U. OF W. PROFESSOR TO GIVE ADDRESS

The eighth annual banquet of the Lincoln club of southern Oregon will be held at the Hotel Medford at Medford Monday evening, February 13. The Hon. Clark F. Bisset, professor of law at the University of Washington, will deliver an address on that occasion. His subject will be, "Lincoln as a present power." Prof. Bisset enjoys a national reputation as an orator and no man in the United States has given the life and services of Abraham Lincoln a more careful study than he has given it. The professor is the owner of one of the largest private libraries on the Pacific coast and a division of this library is entitled "Lincolnia" in which there are over 700 different books written of and concerning this "man of the ages." The address will not be along the line of partisan politics, and the committee having the entertainment in charge confidently can promise all who attend the banquet an hour of supreme enjoyment.

A limited number of tickets have been allotted for Ashland and vicinity and can be secured from Harry K. Tomlinson or Thomas H. Simpson.

OLD WOMAN WORKS IN GANG

Helps Repair Trolley Tracks, So Service May Be Resumed.
Mrs. Laura M. Sutherland, sixty-seven years of age, wife of a Grand Army veteran and mother of three children, all married, took a pick and shovel and joined a gang of Italian workmen the other day when they commenced repairs on a street railway track in North Saugus, Mass., so that service may be resumed. Mrs. Sutherland remained on the job until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, saying she wished to do her bit so residents in the neighborhood may have trolley car service restored quicker. "I hope I will be able to put the trolley on the wire and start the first car when service is resumed and have all my neighbors as passengers," Mrs. Sutherland said. The public trustees of the railway suspended service because it was a portion of their lines which did not produce revenue enough to pay for operating.

SAVED BY CHICKENS

Mortgages on Farms Are Paid Off by Their Efforts.
Hundreds of chickens—of the feathered variety—are not earning their "salt," according to farm agents of several counties who met in Emporia, Kan., recently. Lazy chickens should be culled, killed and eaten, the agents declared.
While the stockyard corporations are shouting at the farmer to "hold" his live stock and the farmer finding a bearish market when he does ship it in, the barnyard hen has come to the rescue of the farmer. Chickens are the real "mortgage raisers" in Kansas, the poultry men said.
Statistics show that the egg production in Kansas has increased fully one-third in the last two years.
But farmers who feed lazy hens are working a hardship on their communities and will save hundreds of dollars by getting rid of them, the county agents concluded.

The model state farm commission has spent $55,335 fitting up three farms.
Lincoln county, Or., is suing for $90,000 taxes due on spruce timber.

CONDITIONS ARE NOW RETURNING TO NORMALCY

We hear on many sides that times are not what they should be, and one is inclined to believe some of this talk from varied sources. Our own city is not doing the business that it could do, but we are in so much better condition than many of the larger cities throughout the United States that we have no right to complain. Further than this, indications point to a prosperous year ahead of not only us, but the entire country.

Among other things, Liberty and Victory bonds are nearing par value, a fact that is by no means trivial, for it means that our government is again nearing a real stone foundation, one on which every individual may depend. As a comparison, the third Liberty 4 1/2's were quoted on April 30 last year at $90.44, the highest of any of the Liberty bonds at that date. The same bonds are now quoted at $97.16, a gain of almost $7, with an approximately equal gain on the various other issues. Victory bonds at the earlier date were slightly under $98, and they are now selling at a premium of 24 cents.

A pound sterling before the war was worth $4.86 2/3 in our money, but when the market collapsed two years ago, its value dropped to the lowest ever known, the pound sterling being worth only $3.19 on the fourth day of February, that year. On the same date this year, it was quoted at $4.30 3/4, a gain of almost $1.12. While it is still far below the pre-war price, it is on the upward course, with very little chance of being set back.

Along this line may be noted the gains made on some 18 of the largest and best known stocks on the market of from one to four points, with strong demand for practically all kind of stocks.

The plans of several of the railroads to build extensions and new lines have been noted with pleasure, and Oregon will get her share, if present prospects and plans are carried through to completion.

C. A. BILLINGS AND MEREDITH BEAVER ON U. OF O COMMITTEE

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Feb. 6.—(Special to the Tidings.)—C. A. Billings and Meredith Beaver of Ashland compose the Ashland unit of the Greater Oregon committee of the University of Oregon.

The greater Oregon committee is a university organization of statewide scope for the purpose of interesting high school students in the university, of disseminating information concerning the courses and activities of the institution. It was organized several years ago, and many Ashland students have served upon it, as a result of its activities in Jackson county.
Many high school students do not know what the University school of business administration teaches, that "Bill" Hayward, Oregon's veteran track coach, was one of the trainers at the last Olympic games, or how comprehensive is the work of the University school of journalism. The committee endeavors to give facts about the university to high school students so that they may benefit both themselves and the state by some day attending an institution of higher learning.

With representatives in nearly every city of Oregon the work will reach thousands of high school students. It is but one of the movements in progress today to enlist the young people of Oregon in the cause of higher education.

HENRY FORD BUYS LINCOLN MOTOR PLANT

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 6.—The Lincoln Motor plant opened its doors this morning under the management of Henry Ford, who bought the property last Saturday at the auction sale conducted by United States Judge Arthur T. Tuttle, for $8,000,000, the lowest figure that Judge Tuttle would accept.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, announced that price reductions ranging from $800 to $1200 would be made effective immediately.
