What Constitutes Advertising
 In order to allay a misunderstanding among some as to what constitutes news and what advertising, we print this very simple rule, which is used by newspapers to differentiate between them: "ALL future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection is taken IS ADVERTISING." This applies to organizations and societies of every kind as well as to individuals.
 All reports of such activities after they have occurred is news.
 All coming social or organization meetings of societies where no money contribution is solicited, initiation charged, or collection taken IS NEWS.

WELDING SOUTHERN OREGON
 The reception tendered to the delegation from the Grants Pass Chamber of Commerce tonight marks an epoch in the history of Ashland, ushering in as it does, the initial step in the great plan of welding the interests of southern Oregon, to the end that it may ful-

Wonderful Scenic Beauty of Hell's Gate, Near Grants Pass

For the mileage represented, probably the most highly scenic and the most completely fraught with the untamed grandeur of the old West, of any side trip from Grants Pass, is the 17 mile drive to Hell Gate and the 13 miles further to old Galice and the smelter at Alameda.

Historic Interest
 This trip down the Rogue river canyon, along the narrow, winding stage road, which overlooks the foaming mountain torrent, where it still pounds and hews its way through a wall of solid rock, is one of the most inspiring short trips in the west. It typifies your every thought and vision of what the old West must have been. As you picture the six horse stage that once swung along that torturous route, on the gallop, the swaying carriage, the stealthy redskins, now waiting the stage for "firewater" and glass beads, and again awaiting with war-arms and vengeance, you catch the spirit of 50 years ago. You see the abandoned diggings where once the flannel-shirted pioneers of the west sought the fortune that always lay just beyond reach but just under the next shovelful of pay dirt. You see the round saucer-like pits where Indian teepees once stood; you get a cross-section of human life in an age now past, and a cross-section of geological ages which run into the hundreds of thousands and millions.

The Gorge
 After passing through the town of Merlin your course leads you across Jump-off Joe creek and down fill its natural destiny as the "Wonderland of America."

 Within a radius of one hundred miles of Ashland—and the statement is made without qualification—there is to be found more beautiful and wonderful scenery than anywhere else in the United States within a like area. Nature has been bountiful to the point of prodigality in the scenic beauty and spectacular marvels which are encompassed in that comparatively small stretch of territory circling from the California line and taking in the wonders of the Bad Lands and the Lava Beds, the Klamath lakes, Crater Lake, and the marvelous Marble Caves on the one side and on the other the grim ruggedness of Hell Gate canyon, through the solid rocks of which, the beautiful and mighty Rogue river has forged its way to the sea. And the marvel of it all is that these wonders of nature remain today as they were centuries ago, unmarred by the hand of progress.

That these scenes are one day to be the mecca for tourists of the world is certain; how soon is a matter for the people of southern Oregon to determine. The get-together meeting tonight around the banquet board, it is to be hoped will prove the beginning of a systematic plan for the exploitation of the wonders at our doors; not to the agrandizement of any particular community, but of southern Oregon as a whole. It should mean the abandonment of our old-time method of visioning everything within the city limits of our own little balliwick; hugging to our breasts the things that we have, lest they should shrivel under the light of covetous eyes. From Roseburg to the California line, every manjack of us should have our shoulders to the wheel, in a common effort to make the most of—commercialize, if you will—the glorious heritage bequeathed to us by nature, unscathed by the ravages of time. It can only be accomplished through united effort.

Frequent interchange of thoughts and plans, between communities, such as will be evidenced in this gathering tonight, should not be a rarity, but occasions of frequent occurrence, ever having in view the single purpose—the advancement of the interests of southern Oregon. To that end, let the welcome tonight to the "Cave Men" from Grants Pass, be such as will be long remembered, as the first practical step in the cementing of all interests for the bigger, better and greater southern Oregon.

WEDNESDAY CLUB HOLDS SUCCESSFUL MEETING

The Wednesday Afternoon club of the Presbyterian church had an especially successful meeting yesterday at the Presbyterian church, in attendance, program and sociability. Miss Agnes Danford, who spent three years as a teacher in the government school at Unalaska, Alaska, gave a most graphic story of her experiences on the island. The description was so realistic that the time was altogether too short for that stream to its confluence with the Rogue. From this point the canyon narrows from a broad and fertile valley to a crevice in a mountain range where the raging waters from Crater lake and the snows of the Cascades have forced a passage westward. Little do you think as you descend into this gorge that at one time the streams of southwestern Oregon flowed northward at a level far above your heads, that the old channel may still be traced at intervals on the summit of the range now chopped and eroded by the Rogue and its tributaries.

The Route
 At about sixteen miles from town you pass River View farm on which Judge Twohy, of Twohy Brothers, contractors, has erected a spacious summer home with all conveniences of a city. Another mile takes you to the solid rock foundation of the mountains, which now lies broken by the Rogue, Hell Gate. The road here leads 200 feet directly above the waters of the Rogue, a magnificent example of the constant purpose and the irresistible power of the Almighty in carrying out His plans. From here you have eight miles of wonderful canyon road to historic Galice, where many a skirmish was fought between whites and reds, and from there five miles more of typical mountain scenery to the Alameda smelter.

This trip gives you, on the whole more "scenery per mile," than any other short trip from Grants Pass, and you won't regret the gasoline you put into this excursion.

her interesting recital, but the company thoroughly appreciated Miss Danford's kindness in giving the story.

The support of the club was enlisted for the coming Chautauqua, and plans were made for a concert by a leading composer and pianist of Portland in the near future.

The fourth Friday of the month will be calling day when the members will call upon new people and friends of the church.

The hostesses, Mesdames Ross, Stevens and Moore served delicious coffee and doughnuts.

Peat to Discuss "Introducing Your Neighbor"

Former War Hero and Author, "Private" Peat, Will Talk Peace Problems at Chautauqua

Harold Peat's great lecture, "Introducing Your Neighbor," is a plea for a more harmonious relationship among the English-speaking peoples of the earth, in the interest of humanity's welfare. It will be delivered before Chautauquans, the second night, with all the earnestness, enthusiasm and fire that characterized the war talks of Mr. Peat, then famous the world over as "Private Peat"—war hero, journalist and author. Peat is a consummate orator, and as a raconteur of narrative and anecdote, is second to none. He has seen war's Hell, and his own experiences have opened his eyes to the necessity of a thorough study of the problems of peace. His is a delightful platform style for there's lots of humor in his talk, as well as instruction and inspiration. "Private Peat" is like a letter from home," said the Chicago Daily News, following an address in that city. You have probably heard him discuss war and you were probably thrilled as never before; now hear him discuss peace, the biggest problem of this battle-scarred world.

Mr. Peat is a Canadian by birth, yet excepting the time spent in the war, a large part of his busy career has been spent on this side of the boundary line. The past winter was spent in New Zealand and Australia where he was a "headliner" on the Ellison-White Circuits in those lands. You will warm up to Harold Peat as you seldom do to a public speaker. In the parlance of the day he "has the stuff."

Chautauqua Season Ticket Campaign Is Launched

The goal set by the Chautauqua association in inaugurating its drive for the sale of season tickets is 1500. The plan under which the price cut has been made possible should be clearly understood by those who contemplate purchasing tickets, so that when you are called upon by the solicitor, you will understand clearly just what the plan is.

Briefly stated, the price has been fixed for a single season ticket at $1.50, instead of $2.50 as heretofore. It is an individual and not a family ticket. If 1500 tickets are sold before Monday, May 22, at 8 o'clock p. m., then automatically a rebate of 50 cents on each season ticket takes place. The rebate of 50 cents will be paid when the ticket is presented at the main ticket office, and the ticket will be stamped "rebated."

This drive concerns the sale of season tickets only. The price set is below the regular prices of the Ellison-White Chautauqua ticket sales, and was granted on account of Ashland owning its own auditorium which has a seating capacity of 4000 people. The room being available it was deemed best to price these tickets on the ground of quantity production.

The purpose is to first secure the cost of the program and the incidental expenses which in round figures is $1500. After that the accruing sales will go to the Chautauqua association to assist in meeting their annual budget of expense in keeping up the building, interest charges, etc.

Everybody in Ashland knows the Chautauqua association carries a large investment in buildings and grounds, etc., for the benefit of the people of Ashland and southern Oregon, and it has no other methods of meeting its financial responsibilities than the appeal to the public spirit of the people—the same appeal that is made in behalf of education and public improvement everywhere.

The program is popular and the price cut should be an especial appeal to bring out a large audience.

FRANK HANNA'S AUTO BUMPED INTO BY FORD

While driving along the highway near Gold Hill a few days ago, Mrs. Frank Hanna was bumped into by a Ford "bug," and while only minor damage was done to the car, Mrs. Hanna promptly reported the matter to State Traffic Officer McMahon, giving the license number of the Ford. Mr. McMahon reported to Mrs. Hanna one day this week that he had located the owner of the "bug" and would see that the damages were settled for.

GASAWAY BOYS RETURN FROM THREE MONTHS TRIP

Fred and Alvis Gasaway, who left here a few months ago for eastern Oregon, returned Tuesday afternoon after having seen a great deal of the eastern Oregon and Washington country, and from the reports given, the climatic conditions about Ashland are quite satisfactory in comparison with some of the territory they have passed through in their travels. The wheat crop of eastern Oregon is several weeks later than usual, and in many places very poor, although there is some good wheat in that section. The working conditions throughout the sections they visited were about the same as in this vicinity, with the exception of the sheep country, where many sheep herders are needed. The boys expect to leave within the next few days for California, where they expect to locate if they find conditions suitable to them.

ENGLISHWOMEN SACRIFICE TOES TO FASHION DECREES

LONDON, May 11.—A little toe is a small concern where fashion is concerned. The Daily Express states that many fashionable society women are having small toes removed so they can wear the new styles in shoes, which are long, narrow and pointed.

"SCIATIC FOR 30 YEARS—FREED BY INTERNAL BATHS"

Mr. Geo. E. Thurston of 1700 Hurst St., Portland, Ore., writes to the Tyrell Hygienic Institute of New York: "I have suffered nearly thirty years with Sciatic Rheumatism.
