THE MADRIGAL CLUB

The Madrigal club, the Oregon Agricultural college women's glee club, will appear in a concert at the Armory in this city on March 24.

The Madrigal club is composed of 24 college girls, selected for their voices, personality and ability in chorus work.

Some of the outstanding numbers presented by the entire club will be "Monastery Bells" by Lefebure-Wely, "Morning" by Speaks, "Dawn of Love," by Friml—with a first soprano solo,—the cantata "A Midsummer Night," by Paul Bliss. Attractive costumes and varied lighting will produce artistic effects in this last number.

The humorous element of the concert will be developed in various skits and readings. Joys and thrills of college life will be featured in a stunt by the club. Solo dances will be an added attraction.

Stewart W. Tully, club director, is an assistant in the school of music at the college, and is a well-known soloist throughout the state.

"I feel that this concert given by the Madrigal club will be as pleasing as any concert given by any similar organization in the state," says Professor William Frederic Gaskins, director of the school of music. 150-1

WILLS WILL THINK

HE WAS IN ACCIDENT SAYS "KID" NORFOLK

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Kid Norfolk, who fights Harry Wills Thursday night for the colored heavyweight championship of the world, was very much interested yesterday in Jack Kearns' statement that Jack Dempsey was willing to fight the winner of that battle any time, any place. Kearns did not, however, suggest his willingness to fight for any amount of money. The stake will have to be worth while. Anyway, Kid Norfolk passed long enough in his workout at an uptown gymnasium to say that the attitude of Dempsey's manager interested him strangely.

"Mr. Kearns says, does he, that Mr. Dempsey will fight the winner of the mixup with Mr. Wells? All right, that means that some day at Mr. Dempsey's convenience, he is going to mingle with a gentleman who couldn't be told from me should you meet him in the street. I wouldn't be extravagant in my terms. No, sir. In fact, I would almost pay for the privilege of fighting Mr. Dempsey. As for this man, Mr. Wills, he can't do nothing to me. I'm just naturally going to make that man think he has strolled between a motor bus and a trolley car at the minute they collide."

Team Standings to Date

Teams Played Won PC

This is figured on the basis of one unplayed game going by default to the Baptists. Whether this will be allowed or not will be determined by the board of control.

The Presbyterians beat the Baptists 19 to 11, and the Christians defeated the Methodists 13 to 11 in the ninth and tenth games of Y. M. C. A. Junior basketball league at the high school gymnasium Saturday afternoon.

A great deal of credit is due the Baptists, who were beaten in the first game of the afternoon, for playing straight through the schedule, even though losing most of the time. After all, the sport is supposed to be in the playing, while the winning, though desirable, is not by any means the sole motive for participation by the true sportsman.

The line up was: Presbyterians—Leslie, forward; Wagner, forward; Moore, center; Riley, guard; Wentner, guard.

Baptists—Gillmore, forward; Cotter, forward; Carson, center; Butterfield, guard; Oslin, guard.

Referee—Marske.

The Christians defeated the Methodists in the second game by a close score. Both teams did very good passing at times, with the edge in favor of the winners. Neither team, however, was particularly accurate in shooting baskets.

The line up was: Christians—R. Parr, forward; Kanasto, forward; Rose, center; J. Parr, guard; Beeson, guard.

Methodists—Clarey, forward; Ramsey, forward; Heer, Frulen, center; Wolcott, guard; Chatten, guard. Referee—Wood.

The concluding game of the series will be played next Saturday. No decision has yet been reached by the board as to whether the game to have been played between the Baptists and Christians will go as a forfeit to the Baptists, or be played later.

FREE LECTURE The Truth About Russia and the Famine by HULET M. WELLS ORATOR AND LECTURER of SEATTLE, WASH. Just returned from a five months visit to Russia, where he made a tour through the Volga famine region with an official investigating party. bride. Until a year ago she was kept in absolute social seclusion.

Her clothes were carefully chosen for her by her mother, in accordance with their wearing capabilities. They were mainly cut in the fashions of the early nineties. She knew nothing about girlish vanities or frumpieries. She hardly knew what it was to possess a pretty ribbon.

Gradually Gains Liberty

Now all is changed. For twelve months past he has been gradually gaining her liberty and, indulging in her natural taste for pretty things, has shown that not only is she one of the best-looking of English girls, but also that she could be one of the best dressed. Henceforward, with her own fortune, and a husband band of unlimited wealth, she can indulge all her fancies to the highest degree.

Her wedding shopping has proved this. Lovely gowns, beautiful creations in the way of hats, the daintiest of Paris lingerie—all have shown that she is giving full sway to her natural taste for the beautiful.

She has been buying exquisite old furniture, lace worth more than its weight in gold, china sought after by every connoisseur. Above all, she has been purchasing perfumes galore.

Princess Mary adores scent. But she has never been allowed to buy it. She has spent hours gazing at many wonderful little bottles of crystal and porcelain containing delicate scents, but unless someone happened to make her a birthday present, she never possessed one.

And now she is rapidly making up for lost time.
