LININGS COME READY-MADE

Convenience Offers Encouragement to Many Women to Construct Their Dresses at Home.

That the jobber will be a more valuable outlet for wash goods than the cutter-up is the contention of a professional shopper, who bases this theory on the growing trend toward home dressmaking. The observations of this shopper are that women are giving more attention to home dressmaking than ever—and that indications for the coming spring and summer season point to an increase of this vogue.

There are several reasons given for the greater interest in home dressmaking. In the first place, the styles are simple. Secondly, many of the department stores are giving much attention to home dressmaking. Practically all the large retail stores in New York now have regular dressmaking classes for amateurs. These are taught by professionals. The present method is for a woman to go to the pattern department. Here she is measured by saleswomen, in order to get the correct size. The cost of the pattern depends upon the style of the garment, ranging from 35 cents up to about $1.50. Having the correct size pattern, it really is not necessary for a woman to have much fitting for the garment she is to make.

However, figuring extremes—a woman buys her material—and attends one of the dressmaking classes in a department store. In one lesson, she can cut the material; and, in the second lesson, she can have it all put together—and then fitted in a third lesson.

Amateurs do not like to bother with linings, books and eyes, etc. But this is no longer necessary today, because one can buy ready-made linings, with all of the required attachments—and it is a simple matter to sew the lining into the dress.

SCARF, TOPCOATS AND CAPES

Lighter Wear for Spring and Summer Receiving Special Attention; Many Styles.

Scarfs are rioting, both in color and in popularity. Silk fringed silk scarfs with contrasting crosswise stripes rival the knitted wool scarfs with long wool fringe, in bright spring coloring. The scarf verily must be an adjunct to the sport costume, for when it is not attached to cape or dress it is added on its own account.

Separate sport wraps divide themselves naturally into two classifications—coats and capes. The topcoat may be belted in front, belted in back or belted all around. The sleeve may be raglan or merely made with deep armholes. Mannish detail and tailoring are consistently followed throughout. The approved materials are tweeds, homespuns, covert, chinchilla, plaid mixtures and kindred fabrics.

Capes are frequently circular if of tweed or homespun; or if made of the soft, woolly knitted fabrics, they are gathered at top and completed with a scarf. It appears impossible to go wrong with any sort of cape, although as the season advances the shorter, lighter weight type will naturally prove more practical.

Small Boy's Coat. For the small boy's spring overcoat covert cloth is to be a popular fabric. One coat recently seen was a mannish style, plain except for two bias pieces stitched down the back, one at about the shoulder on either side. The straps were about an inch wide. The coat had tailored collar and revers and buttoned double-breasted fashion in front. The regulation navy chevrons will be smart also, and, no matter what the fabric or color, a hat to match is an excellent recommendation. In addition to the many plain fabrics approved for coats for boys, some smart little plaid velours are being featured.

French Blouses Beaded. Beads for the most part confined to French blouses or their imitations, but have been seen also on a few other types, even silk tailcoats.

Fashionable Green. Irish green is much to the fore with the Paris couturiers and milliners for the coming spring season.

Let a want ad sell it for you.

COUNCIL HOLDS LONG-DRAWN OUT SESSION

The city council met in regular session Tuesday night at the city hall and discussed many things of minor interest, together with a few of greater importance.

The street commissioner was empowered to purchase a machine to patch the pavement in the city. Chief of Police Hatcher asked that signs be posted at Coolidge street in the north part of the city, and at Mountain avenue in the east side, giving the rate of speed allowed. Other signs on either side of both the public school buildings showing the rate of speed allowed were asked for, and the council voted Chief Hatcher authority to put up these signs. Further discussions of the raising of the dam was indulged in and it was decided to go forward with the work as soon as possible.

The question of making all vulcanizing shops move from beneath any rooming house was discussed, and action deferred until the next meeting, pending an investigation.

JUDGE SENTENCES HIS OWN WIFE TO SERVE ON JURY

CLEVELAND, April 20.—Judge Frederick P. Walther, presiding in common pleas court, was examining jurors. A woman summoned for jury service pleaded:

"Can't you let me off, Judge? You know I have a lot to do."

"That has nothing to do with it, madam," the judge responded. "If I have my way about it you'll put in a week on the civil side and then round out with a week on the criminal side."

The juror meekly accepted her fate. She was Mrs. Frederick P. Walther, wife of the presiding judge.
