Something New in Battery Service

WESTINGHOUSE ATTENTION

Thousands of new car owners are having their "eyes opened" to what real Battery Service is. "Westinghouse attention" is the latest thing in the way of Service to them. It is unlike anything ever offered to you before. It is designed to make your battery, regardless of its make, to give a maximum service and its features include many things other than the mere adding of distilled water to your battery.

Nearly two thousand of the leading battery stations in the United States are giving "Westinghouse Attention" today. Half a million car owners are profiting thereby—and are realizing what this service means to them.

You can have "Westinghouse Attention" in your town. Your battery man can place himself in a position to not only give it to you but to build a splendid business for himself. Ask him about it and, for full particulars, suggest that he write us.

This has been only one of many surprising but little-known accomplishments of the Government, which are covered in the interesting series of stories for which we have the exclusive right of distribution in this community.
