What came near being a serious accident happened Saturday evening at the intersection of East Main street and Third streets when Mrs. Selby, who was driving an auto, cut the corner and only missed by a hair's breadth, a motorcycle piloted by Mr. Van Gordon, which was coming from the opposite direction. Fortunately no damage was done to either machine, and the drivers suffered no physical injuries, although their nervous systems were considerably shaken.

AMERICAN LEGION

INDIANAPOLIS, May 9.—"For a year of devotion we have set aside a day of recognition. So long as man lives not by bread alone, so long shall this word Mother remain the strongest and sweetest word in any language," says Hanford Macnider, national commander of the American Legion, in his Mother's day message to posts of the organization.

We, of the American Legion, are working away at the building of a high castle of patriotism on the rock of sacrifice," the message continues. "We offer and dedicate the work of our hands to the mothers of America." Mother's day, May 14, will be observed nationally and locally by the 3500 units of the American Legion Auxiliary, made up wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of Legion men.

THE DALLES, May 9.—An initiation in the desert!

Well, not exactly that, perhaps, but the poor neophyte who joins La Societe Des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, the fun branch of the American Legion, when the Oregon vulture meets here in its annual promenade, July 26, will think he is being led across some real, honest-to-goodness burning sands.

Across the Columbia river in Washington, the winds, tearing down through the gorges east and west have, in the ages, heaped up huge dunes of fine Sahara sand. The only inhabitants thereof are Br'er Woodchuck, who forecasts weather on February 2, and the festive rattlesnake. Members of the Vulture No. 105, newly organized in The Dalles, have just about decided to lead the 40 or 50 prisonnaires who will enter the society on that date across the river and into the sands from whence their wails of anguish may echo hollowly against the solemn Klickitat hills. Plans for the big initiation are now being busily arranged by Dr. Thomas E. Griffith, of Dufur, chief de gare of the local legion funsters.

McMINNVILLE, May 9.—The first American Legion post to throw its hat in the ring for the 1922 state convention of the American Legion, is McMinnville post No. 21. The post has done great work this year for veterans in the district, had a considerable increase in membership over last year's totals, and is already laying plans to entertain the thousand or more visitors, contemplating on receiving the favorable vote of the convention. Glenn S. Macy, adjutant of the McMinnville post has announced that the city will put up a stiff fight for the honor.

THE DALLES, May 9.—Splendid quarters are being equipped here for the state convention of the American Legion, which will open July 27 for a three-day session. The new municipal auditorium, erected as a tribute to the fighting men of Wasco county in the recent war, and with a set of rooms especially designed for the American Legion, has room to spare for all the meetings that will come up in connection with the big department meeting. The theater proper will seat 1800 people. Then there is the community room, a cozy place, equipped with fireplaces and other homelike features, large enough for the meeting of the women's auxiliary, and it has already been decided to use the room for that purpose. There are a dozen smaller rooms scattered about the building for committees, and the post headquarters will be used for general information and registration purposes. The ball room, one of the largest in the state, will accommodate 500 couples, and it will be the scene of a splendidly appointed function on the night of Friday, July 28, when the convention ball will be held.

BEND, May 9.—A big initiation and convention of the American Legion posts in central Oregon will convene in the city of Madras on May 13, as guests of John Sloss post No. 79. All American Legion posts in the Central Oregon district will be represented at the gathering and the "40-8" wrecking crew of Bend will put 50 "poor goods" through the initiation ceremony of the sunshine order. It is expected that the state officials of the Oregon Legion will attend.

BROWNSVILLE, May 9.—May 15 is the date set for starting actual construction on the American Legion home at Brownsville, which is being built under the auspices of Brownsville post, American Legion. The building committee is busily engaged in securing the figures on the cost of laying the concrete foundation and just as soon as the material can be assembled the work will be started. The building is to be erected on the site recently purchased by the Legion at the corner of Kirk avenue and Averill street, and the dimensions will be 50 by 115 feet. It is expected that it will be completed within 90 days.

HOOD RIVER, May 9.—A public holiday in the city and valley has been proclaimed in Hood River heralding the start of the annual Mount Hood climb, under auspices of Hood River post American Legion. The annual ascent is set for July 16, when legionnaires from many parts of Oregon and city and state officials will join in the climb. Radio programs will be arranged and radio fans will be able to receive the broadcasting of the camp activities, speeches, band concerts and an address by Frank Branch Riley.

PORTLAND, May 9.—Grave markers are being obtained from national American Legion headquarters by various posts of the Legion in Oregon. Committees of the posts will place these official bronze markers on the graves of deceased comrades on Memorial day.

Citizens all over Oregon will witness Memorial day services in every community where Legion posts are established.

War veterans on May 30 will pay homage to those who died that the nation might live—men of Bunker Hill, of Gettysburg, of Santiago, and of the Argonne.

HE DIDN'T QUITE UNDERSTAND

Possibly British Officer Thought Orderly's Proper Place Was Under the Table.

At the Army and Navy club in Washington they tell a story of a newly appointed officer in the British army who was making his first visit to the mess, with the usual inquiry of "any complaints?" Now, he had arrived at the mess somewhat earlier than expected, and the orderly of the day, being taken by surprise, and in his shirt sleeves, dived under the table to save a reprimand. "Any complaints?" asked the officer. Grasping the situation at once, the corporal answered for the absent orderly. "None, sir."

"Who is this?" asked the officer, suddenly catching sight of the orderly under the table. Again the corporal rose to the occasion. "Orderly of the day, sir," was his answer. "Oh!" said the officer, and passed on. The next mess were quite prepared, with the orderly, quick and span, standing at attention at the head of the table. "Any complaints?" "None, sir," answered the orderly. The officer gave him a careful survey. "And who are you?" he asked. "Orderly of the day, sir." "And why the deuce are you not under the table?" was the unexpected retort.

HUMOROUS IN HIS PROTEST

Max Beerbohm Wanted No Book Written About Him, and Said So in Amusing Manner.

"You might have waited for my demise, instead of merely hastening it," remarked his subject—or victim, as you please—to Bolin Lynch, when the latter communicated the news that he was about to write "Max Beerbohm in Perspective."

But admirers of Beerbohm will agree that the Beerbohmian protests against his publication in themselves justify the volume, according to the Living Age. Here they are: "I remember several books about men who, not yet dead, had blantly aided and abetted the author; and I remember what awful asses those men seemed to me thereby to have made of themselves. Two of them were rather great men. They could afford to make awful asses of themselves. I, who am 100 miles away from being great, cannot afford such luxuries. "My gifts are small. I've used them very well and discreetly, never straining them; and the result is that I've made a charming little reputation. But that reputation is a frail plant. Don't over-attend to it, Gardner Lynch! Don't drench and deluge it! The contents of a quite small watering can will be quite enough." "Gardner Lynch," however, was not to be deterred, and his readers may rejoice therefor. He produced an amusing study of an amusing writer, not a flippant study, but not a painfully serious one, either.

NOTICE TO EXTERMINATE GROUND SQUIRRELS
Every person, firm, co-partnership, company or corporation residing, owning, leasing, occupying, possessing or having charge of or dominion over any land, building, wharf, or dock infested with digger ground squirrels in Jackson county, Oregon, is hereby notified to begin at once to effectively exterminate and destroy all such DIGGER GROUND SQUIRRELS.

The following poison for mixing and instructions for use thereof is the method most expedient and effective to be used for the extermination and destruction of such ground squirrels and is hereby recommended: On either barley or wheat, barley preferred, mixed according to the following formula and manner, to-wit: Barley, clean grain—16 quarts. Strychnine (powdered alkaloid)—1 ounce. Bicarbonate of soda (baking soda)—1 ounce.

This material should be mixed as follows: Mix thoroughly 1 ounce of powdered strychnine (alkaloid) and 1 ounce of common baking soda. Sift this into 3/4 pint of thin hot paste and stir to a smooth creamy mass. (The starch paste is made by dissolving 1 heaping tablespoonful of dry gloss starch in a little cold water, which is then added to 3/4 pint of boiling water. Boil and stir constantly until a clear thin paste is formed.) Add 1/4 pint heavy corn syrup and 1 tablespoonful of glycerine and stir thoroughly. Pour this mixture over 16 quarts of clean barley and mix well so that each grain is coated.

One quart of the poisoned grain mixed as aforesaid is sufficient for 40 or 50 baits and this quantity scattered along squirrel trails or on clean hard places on the surface about the holes will not endanger stock. Strychnine in any form other than the powdered strychnine (alkaloid) is not effective in the above formula. Early poisonings are known to be far more effective than late ones to
