HARDING WILL TAKE NO PART IN FALL CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—Not only does Harding plan to hold himself entirely aloof from any of the republican primary fights which threaten the party harmony in several districts, but he also plans to take very little part personally in the coming fall election campaign, according to word circulated among republican leaders. The president does not believe there is much danger of democrats capturing control of either senate or house. Furthermore he does not believe it "becoming" that a president of the United States personally engage in the off-year campaigns.

POWER COMPANY PLACES BIG ORDER FOR CEMENT

MEDFORD.—The California-Oregon Power company has placed an order with the Gold Hill Cement company for 10,000 barrels of that company's product. This is approximately a $40,000 purchase. Fifty Southern Pacific freight cars will be required to haul the cement to Thrall, Calif., from which point it will be taken over the company's 14 mile railroad to Copco, where a second 12,500 kilowatt generating unit is being installed. The level of the crest of the dam is also being raised to its full height of 130 feet across the Klamath river.

SWISS FARMERS WILL SETTLE IN OREGON

PORTLAND, March 6.—A party of 500 Swiss farmers is preparing to come to Oregon for colonization purposes, according to Arnold Keller, local leader among the Americans who are of Swiss birth. He has returned from Europe, where he was commissioned by the Swiss government to take up the colonization matter with Governor Olcott. Mr. Keller has called upon George Quayle, general secretary of the state chamber of commerce, and solicited that organization's support in the Swiss colonization scheme. The Swiss government will aid in financing the colonists who come here. Mr. Keller called attention to the fact that there are 5000 Swiss in

Consider the Sports Suit and The First Day of Spring

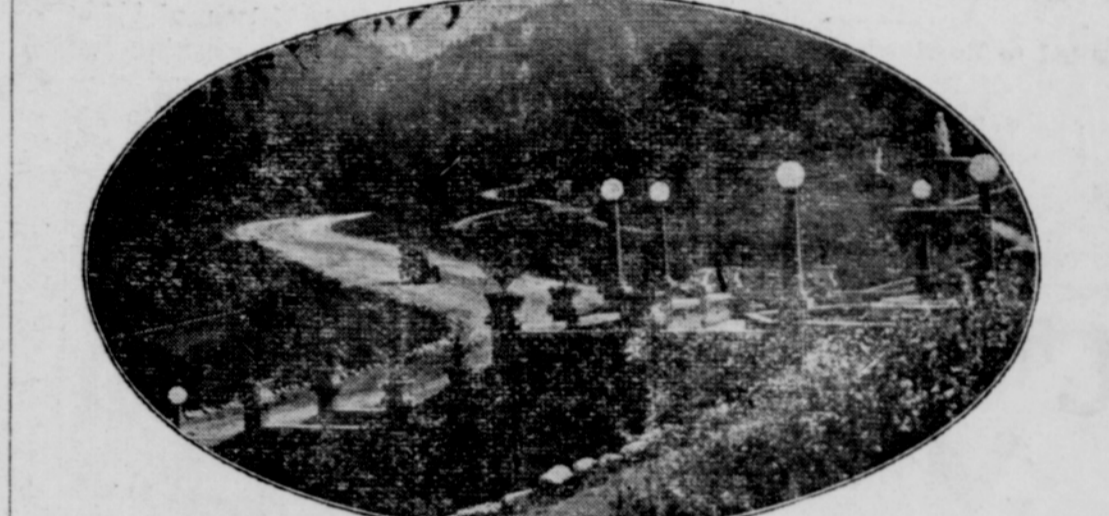

SPRING, of all the seasons of the year, is the one for which one ought to prepare weeks ahead. For it is one of life's most dreadful tragedies to be caught out during the first shining days of spring in one's old winter clothes. It makes one feel so bedraggled and orphan-like and out of key with the universal spring symphony. One should have at least one smart suit and hat to meet the first balmy day when it should fall before the official twenty-first of March, or many weeks after. The little mandarin jacket sketched at the right is a good model to have on hand for such emergencies. It is of brush wool with insets of crocheted woolen flowers bordering the coat and sleeves, and forming the collar. It is loose and smart, and bisque color. It should be worn over a matching skirt in wool or knitted skirt. Brush wool comes in a variety of colors, perhaps the newest and most popular being periwinkle blue. This model would be most attractive in that color. The hat with this jacket is of hand-woven viscra and wool, a very good sports combination of materials. It is being done in all colors, but the pepper and salt and tweed color combinations are the most unusual. For early season week-end motor trips when one simply must have a smart spring motor bonnet and a warm one as well, a practical suggestion is shown in the photograph above. It is worn by Lila Lee in "Is Matrimony a Failure?" a Paramount picture, and is of emerald green duvetyne trimmed in matching wool and faced in a light spring green. At each side on the inside of the hatband there is a narrow scarf snapped on—these can be wound under the chin and once around the neck, impressing a scarf and a hood. And again, they can be drawn up over the brim and passed around the crown and a fashion. And again, they can be snapped at midlady's will and tucked into her coat pocket. The practicality of this model is evident. The sketch at the left shows another short jacket of checked serge, trimmed in perline and worn with a perline skirt. It is in blue and silk and is worn with a shiny grey faille hat.

kept well above expenditures. Because of the refunding operations officials have calculated that the treasury receipts must be kept far ahead of the outgo. The treasury's program now is to avoid entering the money market to make borrowings to aid payment of the government's running expenses. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon points to the reduction in taxes as one of the achievements of the administration. The new tax law will not fully reflect its full benefits to the public until the first full fiscal year of its operation begins July 1, next. President Harding, commenting upon the economies enforced through the methods made possible by the budget system, said that "saving has become fashionable." Two meetings thus far held by the business organization of the government have demonstrated that it is possible to knit the fiscal officers of the government together in a smooth working-co-ordinate unit. Officials predict that the savings of future years will be even more pronounced under the systems set up to limit expenditures. Secretary Mellon declared that further restrictions in expenditures must be effected, if actual heavy deficits are to be avoided. TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY. ABOUT 48,000 TOURISTS CAMPED IN LITHIA PARK AUTO CAMP LAST YEAR (Continued from Page 1) ground, fully equipped with swings, teeters, and boxes, wading pool, and other childish delights. Lithia park is the chosen spot for most of the celebrations and summer conventions in southern Oregon. Lodge, church, school, county and city pow-wows are generally "pulled off" there. The Fourth of July celebration never fails to draw huge crowds from all the neighboring country. Ashland takes great pride in her house and will provide rest rooms, reading rooms and baths, both for tourists and residents. Concerts will be given as usual this summer by Mr. Loveland's band, and regular dances will be held at the dance bungalow. All the play ground apparatus in the park is at the disposal of the visitor. Oregon, and that 89 per cent of them are making good and adding to the development of the state.

BILL INTRODUCED TO IMPROVE HARBORS

WASHINGTON, March 6.—New river and harbor improvements calling for an estimated expenditure of approximately $31,000,000, would be authorized under a bill ordered reported by the house rivers and harbors committee. Major items in the measure, which as approved by the committee, would be introduced by Chairman Dempsey, include an expenditure of $3,310,000 on Coos Bay harbor and Isthmus slough, Oregon; $1,750,000 on the Columbia and lower Willamette rivers below Portland; $1,805,500 on the Sabine-Neches waterway, Texas; $1,371,450 on Oakland harbor, California, and $4,500,000 for seagoing dredges. Other items included: San Diego harbor, Calif., $135,850; Willamette slough, Oregon, $23,350, and Clatskanie river, Oregon, $6,620.

JAZZ MUSIC BLAMED IN ANTICS OF MOTOR TRUCK

UXBRIDGE, Mass., March 6.—An auto truck belonging to Avak Atamian, could not resist the strains of a jazz record and "shimmied" into a stone wall on Granite street. Atamian became excited in rounding a curve when his son, who was holding a victrola in the rear of the truck, put on a real jazzy record. He lost control of the truck and it finally rested against the stone wall. The victrola was taken to a repair shop. Father and son were shaken up.

FEMALE JUDGE FIXES BABY'S PARENTHOOD, THEN RETAINS CHILD

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Judge Kathryn Sellers of the juvenile court has delivered her most difficult decision, in a case calling for the judgment of a modern Solomon. She removed a seven-months-old boy from the custody of two women, each claiming to be his mother, and ordered the baby committed to the care of the board of children's guardians until he reached the age of 21. The strange case was thus disposed of after long arguments and pleading by Mrs. Maria Matteo, of Washington and Mrs. Etta Peck, of Maryland. Mrs. Peck, who is 43, insisted that she bore the child and he was stolen from her and given to Mrs. Matteo, whose own baby had been kidnapped. The court decided that Mrs. Matteo was the true mother, but held that neither woman's home is fit environment and therefore ordered the infant's removal. Mrs. Matteo will be permitted to contribute to the baby's support.

JIM JEFFRIES, EX-CHAMPION BOXER, TO BE EVANGELIST

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—James J. Jeffries is about to "hit the sawdust trail." The former heavyweight champion, victor in memorable ring battles with Jim Corbett, Tom Sharkey, Bob Fitzsimmons and many others, has taken up evangelism, he said today. Jeff, with his friend, A. F. Flutterer, is mapping out an itinerary which will probably carry him through the entire United States. The question of finances will not worry him as in addition to $250,000 in his own right, he is heir to over $1,000,000 from the estate of his mother. The ex-champion, who has been interested in religion for years, is to preach from a book by Flutterer now in the course of publication. The volume is said to be a review in modern English of the new and old testaments, combined with other works of Biblical times.

SENATE FINDS SLIGHT GIVEN BY WAR BUREAU

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, March 6.—The senate has bared its teeth to the war department over an alleged "slight" suffered when the Unknown Soldier was buried. The war department, in charge of the funeral parade, placed the senate far back in the line of march—behind hundreds of clerks and secretaries to bureau heads. The senators brought up the rear of the parade, but withheld protests because of the sacredness of the event. The "slight" however was not forgotten. It was sharply recalled by Senator Ashurst, democrat, of Arizona, on the floor of the senate. "How can this body expect the reverence of the people when the war department offers us a slight and we accept it without protest," he said. "We were last in line when the Unknown Soldier was buried. This illustrious body, the elected of the people, was forced to march behind clerks and secretaries. It was an indignity that made one's blood boil." "Yes, the war department told us to take a back seat," interrupted Senator Robinson, democrat, of Arkansas. "This innocuous body cannot expect precedence over the clerks who run the government."

Popular Stand Changes Hands

The fruit and news stand which has been operated by Mrs. R. S. Jeters for the last several years at the corner of Fourth and A streets, just opposite the Southern Pacific depot, has been bought by Cecil Norton, who took possession last week. The stand will be run along the same lines as in the past and no change will be noted with the exception of the proprietor.
