure work. When their funds were exhausted, mother and daughter entered into a suicide pact, police believe.

Yeggmen at Work in Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 28.—Yeggmen early this morning blew the safe at the Roesch Motor company, wrecking the place and escaping with a small amount of money.

WHY—CAN CATS SEE IN THE DARK?

STRICTLY speaking, cats cannot see in complete darkness any more than human beings can. But, owing to a peculiar construction of their eyes, they can make much better use of whatever light there is and, as a result, they can find a way through a room which appears to be very dark. The pupils of a cat's eyes are capable of being enlarged or distended to a great extent, thus letting in every particle of light. Moreover, this enlargement of the pupil takes place almost instantly and there is therefore little apparent hesitancy on the part of a cat which enters a dark room after being in the bright light. The same principle holds good, in a lesser extent, in the human eye, for after we "become accustomed to the dark"—or after the pupils of our eyes become sufficiently distended to allow the rays to enter—we are able to see much more clearly and distinctly than formerly. This, however, takes an appreciable time, while it occurs automatically in the eye of the cat. (Copyright.) Albany considers erection of city hall.
