FORMER SALOON NOW CHURCH

Remarkable Transformation for Which the Congregation is Very Literally Responsible.

The Bronx, New York's famous residential section, has a home-made church. It began life as a saloon in the period antedating the year 1, A. V. (ante Volstead). Then followed a spell as a billiard parlor. Rev. A. V. Vos, an Episcopal clergyman, next appeared upon the scene. He rented the ex-saloon, organized a congregation, and with a big shoe-case for an altar and a dozen rude benches for the accommodation of his flock, which included Germans, Italians, Hungarians, Irish and Americans, the initial service was held. In course of time the little congregation increased to about fifty, bought the place, paid off the debt in sums of $15 and $20 at a time and at length laid aside a reserve fund. And this is what they did with it: Including in their number carpenters, bricklayers, cement workers, electricians, etc., they had a church meeting, parceled out the work among themselves, and on the night of December 3 last they began tearing out the front of the building. Each night thereafter, as soon as supper was disposed of, the volunteer workers got back on the job and by working every night save Sunday--sometimes well into the morning--they have succeeded in making over the place into a pretty little concrete edifice of the old Spanish mission type. It includes not only the chapel proper, but a dining hall, social hall, kitchen, etc. Rev. Mr. Vos says: "It isn't a cathedral, but to us it is the finest church building in the world because we have reared it with our own hands." Plans are being formed for the consecration of the building by Bishop Manning at an early date.

MAN OF FAITH AND LEARNING

Origen, surnamed Adamantius, who lived from 185 to 254 A. D., is considered by some authorities as the greatest of the early church fathers. Alexandria, in Egypt, the great seat of learning of the time, is thought to have been his birthplace. He was a teacher and deep student of philosophy and of the Scriptures, and he became a great defender of the Christian faith. His literary productions were numerous and several have come down to the modern world, among them being a treatise on theology, a few sermons or discourses of that nature, parts of commentaries on the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. John and St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans. His greatest work is his defense of Christianity against the attacks in the writings of Celsus, an Epicurean philosopher of the Second century. Celsus' work is not extant, but the character of it is made clear in Origen's refutation, which contains many quotations, and Origen's line of argument indicates clearly the line of attack followed by Celsus. The attacks upon Christianity by many critics are simply repetitions of Celsus' objections, which Origen answered about seventeen hundred years ago.

Where Business Moves Slowly. Business methods are invariably slow in the Near East, according to Miss Grace Willis who has returned recently from a period of service with the Y. W. C. A. in Constantinople, Stamboul and Beirut. "It takes at least a half a day to deposit a check and even longer to draw one out," says Miss Willis. "The general condition that exists in business houses is undoubtedly due to the fact that so many nationalities, each with their own way of doing things, are gathered under one roof. The girls of the Near East are particularly keen for business courses and there is a tremendous demand in the many commercial houses for well-trained clerical workers and stenographers. I consider that when, from the business courses given by the Y. W. C. A., efficient business women have been turned out after nine months' training, a remarkable piece of work has been accomplished."

After working 56 years in steel mills, Edward Quilty retired on pension. He was the oldest employee of the American Steel and Wire company. He started to work before the Bessemer converter and open-hearth process were invented. Looking backward over his life, Quilty is amazed most at the way traveling cranes and other machinery have relieved human muscles. He says: "The men have more brains than they used to." Average intelligence will steadily increase, as machinery gradually frees man, from drudgery. Energy, now consumed by muscular effort, will flow into the brain, generating thought, developing a race of philosophers. She Just Analyzed Him. A colored woman hurried into the adult probation offices of the juvenile court at Chicago. "I tell you, I'm mad," she said to the adult probation officer. "It's my husband," she continued. "That man is drivin' me crazy." "What is he doing now?" she was asked. "What he doesn't do is easier to answer. We jus' can't seem to get along," she pouted. "But he says you don't love him." "Love him?" the woman replied, surprised. "Love him? Why, I jus' analyze that man."

PUBLIC FORUM

AN OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS

Dear Fathers and Mothers of Ashland:—Everyone of you want the best things in life for your children, and have high hopes for their future citizenship and services in the world. Society has no greater help for you in training them than the church and the school which was born of the church. The Sunday school contributes a vital part of your child's education. Its opportunity is small, but one hour a week, but many consecrated Christian people are voluntarily working in the Sunday school to help you, make your child a Christian citizen of a Christian republic. Tomorrow, Sunday, May 7, the Sunday schools invite you, one and all, to visit the school and see what we are trying to do. We want to be partners with the home; we want to know you personally; we want you to know the Sunday school and your child's place in it. Will you come? Sunday morning you will be a special guest of any of the Ashland Sunday schools. Plan to go. Yours in service, A SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER
