Will Make Extensive Improvements W. G. Sander, owner of the Ashland Greenhouses, expects to do some extensive remodeling this spring on his greenhouse. He has four small greenhouses which have been in use for over 15 years and which will have to be rebuilt and Mr. Sander expects to tear these down entirely and build one large house in their stead that will have a much larger capacity than the four small houses combined. Some of the latest improvements to be found in greenhouses will be installed by Mr. Sander and he will have sufficient capacity to meet the needs of the entire community in the way of flowers.

DAINTIES FOR THE FAMILY With a few cans of choice pineapple in slices, crushed or grated, one has at hand a delicious base for any number of tasty dishes.

Pineapple Pudding.—Sprinkle one-half cup of sugar over a can of crushed pineapple and set away to become chilled. In an hour drain the juice from the pineapple and reserve this to pour over layers of sponge cake; on each layer place a layer of the pineapple repeat until all the juice and fruit is used. Make a meringue of the whites of two eggs and two table-spoonfuls of sugar, spread over the top and brown lightly in the oven. Serve cold with a cream or a thin custard using the two egg yolks, a pint of milk and sugar with flavoring to taste. Cook the custard until it coats the spoon and chill before using.

Pineapple Puffs.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one and seven-eighths of a cupful mixed with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well and stir in one-half cupful of grated pineapple. Put into buttered muffin tins and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve with the pineapple sirup, using the juice from the can.

Pineapple Sundae.—Line sherbet glasses with lady fingers, put a layer of ice cream, then two table-spoonfuls of crushed pineapple and top this with more cream and a cherry.

Pineapple Marmalade.—Take one cupful of pineapple, three oranges sliced very thin, one lemon also thinly sliced, two cupfuls of sugar, five cupfuls of water. Cover the lemon and oranges with water and let them stand overnight; cook for two hours in the morning, then add the sugar and cook an hour longer, adding the pineapple the last half hour. This recipe makes six jelly glasses or about two and one-half cupfuls.

To can sausage, fry the slices, pack into two quart cans and fill up with the hot fat. Salt before removing when used and the cakes may be taken out without breaking.

Shoot Cable Over River. Telephone and press communication with Portland and points as far north as Montana, cut off recently by the overflowing of the Santiam river, in central Oregon, was restored by shooting across the river a weight to which was attached a light wire.

A projectile gun was used, according to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company. After ten attempts the wire was landed across a 400-foot gap and an emergency cable pulled across.

MEN OF GENIUS NOT "SMART"

English Professor Declares They Are, in Fact, Extremely Slow to Grasp a Point.

Defining "smartness" as the capacity to adjust oneself rapidly to the immediate circumstances, Prof. T. H. Pear, University of Manchester, said at the Educational association's annual conference at University college, that "a genius is usually anything but smart, and he distinguishes himself from the merely smart man, who lives up to the external demands, by refusing to accept the surroundings, by setting about them instead of allowing them to set about him.

"I believe that some geniuses might not achieve the topmost ranks in a good many mental tests, especially in those requiring rapid solution of problems. A genius never sees any complex problem in the same light as an ordinary person and in a mental test may appear to be stupid.

"Some brilliant scientists would make woefully bad hospital orderlies, district visitors or managers of a household. The reason is not that they cannot attune themselves to the situation."

Professor Pear divided people into two classes, the extroverts and the introverts. The extrovert won the V. C. The first class airplane fighter is a specimen of the healthy extrovert, but the mathematician who calculates the plane's stability is an equally healthy introvert.—London Daily Mail.

WILL FIGHT FOR BARGAINS

British Journal's Lament Shows That Women Are Women Though the Ocean May Divide.

A joke that blooms each January and July in the funny papers is the changed disposition of women in sale times. A good deal of it, of course, is just joke, and nothing else, but there is a certain layer of truth at the roots of it. One never does actually see shoppers hitting each other with umbrellas or stamping on the assistants, though on the opening day of the sales recently there were women with firm fingers jerking blouses away from hump, tentative fingers and elbowing through crowds in a manner that even a conductor would regret to see in a street car. Rich silk petticoats spilled off the counters on the dusty floor, and women tramped over them just as though they were clumps of buttercups. Little frail bits of lingerie were lugged at the seams in a way that was simply asking for trouble; flimsy blouses were tossed into crumpled heaps. It seemed scarcely possible that any of the goods displayed could survive the tumult and battle of this, the first day.—Manchester Guardian, Weekly.

Sarcastic. The first step in learning whether your child is properly nourished, we read, is to "weigh the child in kilograms." The kilograms are very light, we understand, but if absolute accuracy is required, you may weigh the child in them first, and then later take 'em off and weigh 'em separately. On second thought, we advise the separate weight in all cases, especially where the kilograms are winter weight.

Reading further, you multiply the result by ten, and then "divide the result by the child's sitting height in centimeters"—just everyday centimeters will do—"and take the cube root of the result, and you will have a figure that will tell you whether your child is properly nourished." Most any architect or engineer in the telephone book will be glad to call and find the cube root for you.—Kansas City Star.

Telephones Aid Forest Rangers. The rangers who police our national forests now are using portable telephones as a result of special perfection and adaptations of this method of communication to timber country requirements.

Each ranger carries a portable telephone as part of his equipment. Wire service is maintained between the headquarters camp, field points and lookout stations.

Instead of the overhead telephone lines, the forest telephone wires hang loosely from trees 10 to 12 feet above the ground so that in case a tree falls on the line it merely will take up some of the slack and not break the wire.—Atlantic City (N. J.) Gazette.
