THE GREATEST FARMER IN THE WHOLE WORLD

We have recently received a booklet containing an exceedingly valuable and comprehensive view of the operations of the department of agriculture. This article is the ninth of a series, dealing with the activities of our government's various departments which is being distributed free with a view to stimulating an intelligent understanding of the magnitude and intricacy of the work of our government.

The latest article in this series shows clearly what an important part the department of agriculture plays in furthering the interests of both the farmer and the ultimate consumers of their products. It tells how the department solves the individual problems of every variety of farmer in every part of our broad land.

It shows how live stock is protected and how healthy meat is assured. It deals with the introduction of better types of farming and with the scope of such work as the mapping of the chemistry of the soil. It calls attention to the important task of the bureau of crop estimates in computing our agricultural resources and with the effect of its estimates on prices all over the world.

We understand that this article is to be followed by others, and that requests for the remaining numbers of the series can be met by prompt application at the Citizens' Bank of Ashland.

RUSSIAN IS FLY IN OINTMENT OF GENOA MEET

GENOA, April 12.—Despite their belligerent and pugnacious attitude, that has already flung defiance in the faces of three nations—France, Rumania and Japan—the Russian delegates to the international economic conference have no intention of bolting.

On the contrary, it was made evident today that they are determined to hold tenaciously to their seats at the "green table" with the other powers. The Russians are anxious to get everything possible out of the conference. They are getting on as many committees as possible, taking an active part in every discussion that arises.

It is believed that the Russians will be pleased to antagonize the French to such a degree that the latter would retire from the conference. This would not only give Moscow sweet revenge for repeated French turn-downs to bolshevist efforts at a rapproachment, but would also isolate France as the only one blocking disarmament.
