MOVIE HOUSES CLOSED IN D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—Seven theaters, including the New National and Poll's, two of the principal play houses in the national capital, were ordered closed tonight by the board of commissioners, the governing body in the District of Columbia.

The order was issued after an inspection of the playhouses in the district had been completed by a board of five engineers. The inspection was the result of the collapse of the Knickerbocker theater, which caused the death of 98 persons.

Other theaters closed were the Metropolitan, Columbia, Maryland and Foraker, motion picture houses, and the Cosmos, vaudeville and motion picture theaters.

The Metropolitan and the Columbia are two of the largest downtown theaters. The former is owned by the Crandall company, which also owned the Knickerbocker.

Mrs. Stephen Graham and her 13-ounce monkey

(By International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Introducing the latest arrival in Los Angeles social circles:

"Nikko," South American vanity case edition of the midget monkey tribe. The proud possessor of "Nikko" is Mrs. Stephen Graham, a widely known Los Angeles resident.

From next to the smallest species of monkey in the world, it is said, "Nikko" is a convenient pet for shopping tours, daily social gatherings, and the home circle, according to Mrs. Graham.

"He's so small and never in the way, so he is never likely to cause objections in visits, as might be the case with the more ordinary domestic pets," Mrs. Graham stated. "I

ASHLAND TO HAVE NEW FOUNDRY SOON

Axel Hall and Olaf Lindstrom have secured a tract of land lying between Oberlin street and the railroad and coming to a point at Laurel street, and being some five rods wide at the alley and are erecting a building on the ground to be used as a brass, bronze and aluminum foundry.

Both of these men have resided in Ashland for several years and are well known to the public who have had any business with the Ashland Iron Works, as they were employed by that concern until it closed down recently. Since that time they have been looking for a location, and being unable to find a satisfactory location and not being able to rent the Ashland Iron Works, they decided to build a plant of their own. Mr. Hall is an experienced foundryman, having had about 16 years of this class of work.

It is the aim of this firm to supply all the shops, both large and small within a wide radius, all the brass, bronze and aluminum castings that they are able to get orders for, and while they are starting out in a small way, they have room to develop into a large foundry in their present location and will build to their present plant as the needs of the business justify.

Both Mr. Hall and Mr. Lindstrom can carry him in a small bag, on my fur, or even in a vanity case, if necessary."

The little monkey weighs only 13 ounces, and is of a species abounding in the Amazon River country of Brazil.

"Nikko" was captured by Mr. Graham, a local oil man, while the latter was on a prospecting tour of Brazil. He is fed on all sorts of nuts. According to Mrs. Graham he has his likes and dislikes as strongly marked as do humans, but most of the time is very affectionate.

"Nikko" is three years old, but his voice is said to have never improved since early life, resembling somewhat the accents of a squeaky pump handle manipulated rapidly.

have their families and homes here and are asking no bonus, but only the co-operation, patronage and good will of the people of Ashland in their new undertaking and should have all the encouragement possible for the success of their venture.

A good order is already on their books and work will be pushed to complete the factory as soon as possible. It is believed that they will be ready to start business in about three weeks.

BIRTHDAY PARTY AT POWELL HOME IS GREATLY ENJOYED

A very delightful evening was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Powell on Oak street, February 16, in celebrating the birthday anniversaries of the host and his sister, Mrs. William Flackus, and the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Flackus.

The guests at the party were entertained with cards, music and dancing, after which delicious refreshments were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. William Flackus and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Flackus, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gunter, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Flackus and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. N. Erickson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Alden Powell and son, Mrs. Fred Neil, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Powell and son, Mrs. Millon, and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Powell.

SANDS FAILS TO REPLY; WOMAN TELLS NEW STORY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—The woman who claims to know of a bitter quarrel between a woman and William Taylor a few days before the movie director was murdered, was summoned to the district attorney's office this afternoon to tell her story which is expected to furnish new clues in the investigation of the mysterious slaying.

The quarrel, according to the woman, who insisted that her name be kept secret, occurred in the Taylor apartments and worried the director considerably.

Up to a late hour this afternoon Edward F. Sands, missing secretary of Taylor, had failed to respond to an offer of immunity from District Attorney Woolwine. The district attorney said he had no reason to believe the supposed letter of Sands was genuine, but declared his offer of immunity stood irrespective of its genuineness. Police investigators and the district attorney have insisted from the start that they believed that Sands could furnish the key to the mystery.

MARKET BILL IS SIGNED BY PRES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 20.—The Capper-Volstead co-operative marketing bill, which legalizes co-operative associations of farmers and producers for marketing purposes and exempts them from the anti-trust law, was signed late Saturday by President Harding.

The signing of the Capper-Volstead bill, one of the measures especially sponsored by the agricultural bloc, was witnessed by several senators and representatives, including Senator McNary of Oregon. The act limits the profits of co-operative associations to 8 per cent, and stockholders to one vote, no matter how much stock they may hold in any such organization. Its administration is under the secretary of agriculture.

THRILLING TALES OF LIFE IN NEAR EAST

were the center of a long, wearisome Turkish siege. Just prior to the beginning of their confinement within their own walls, 15,000 Armenians, refugees fleeing from the Turks, entered the city begging protection from the American Stars and Stripes.

"The Kurds and Turks called the old tattered flag that flew above our personal house 'a bit of rag,'" says Mrs. Allen, "but it saved thousands of lives, because even the most fearless and blood-thirsty race has respect for the country for which it stands."

However, though the flag made them safe from the sword, it had no effect on pestilences such as typhus and typhoid, and within a few horrible weeks, more than 5000 Armenians, and several of the 18 Americans, died of fever. Mr. Allen lay for many days unconscious with the dread disease, and when the wife of Dr. W. A. Shedd, an American, became ill and died, Mrs. Allen, being the only white woman on her feet at the time, conducted the funeral with Dr. Shedd.

Though 100,000 Russian soldiers were encamped near the little city at one time, Mrs. Allen says that she never knew of any atrocities being committed by Russian soldiers where women were concerned; she also states that in her belief, capitulation of women by the Soviet government is a myth.

200 MINERS GO ON TRIAL FOR MARCH TO LOGAN COUNTY

ers halted near Madison, Boone county, where they were urged to disband by Frank Keeney, president of district 17, United Mine Workers of America.

500 Storm Logan County

A day later a second march was organized, and an army of more than 500 stormed the Logan borders. Logan residents and "volunteers" from many other counties of southern West Virginia took up arms in an effort to halt the march to the upper Guyan coal fields.

The big mine army was held in check until the arrival of United States troops, when it was disbanded. Grand juries in Kanawha, Boone and Logan counties indicted members of the United Mine Workers organization and participants in the march.

Charges upon which the miners were indicted range from "pistol toting" to conspiracy, insurrection, murder and treason.

Charlestown lies about ten miles from Harper's Ferry, where the Brown raids were organized. It is a much-visited summer resort, lying on the Shenandoah river. The population is about 3000 persons. The northern district federal court is held here.

EYES OF TOILERS ON CONFERENCE OF BLOC LEADERS

congress and who are also regarded as "foes of labor."

The following statements made by some of the union labor executives participating in the conference, were intended to express the desire of organized labor to co-operate with the farmer in "bettering living conditions":

"Which Is Outrageous"
"If a fourteen ounce loaf of bread can be sold for five cents, with wheat at two dollars and fifty cents a bushel, then somebody is robbing the public. Wheat has been selling and is selling now for less than one dollar a bushel, and still we are paying ten cents, fifteen cents and twenty cents for bread in Chicago, which is outrageous. The working man is pretty well convinced that it is not the farmer but the middleman, the profiteering wholesaler and the retailer who are to blame."

"The workingmen are not going to complain about the price of farm products if convinced that it is not the fault of the farmer, but the fault of the profiteering middleman and others that handle the farm product after it had left his hands. If we can convince the workmen that it is the profiteer that is robbing the people they will go to any length to eliminate him. The interests of the farmer and workmen are common and we should work together."

William H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists:

"Farmers Must Have Cost"
"Farmers must have cost of production at least if they are to continue to produce. We will be glad to co-operate in getting justice for the wheat growers, as well as in securing the largest practical degree of stabilization of staple farm products, for organized labor is entirely sympathetic with the farmers in their efforts to secure the cost of production."

Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America:

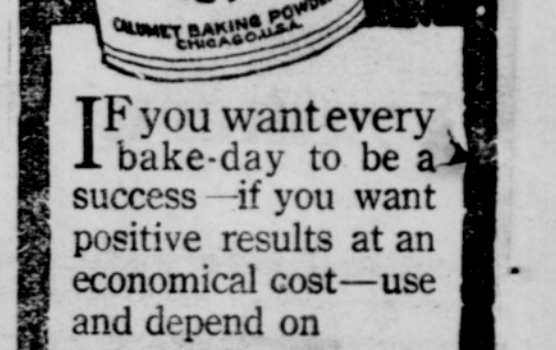

"Unless more attention is given to the farming and industrial part of our population we cannot expect any improvement in the depression that is prevalent throughout the country. With a large proportion of labor out of work and a drive going on to reduce wages below the minimum level necessary for an American standard of living and with our farming population on the verge of bankruptcy, the country is drifting very rapidly into a state of chaos."
