LIE IN WAIT FOR UNWARY

All Kinds of Get-Rich-Quick Schemes Offered to Visiting Americans in City of Havana.

"Every American in Havana has a scheme to make your fortune and his, too," said a recently returned American, according to the New York Sun. "It makes no difference whether your capital is $2 or a million times that sum, you can find a proposition that will need just the amount you can raise.

"For $2 or $3 you can buy a hive of bees; the bees will swarm the next day and you will have two hives. Keep this process up a few weeks and you will have a thousand hives, and as bees can work the year round in Cuba, flowers being continuously in bloom, each hive will make you $25 and a thousand hives mean $25,000 a year. A neat income even in an expensive resort like Havana.

"If you have a few hundred dollars you will be advised to go into the chicken business and your adviser will tell you how eggs sell at 6 or 8 cents a piece—they don't sell them by the dozen in Havana—and each hen will therefore earn $12 to $15 yearly, while her board will be $3.50 or some such sum.

"If your fortune is up in the thousands you are advised to go into the lumber business and you will be told of the tremendous demand for poles on which to hang tobacco while it is being cured. The American who is explaining the huge profits from these enterprises usually does his talking in a cafe and does his figuring on top of the marble topped tables. The table tops are covered with figures on a busy day until a waiter comes around with a damp towel and wipes off the tables and obliterates the fortunes."

GRAVE COST OF INDECISION

Gap Johnson Tells of Incident Which Should Convey a Moral to the Intelligent Reader.

"My cousin, Hank Buckley, paid $3 for a dog a couple of weeks ago," related Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark., "and directly gave the dog and four bits for a fiddle. Pretty soon he swapped the fiddle and six bits for a shotgun. He hadn't much more than got settled with the gun than he figured he'd rather have a dog than a shotgun, and swapped the gun for a varmint, and the feller made him give $1 to boot. After a spell he got to studying and decided that he wanted a fiddle worse than he did a dog. So he swapped with the fiddle man and gave him $1 to boot.

"Well, he kept this up, sorter like the ragged rascal in the old Third Reader revolved round and round the rugged rock, swapping fiddle or dog or gun, whichever it happened to be, for one of the other things, and giving $1, or such a matter to boot every time, till he was out $19.25, and had the dog. When I seed him last he told me it was a dreadful thing not to be able to make up his mind and keep it made up."—Kansas City Star.

First 'Phone in Vermont.

At a banquet recently one of the officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, while recalling some of the early history of the development of the telephone, mentioned the fact that in the museum of the company at its Boston offices was the first telephone instrument in Vermont, known as the Childs-Chamberlain set of Brattleboro, Vt., dated probably 1873. This came to the attention of C. F. Childs of C. F. Childs Co., who discovered what he did not know before, namely, that the Childs of the Brattleboro telephone was his father. The old telephone bears every indication of antiquity. It is fashioned by hand, and by a diaphragm an old daguerreotype had been used, the picture on which can be clearly seen today.

"Gas Mounds."

"Gas mounds" is the popular name in Texas for the low, circular eminences, averaging 20 feet in diameter and two feet in height, which abound in forest and prairie regions in Louisiana, Texas, southern Arkansas and Oklahoma. On the supposition that the mounds have been raised by ascending gas from subterranean oil pools, they are regarded as indicating oil beneath. A government geologist, who has examined the mounds, disputes this theory of their origin. They occur in many districts where not the least sign of oil or gas has been discovered. He thinks that they owe their existence mainly to the unequal settling of the ground in poorly-drained areas subjected to abundant periodic rainfall.—Milwaukee Sentinel.
