BON TON CAFE MAKING GOOD—Since Harry Morrow and his wife took over the management of the Bon Ton cafe on Fourth street, the business has more than doubled. This is due, in a measure, to the fact that Harry is a first class chef and his wife an ideal hostess, but the principal reason which appeals most strongly to the railroad men, is the quickness and quality of the service given and the pronounced air of cleanliness that the place has taken on under Mrs. Morrow's supervision. They are having a particularly heavy run on pastry, due to a large extent to the fact that the fruit used is all of the hostess' own preserving.

EASTER

The Sabbath night had passed, and in the east The first pale streaks of rose foretold the day, When from the city, Mary Magdalene And others, bearing spices, came to lay Them in the Master's tomb.

They marvelled that the stone which had been sealed Was rolled away, and stooping down they saw Inside the tomb two angels robed in white, Whose radiance made them bow their heads in awe— "He is not here," they heard.

"Did He not say that He would rise again? Seek ye the living, then, among the dead?" And, trembling, Mary and the others went To His disciples, telling what was said. Yet one would not believe.

For Thomas told his brethren, "Till I've thrust My hand into the Master's wounded side, And felt the prints of nails inside His hands, I'll not believe He lives again who died." And later, Christ appeared.

He bade the doubting Thomas make his tests, Who did and said, "My Lord," and Christ replied, "Because you have beheld me, you believe, But those who have not seen my hands and side And yet believe, are blessed!" —Velma West Sykes in Kansas City Star.

HOME-GROWN EASTER LILIES—Experiments made by the United States Department of Agriculture Have Been Successful.

When it first became known that experiments in raising Easter lilies from seed were being carried on by the Department of Agriculture, few florists were prepared to believe that the undertaking possessed any commercial value beyond the possibilities of producing new hybrids. The results of these experiments, which have now been carried on for four years, indicate, the department specialists believe, that this country can develop an important industry.

On the Arlington experimental farm, which is just across the Potomac river from Washington, department specialists produce the lily seeds in greenhouses by artificial pollination. These seeds are planted about January 1, pricked out into small pots, and in May the young plants are set in the open ground. They develop rapidly, and by July or August some of the plants reach sufficient size to bear blooms. In October or November the plants are lifted, potted, and removed to the greenhouse. Without undue forcing the plants will come into full bloom the following February to April—15 months after the seed has been planted. Those plants which bloom in July or August and from which the bloom stalk has been cut may send out two or three stalks and can be forced to bloom again by Easter.

Many commercial growers are much interested in the work which is being conducted on the Arlington farm, and officials of the department believe that it will not be long until an industry will be developed in this country which will make lily growers here independent of any foreign supply of bulbs.

LILIES OF JAPANESE ORIGIN

Easter Flower, It May Be Almost Positively Stated, is a Product of the Far East.

Forty-four years ago a Philadelphia woman who had been making a visit to Bermuda—the islands being little known to the average American in those days—brought back with her two plants of a wonderful and unfamiliar kind of lily. She gave them to a Quaker City florist named Harris, who lost no time in multiplying the bulbs and growing the plants in large numbers, selling them in pots.

It was not originally native to Bermuda, however. Nobody seems to know who first planted it there. But there is no doubt of the fact that it came from the Far East. Presumably some far-voyaging mariner, whose home was in Bermuda, brought it back with him.

Our American Easter lily of today—if so we may term it—is almost undoubtedly of Japanese origin. Its selection from other varieties, by preference, may be referred to certain notable advantages—early blooming, size and number of blossoms, and ease of "forcing" in greenhouses.

In Egypt, anciently (and presumably in the Levant), calla tubers were one of the most important food crops. They were grown over extensive areas in each annual season of the Nile's overflow. At the time of their blossoming the fields of them must have presented to the eye a beautiful picture. Realizing which fact, we may reasonably suppose that the calla was in Christ's mind when He spoke of the "lilies of the field."
