How to Make a Radio Set

By WILLIAM G. H. FINCH Associate Member Institute Radio Engineers (Written for International News Service.)

NEW YORK, March 31.—Now we come to one of the most important items that enter into the success of any radio station—the aerial, or antenna (means for absorbing or radiating electric magnetic waves, as used in a radio telephone.)

As mentioned in one of the previous articles, an aerial, or antenna, is a conductor supported in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects. There are many types of aerials, such as the flat top "T" type, Fig. 1; inverted "L" type, Fig. 2; umbrella type, Fig. 3. However, most of these types are made up of a plurality of wires (four or six wires, or even more). These types of aerials are used mostly for transmitting purposes; but for receiving purposes only a single wire, suspended in the air and insulated from all surrounding objects, will serve our purpose well.

Two to four insulators, depending upon the conditions that must be met. One porcelain tube. How to Make Aerial The drawings are self-explanatory, and with a little advice you will be able to construct your aerial so as to obtain successful results. First. Always bear in mind that the effectiveness of your aerial and the success that you will derive from your set depend mostly upon how effectively you have insulated your aerial. Spare no pains to do this job right.

Second. Avoid kinks, turns, twists in your aerial and lead-in wire. Third. The aerial or antenna wire can be put through the hole at one end of the insulator and the stay-wire through the other. A lead-in wire can be fastened to any part of the aerial or antenna, or simply brought off as an extension of the main wire. Where the wire runs around a corner of the building, or under similar circumstances, an insulator can be fastened by means of a large screw to a wooden supporting stick. Then the lead can be put through or fastened to the hole at the extended end of the insulator. Fourth. If due to conditions you must cut your wire, be sure that when you make the connection it is soldered. Fifth. If a support can only be found for one end the wire can be run from the house to a short pole 25 or 30 feet high near by. On apartment house roofs, chimneys, pipes and other objects offer good natural supports. The next article will tell all about grounds and grounding.

EXPLOITING TEHAMA BY MEANS OF THE MOVIES

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—Thousands of tourists and travelers in Los Angeles have viewed with interest the olive, orange and fig groves in Tehama county as visualized in a new moving picture taken at Corning and vicinity and sent here by the chamber of commerce of that place.

FIT MATE FOR DARING OUTLAW

Maid Marion by No Means the Least Valued Member of Robin Hood's Brave Band.

Belonging to that shadowy band of characters who hover somewhere in the borderland between fact and fiction, Maid Marion and Robin Hood, whimsical, charming, picturesque people of medieval England, deserve a chapter in the history of happy lovers. Marion was a beautiful, graceful little maid, loving the errant Robin with all her youthful heart. She helped him in his self-appointed task of robbing the rich to aid the poor, and was a thorough little out-of-doors creature. No forest hardships were too much for her. She excelled in archery, was a fleet runner and, in fact, was splendid in every form of sport.

But Marion's family, so the story goes, objected to her union with the country-wide reprobate, and every effort was made to force her to wed a middle-aged man whom she did not love. However, the jolly band of Robin's followers, by employing their ever-ready wits, succeeded in foiling parental plans. Robin Hood and maid Marion lived together in the woods many happy years, known always as the enemies of the rich and selfish and the friends of the poor and needy.

BRINGING BOARDERS TO TIME

Woman Gets Gossip as a Medium for Employing Delinquents to Settle Their Bills.

Many and various are the schemes employed by boarding house keepers to spur collections from delinquent boarders. The latest is to take gossiping, the boarders' own most popular indoor sport, and use it against them. "Easiest thing in the world," declared an exponent of the new system. "All you have to do is spread the news. You just weave it into the conversation off-hand like that ain't it a shame poor Mr. Brown is having such hard luck and his wife so brave, too. 'He owes me for three weeks now,' you say. 'Not that I'd press him for it. But he must be kind of hard put to be hanging up a poor widow like me.' "That's enough. Whoever I tell tells it to some one else. She tells some one else. Soon it's all over the house, and in time it gets back to Brown. That usually brings him around. Few persons can stand it to be talked about."—New York Sun.

HENRY FORD DEDICATES JOHN BURROUGHS MEMORIAL

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 4.—Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and Henry S. Firestone, were among the distinguished visitors here today, at the dedication of the John Burroughs Memorial, on the occasion of the first anniversary of the passing of the great naturalist and author. The old farm on the mountainside, near Roxbury, where John Burroughs was born, was purchased by Henry Ford a month ago for $15,000, and at the same time he established a fund for its preservation as a memorial.

If a young man speaks of what he has done, we call him big-headed. If an old man does it, we call him nutty. If both keep still, we call them grouchy. If they talk, we call them wind-bags. But we—well we are mostly critics and critical and captious.
