THOMPSON'S NEW CLOCK

Irving L. Thompson, a war veteran of Chicago, has invented a time-keeping system which he claims not only will do away with the circular dial clock but will also bring the new clock into many new spheres unthought of. He has modeled a floor lock in pyramid shape with three dial faces. He can connect as high as 100 dials to one master movement and is shortly to install a master system controlled by radio entirely.

LOOKING AFTER THE CATTLE

Not Alone in Poorer Districts of Ireland Are Animals Sheltered With the Family.

It is well known that the pigs belonging to the poorer peasants in the villages of Ireland are practically "members of the family." The house is to all intents and purposes their rightful lodging and eating quarters. Ireland, however, is not the only country in which one may find live stock indoors, as in the outlying villages in the northern part of Russia the family cow (nearly every household owns one) is under shelter for eight months out of every twelve, says London Answers.

The whole countryside is a mass of snow for months on end, and 40 to 50 degrees below zero is not uncommon; so the poor beasts have to be cooped up. They are fed—or, rather, nearly starved, on senna grass, collected and stored by the Russians during the short summer, and they emerge when the snow has disappeared very thin indeed.

Although living in the same habitation as their owners, they are allotted a separate apartment. The chickens are also sheltered in the living and sleeping rooms and are "hatched" in the fireplace.

The fire actually is about two and a half feet above the level of the floor, and with a few thin pieces of wood the aperture underneath is easily converted into a cozy place for the fowls in the winter.

In the village in the Nile district, where the houses have flat tops, the natives make use of the roofs to "house" their smaller live stock, such as sheep, goats and poultry.

STILL LIVE IN "STONE AGE"

Film Party in New Guinea Discovers People Who Are Interesting Relics of the Past.

Adventures in the wilds of New Guinea were experienced by a film party in a small motor launch, the Wattle. The expedition cruised along the coast of New Guinea, three times grounding on uncharted reefs, and each time the hydrographic staff carefully corrected the charts carried. A week or so later a storm picked up the Wattle and impaled it on a coral spur. After unwelcome labor in a shade temperature of 104 degrees the launch was refloated. In one place the visitors found that the people were still in the Neolithic age, stone axes and adzes being in general use. The camera expert was interested in the weaving of cloth by the natives. A special tree was selected and cut down with a stone adze. The bark was beaten and loosened, turned inside out and placed in the sun to dry. Then it was soaked in water and again dried. Finally it was cut into lengths with a sharpened flat stone like a chisel. The journey up the Ramu river, in New Guinea, was rendered difficult by the hidden logs and sometimes only four and one-half miles were covered in the day. Sixty days were spent in that river, the Wattle pushing up about 170 miles.

Albania Defied Sultan. In the 25 years that Amureth II was Sultan of Turkey, he conquered two empires, 12 kingdoms and 500 cities; but there was one little kingdom, lying at his very door, which for a quarter of a century successfully defied and resisted Turkish Mohammedism and gave Amureth II more trouble than all his other enemies combined. The kingdom was Albania. John Gratiot, leader of the Albanians, repelled 20 separate invasions of the sultan's army. All in all, nearly 1,000,000 Turkish soldiers were dispatched to conquer the little country which was protected at no time by more than 30,000 Albanians. The Turks suffered frightful losses. At last after 25 years of the most stubborn resistance recorded by history, Albania yielded, but not till Gratiot himself had been harvested by the inevitable grim reaper.

Master of Style. The truth of the matter is, that neither he who is a fop in the world is a fit man to be alone, nor he who has set his heart much upon the world, though he has never so much understanding; so that solitude can be well fitted and sit right but upon a very few persons. They must have enough knowledge of the world to see the vanity of it, and enough virtue to despise all vanity; if the mind be possessed with any lust or passions, a man had better be in a fair than in a wood alone. They may like petty thievery, cheat us perhaps, and pick our pockets in the midst of company, but like robbers they use to strip and bind, or murder us, when they catch us alone. This is but to retreat from men to fall into the hands of devils.—Abraham Cowley.

Guernsey's Oldest Charter. Just recently, a search in the archives of Exeter cathedral has brought to light the oldest charter relating to the royal court of Guernsey, and confirming a grant of land by Peter Viver to the abbey of Mont St. Michel. This in itself would be interesting, but the document reveals one or two other important historical facts, viz, that the president of the court of Guernsey in 1179 was called viscounts, and therefore administered as a fuchy was, and that the court was a royal court (Ouria Regia). It was only in later years that a measure of self-government was conferred on the islanders.

He is making his second tour of the Pacific Coast states this summer.

TOURIST FROM WASHINGTON THINKS LITHIA PARK BEST

Deputy Sheriff Lon A. Clarke, his wife and baby, and Mr. and Mrs. George Sharon and baby, all of Seattle, stopped Monday night at the Oregon hotel, en route to southern California. They are stopping in the camp grounds along the way when the weather is such that they can, but considered the weather too bad to stop in our park. However, they made a trip through the grounds and were delighted with what they found there. They decided that on their return trip from San Diego, they would stop in Lithia park and spend the balance of their vacation there.
