Fraternal Orders and Societies
 Advertising for fraternal orders or societies charging a regular initiation fee and dues, no discount. Religious and benevolent orders will be charged the regular rate for all advertising when an admission or other charge is made.

What Constitutes Advertising
 In order to allay a misunderstanding among some as to what constitutes news and what advertising, we print this very simple rule, which is used by newspapers to differentiate between them: "ALL future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection is taken IS ADVERTISING." This applies to organizations and societies of every kind as well as to individuals.

All reports of such activities after they have occurred is news.
 All coming social or organization meetings of societies where no money contribution is solicited, initiation charged, or collection taken IS NEWS.

Entered at the Ashland, Oregon, Postoffice as Second-class Mail Matter.

LET'S PULL TOGETHER
 A man who had six sons and a considerable amount of property to leave to them, realizing that his days upon earth were numbered, called the sons together and taught them a great example in this manner:
 Having in his hands six sticks, he bound them firmly together and tried to break them across his knee, but it was impossible. He then unfastened them and broke one stick at a time across his knee with ease. "Now boys," he said, you can see by this illustration how extremely easy it was for me to break each one of these sticks separately but when they were bound together it was impossible for me to do so. Now I want to impress this upon your minds as you go into the highways and byways of life that if you face the enemy with an undivided front you will be able to hold intact this property. However, if you become divided, you can see how easy it will be for unscrupulous persons to get control of your holdings."

In national affairs, in state affairs, in county affairs, in city affairs we must have this unity and cooperation among citizens. This spirit of harmony and co-operation must prevail if we are going to do the most good to the greatest number of people. WE MUST "PULL TOGETHER." WE MUST LEARN TO GIVE A LITTLE AND TAKE A LITTLE. WE MUST LEARN TO GUARD OUR ACTIONS AND WORDS WHICH TEND TO BREED DISCORD. WE MUST GUARD AGAINST PERSONALITIES WHEN THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE PUBLIC ARE CONCERNED.

If we pull apart on one proposition and promote factional feeling over personalities or the desire of a few men to dictate public policies, we cause a breach which gradually widens unless checked and all the boasting for public things are in vain.

Let's get the COMMUNITY SPIRIT! Let's pull together in the interest of harmony and progress. It's the biggest thing in the way of public organization we could bring about.

BUY AT HOME
 Not long ago the United States brought back from England the remains of a man and erected a monument to his memory. All that man ever did to deserve such honor was to write a few simple lines, "Home, Sweet Home."

Home is where the heart is, and the home town is where the home is. The home town is what we live in, make it. When you trade with us and we trade you, all of us are building the finest home place on earth. But when we send away for the things we can buy at home, we are helping other people build their towns.

If all of us sent away for all the things we need who would support our schools, build our roads, improve our streets? But why ask such a question? There would be no town, and so no need for streets, roads or schools.

Suppose you look around the old home town and see if you can get what you want at the price you want it.

Lincoln said: "The money we spend abroad is gone, but the money we spend at home comes back to us." Think it over.

Supporting home industries, in this manner is one of the means of building up a community and at this time is particularly important in assisting in the return of greater prosperity.

When time lets slip one perfect day, Oh, take it, for it may not come again.

Anyhow, G. F. Billings saw to it that Lady Geddes was provided with Ashland fruits and flowers.

Prof. Vining, as the escort of Lady Geddes, can certainly lay claim to having rubbed elbows with the nobility.

We hope someone was thoughtful enough to slip a bottle or two of Ashland's lithia in the British ambassador's luggage.

Shop at home. Sell your hammer and buy a horn, for, remember, "the who toothed not his own horn, the same shall not be tooted."

We sure are breaking into the spotlight. Mary Garden, the opera queen, one day, and a scion of the British nobility, the next.

The British ambassador ought to feel at home with the vice president of the S. P., if for no other reason than the striking resemblance the latter bears to the late King Edward. Notice it?

Wonder if anyone thought to ask Sir Auckland if we would get the big hotel and sanitarium. You know he has been mighty close to the vice president of the Southern Pacific railroad on his trip across the continent.

ETHEL BARRYMORE
COMING IN "DECLASSEE"
 It is seldom that an actress, even as secure in the esteem of playgoers as Ethel Barrymore, or a player as widely heralded as Miss Zoe Akin's "Declassee," comes to us preceded by preliminary reports more warmly enthusiastic. The local engagement is to occur at the Page theater, in Medford, Monday night, April 3. In "Declassee," Miss Barrymore occupied the stage of the New York Empire theater for one entire season.

Miss Barrymore in "Declassee," is seen as Lady Helen Haden, a young Englishwoman of aristocratic birth and breeding to whom, through no fault of her own, save an inherited recklessness, unhappy circumstances bring matrimonial disaster. Adrift from her accustomed surroundings, Lady Helen is next seen in New York, the center of a gay group of unusual people. With happiness seemingly almost within her grasp, her adventures in this country come to a close in a final gripping and pathetic note of tragedy.

A splendid company surrounds Miss Barrymore, including Edward Emery, Henry Daniell, Cyril Delevanti, Philip Lord, Charles Wellesley, Hubbard, Kirkpatrick, Alfred Hesse, W. G. Leith, Alfred Le Hay, Irby Marshall, Virginia Chauvenet, Jane West, Gabrielle Ravine, Marey R. De Wolfe, Ina Rorke, Estelle Thebaud.

SOUFFLES
 A souffle is in reality a baked omelet in which the eggs have been beaten separately. The air which has been incorporated into the egg whites causes the mixture to puff up. The general impression that they are difficult to make gives this dish a certain distinction. However, there is no reason why anyone should not be able to make a perfect souffle if the oven is carefully managed.

They should go directly from the oven to the table and it is a wise precaution to cover the souffle while carrying it to the table so that the colder air of the room will not make it fall. The plain omelet souffle is the most difficult to make. Those made with a cooked foundation (a thick white sauce) do not fall so readily. The whites of eggs must be beaten until filled with air and should be folded into the mixture, not stirred or beaten. The souffle is then placed in a moderate oven, where the heated air expands and puffs up the whole mixture. The baking is continued until the air-cells are hardened enough to support its weight and the souffle must be served at once before the enclosed air cools, which causes it to collapse.

When sufficiently baked the souffle will feel dry and firm, like a sponge cake. Deep ring molds are very attractive for vegetable souffles. They may then be turned out on a serving dish and the center filled with creamed fish, sweetbreads, mushrooms or chicken. The vegetables are always previously cooked and either mashed or put through a puree strainer.

The savory souffle offers a variety of luncheon and dinner dishes in which many leftovers can be utilized. It can be made entirely of eggs and vegetables or may have a thick white sauce as a foundation, making them much more substantial and also easier to bake.

All souffles should be served with a sauce of some kind. When mixtures contain a number of eggs beaten separately, they are usually dry and need a sauce to furnish moisture. A little baking powder added to the mixture will greatly help the inexperienced as the tendency to fall will be greatly overcome if the leavening is used.

AMERICAN LEGION

PORTLAND, March 28.—A report on unemployment conditions in Oregon sent to Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, by Harry N. Nelson, adjutant of the Oregon department, disclosed the fact that there are 2100 men registered with the Legion employment bureau in Portland, 900 of them badly in need of work and practically half of those registered either married or have dependents. It is a crying shame, reads Adjutant Nelson's report, that some two thousand veterans of the world war are out of employment in the city of Portland alone.

Posts have been asked to make a survey of the unemployed in their district; co-operate with the local civic organizations; devise ways and means for finding employment for those who have no trade; get the co-operation of the labor unions; county officials and other public officials and bend every ounce of energy to help their more unfortunate comrades.

Appeals have been sent to employers throughout the state to take on additional help, and cities have been asked to inaugurate clean-up and paint-up campaigns.

April 2, the first Sunday in April, has been designated by the American Legion of Oregon, as American Legion Sunday. Each post has been requested by Department Commander Goodell to urge its membership to attend church on that day. On this day the plan is for each post of the American Legion to attend one of the local churches in commemoration of this important event and to show respect to the sacred memory of their honored dead. "Boost the American Legion—Go to Church on Memorial Sunday" reads the proclamation from Rev. Frank James of Dallas, Oregon, chaplain of the Oregon Legion.

For the last two years it has been the custom of the national department of the American Legion to decorate the graves of those who fell in the world conflict and all posts of the Legion will send in contributions through their state headquarters to the Legion fund. While thousands of communities throughout this country will honor the soldier dead, it is the distant graves in England, France, Italy and Russia that are the Legion's peculiar care, reads the communication from Legion national headquarters.

The Legion will be glad to offer its assistance to decorate the graves of those in America who cherish some grave overseas but cannot attend the tribute in person. Funds for this purpose should be sent direct to American Legion national headquarters, Meridian Life building, Indianapolis, Ind., together with information on the name of the dead, rank and organization, army serial number, grave number, lot number, name and location of cemetery and date of death. Full particulars are in the hands of post officials of the Legion posts.
