Sells Home—

Clyde Gammon has sold his place on Second street and has stored his household goods for the present, as he had to give immediate possession.

Business Visitor—

R. E. Banks, who is connected with the Masonic Mutual Life association, is in town for a few days in interest of his association.

Nice Dry Wood? also Blox. Ashland Lumber Co., phone 20. 9247

Visiting Minister—

Rev. E. E. Shelhammer and wife of Atlanta, Ga., will be here on their way to California today, and Rev. Shelhammer will preach at the Free Methodist church tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to C. E. Glazier, of the church. He is an able preacher, it is said, and all are invited to hear him.

Dollar Days—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Hand work and stamped goods. The Needle Craft Shop at the Dew Drop Inn. 127-3

Badly Injured While Trapping—James Beigle was badly injured a few days ago while out in the Dead Indian section of the country trapping in company with Benton Bowers. It would appear that Beigle was walking on a crust of snow which gave way, and he fell through, badly bruising one of his legs, but he was able to proceed on his way at that time. Since that time, blood poison has set in, and it is now feared that it will be necessary to remove the leg.

Health Improving—

Mrs. Ada W. Jones, who has been threatened with pneumonia is considerably improved at this time.

Dollar Days—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Hand work and stamped goods. The Needle Craft Shop at the Dew Drop Inn. 127-3

Missionary Society to Meet—

The Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Miriam Way and Miss Harriet Dayton at their home on North Main street. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance at this meeting.

Moves to Dunsuir—

J. E. Cantrall, who has been living at 2 Beach avenue for sometime, is moving to Dunsuir, where he has been transferred. He is in the employ of the Southern Pacific.

TO THE PUBLIC

Realizing the need in Ashland of a druggess physician who is free to respond to out-of-office calls at any hour of the day or night, I wish to announce that, instead of re-opening my office, I will hereafter treat my patients in their own homes. The home treatments will be similar to those formerly given in my office. Massage, hydrotherapy or vibrations will at all times be used preliminary to the chiropractic adjustments, in that way securing complete relaxation of the muscles and rendering the chiropractic work proper as painless as possible.

I wish also to announce that in again taking up my work in Ashland, I shall specialize in neuritis cases and those troubles originating in the cervical and upper dorsal regions of the spine. These include bronchial asthma, insomnia, severe pains in the back of the neck and head, loss of memory, certain nervous disturbances of the eye, ear, nose and throat, certain arm and shoulder troubles, etc.

The fee for calls between 10 p. m. and 9 a. m. will be double the fee charged for day calls.

MICKIE, THE PRINTER'S DEVIL

LACE TRIMMING VEILS CAST THEIR MAGIC SPELL

MAGIC lurks in the "laces and graces" of the new trimming veils. Even the most demure pair of eyes sparkles in flirtatious mood, when veiled in silken mesh of alluring pattern.
"With every hat a veil" seems to be the spirit of the day. By no means, however, is it an ordinary veil. The vogue is for elaborate lace trimming veils and they are draped and arranged with fascinating grace.
Inspiration for veil arrangement has been drawn from the picturesque peoples of the world. The Spanish influence, perhaps, is reflected most of all, for style creators have selected sunny Spain this season for the well-spring of ideas. The Egyptian vogue which features over-the-ear ornamentation is reflected in the lace drape as is also the Oriental half veiling of the eyes.
Just now, circ black lace, heavily patterned, is very popular. Brown and taupe colored laces are exceedingly smart on black hats. Milliners rely on the transforming power of a drape of lace, for under its transparent mesh the simplest hat is converted into a "creation" of highest achievement.
The illustrations above present three distinct fashions. Egyptian headress is suggested in the drape of the exquisite circ lace veil covering a silver cloth turban, as shown in the circle. The center veil is a novelty, which, as you see, is not intended to cover the face at all but is frankly decorative, imparting a certain attractiveness to the entire costume. The chantly drape in the oval is of exquisite texture and demonstrates the alluring charm of the eyebrow curtain drape. The scarf ends are weighted with huge hollow jet rings. The black lace veiled hat is the leading vogue for dress occasions. At all times these drapes are adjusted for esthetic effect rather than for utility purposes.

Fur hats have eyebrow curtains of gold or silver lace. In these the brims are of the upturned cuff shape. Sometimes gold flowers are bordered at the top rim of the hat, apparently holding the metal lace in place.
The newest black and white interpretation, is for a brim of ermine, over which is thrown a black lace veil, caught with jet pins.
The dinner hat, with transparent metal lace, wide brim, has a cob-web mesh of gold thread, half veiling it, the same falling over the edge, weighted with metal bugles.
Brown lace veils, or brown felt hats, are a popular vogue. Very effective are the black lace veils, bordered with cle-mille dots.

BLACK STILL SUPREME Paris Says It Alone Lends Itself to Striking Effects.

Style Experts Retain Conventional Black as Dominant Motif of All Fall and Winter Modes—Corset Comes Back.

Paris.—Black remains supreme in the fashion world of Paris. Despite a severe onslaught by advocates of color, the supreme council of style has been forced to retain the conventional black as the dominant motif of all fall and winter modes, and there is every indication that colors, except in minor trimming effects, will not be able to challenge black until late spring. French women say black is alone in lending itself to striking effects.

The French women's demand this fall was for black, and the big dress-makers bowed to the inevitable. Crepe Moroccan, velveteen and perillane are the most popular materials.

The corset makers, however, have been slightly more successful in their efforts to bring the corset back into its own. Dressmakers are insisting that corsets are now necessary to give the "uncorseted look." This propaganda has succeeded in some instances, but most French women, having fought and won their freedom, are loath, in the language of a famous French actress, "to jail their bodies again."

There are four definite features of the fall and winter modes—a very long waistline, longer circular skirts with full sides, eccentric sleeves of gay colors and the famous Bateau neck line.

Brick red has been used extensively as trimming, and some green steel ornaments for hats, purses, dresses and even shoes are the newest thing in novelties.

In the case of shoes the usual order of things has been reversed, and the smartest shoes in Paris are "knickerbocker" shoes, with large steel buckles. The short, stubby toe has disappeared.

Black again dominates in hats, felt being the best-liked material. Crowns are much higher, and the fall hats are so big that they interfere with dancing. Smaller hats will be worn with fur coats later in the season.

Circular earrings, usually a circle of jet or ebony within a larger circle, are worn by the best-dressed women this fall.

Gay color has its only opportunity in evening gowns for young girls. These are made in the brightest of colors. The empire period has given the inspiration for the youthful evening dresses this year. The skirts are large, full with hips extended.

CHILQUIN MILLS TO RESUME OPERATIONS; TO EXTEND RAILROAD

KLAMATH FALLS, Jan. 31.—Immediate resumption of the Modoc Lumber company sawmills at Chilquin, with a 14 mile extension of the logging road to tap a new body of timber, was announced here by J. O. Goldwithe, president of the company. The sawmill suspended early last year. Dry kilns and a planer will be added to the mill, increasing the capacity to 135,000 feet a shift. Two shifts will be worked and 400 men will be employed in the mill and camps, not including a large railroad construction force.
Goldwithe predicts a heavy demand for lumber this year at fair prices, and that all mills in this region will operate to capacity.

VISION GIVEN BACK TO BLIND CHILDREN

Amazing and Magic-Like Results from Precious Food Elements—the Vitamins

Vitamines are mysterious. No one has ever seen one. Yet science knows definitely what they will do.

The knowledge of vitamins has been a godsend to countless sufferers of certain diseases which are caused by a lack of one or more of the three vitamins, A, B, and C, in the regular diet.

While experimenting on small animals, learned doctors found that omitting vitamin A in their food caused an eye disease that as bad as the length of its name—xerophthalmia. Giving back vitamin A to the tiny sufferers cured them of the eye disease.

Not long afterwards a Danish doctor found the same kind of eye disease in children, whose war diets gave them little or no A vitamins. He fed these children cod-liver oil, which is rich in vitamin A, and they were cured.

During the war Dr. H. Gideon Wells, an eminent Chicago pathologist, who was in Rumania for the American Red Cross, saw hundreds of Rumanian children going blind. Their food had been only cornmeal and a soup made from bran and vegetables. This diet was lacking in vitamin A.

A shipment of cod liver oil was commandeered by Dr. Wells, who had learned of the valuable vitamin content of that substance. He fed it to the suffering children, and is credited with performing more miraculous cures of blindness than are recorded in the Scriptures.

Similar cures of other diseases have been made in many other parts of the world by supplying missing vitamines—A, B or C. It can be readily seen from this that a correct balance of all three vitamins in our food is necessary for our health and well-being.

For the benefit of people who cannot easily get sufficient vitamins in their food, scientists have found ways to concentrate and condense the three vitamins so that they may be taken in addition to regular meals.

Impertinent Petitions.
When we are invited to a banquet we take what is set before us; and were one to call upon his host to set fish upon the table or sweet things, he would be deemed absurd. Yet, in a word, we ask the gods for what they do not give; and that, although they have given us so many things!—From "The Golden Sayings of Epictetus."
