Long-distance dancing is to be the vogue in Vincennes, Ind., where a municipal ordinance requires partners in a dance to keep six inches apart. Ashland youth would hardly stand for that, much less any law that would bar the regulation strangle-hold.

Perhaps the added convenience of the auto park warrants the 50 cents a day fee which the commissioners have decided to charge the autoists. It's far and away the best park on the coast, offering more and better conveniences than most any other, to say nothing of the beautiful surroundings, which undoubtedly surpass in attractiveness anything on UZ the Pacific coast. It will be worth trying out, anyway.
