LARGE SIGN CAUSES MUCH COMMENT ABOUT THE CITY

A large sign has been erected two miles east of the city on the hillside just west of the Owen or Parker ranch, and at one side of the Pacific highway, advertising Tacoma, Wash. and vicinity.

The sign is about 50 feet long by 15 feet high and has printed in large letters the following information: "You will find good roads in the Puget Sound country," and "Tacoma the gateway to Mt. Rainier." No further wording is on the sign, but at one end is painted a picture of what the Puget Sound country is supposed to look like.

Many citizens have commented on the sign being placed this far from Tacoma, and various views as to whether it would be of any special benefit to that section of the country have been heard. But the people of that section should reap a rich harvest if the signs are scattered all over the surrounding country, to let the tourist know what they have for him around Puget Sound.

FAMED FOR ITS MARASCHINO

Dalmatian Town of Sebenico Really Has Little Right to Other Claims to Honors.

Sebenico vainly boasts of being the Roman colony Sium, where Claudius quartered his veterans, and so styles itself in public inscriptions and Latin documents. But Sium stood farther south, near Salona, at a spot still marked by Roman remains. It is to be feared that Sebenico had a sadly ignoble origin, says the Manchester Guardian. The name is said to be derived from a word that means the fort from whence bandits watched the sea for ships which they attacked and plundered. The little Dalmatian pirates' lair remained quite unknown until selected in the early Middle Ages by Croatian kings for their favorite residence. Apart from possession of a picturesque land-locked harbor, the only cathedral in the world built entirely of stone and metal, and the ancestral house of the Orsini, Sebenico has few claims to distinction. However, by some people Sebenico will always be held in high honor for being the place where they make maraschino, an insidious liquor distilled from small black cherries.

The Wrong Saint.

Childhood's propensity for getting names mixed was well illustrated a Sunday morning or two ago when little Richard, on the way to Sunday school with his mother and sister, met another little boy afflicted with St. Vitus' dance.

Richard was deeply impressed by the incident and asked his mother what was the matter with the little boy.

"Poor child," the sympathetic mother replied. "He has St. Vitus' dance."

Back at home, Richard rushed in to tell his father of the incidents of the morning and closed with the remark:

"And—and—and we saw a poor little boy who jerked all over. He had the Ritcomb Riley."

Only Fat Girls in His Office. "I have found one employer whose 'bug' in hiring folks for his office is worse than the idea against bobbed heads and short skirts," lamented a young woman who was weary with hunting work.

Rhythmic Philosophy

By Dick Posey

THE HE-GOSSIP

I have seen a bunch of women Clacking o'er their steaming tea, Rolling morsels of sweet scandal On their tongues in ecstasy; I have watched a bunch of magpies Screeching 'round a luckless bird Till its plumage drooped in anguish At the chattering it heard;

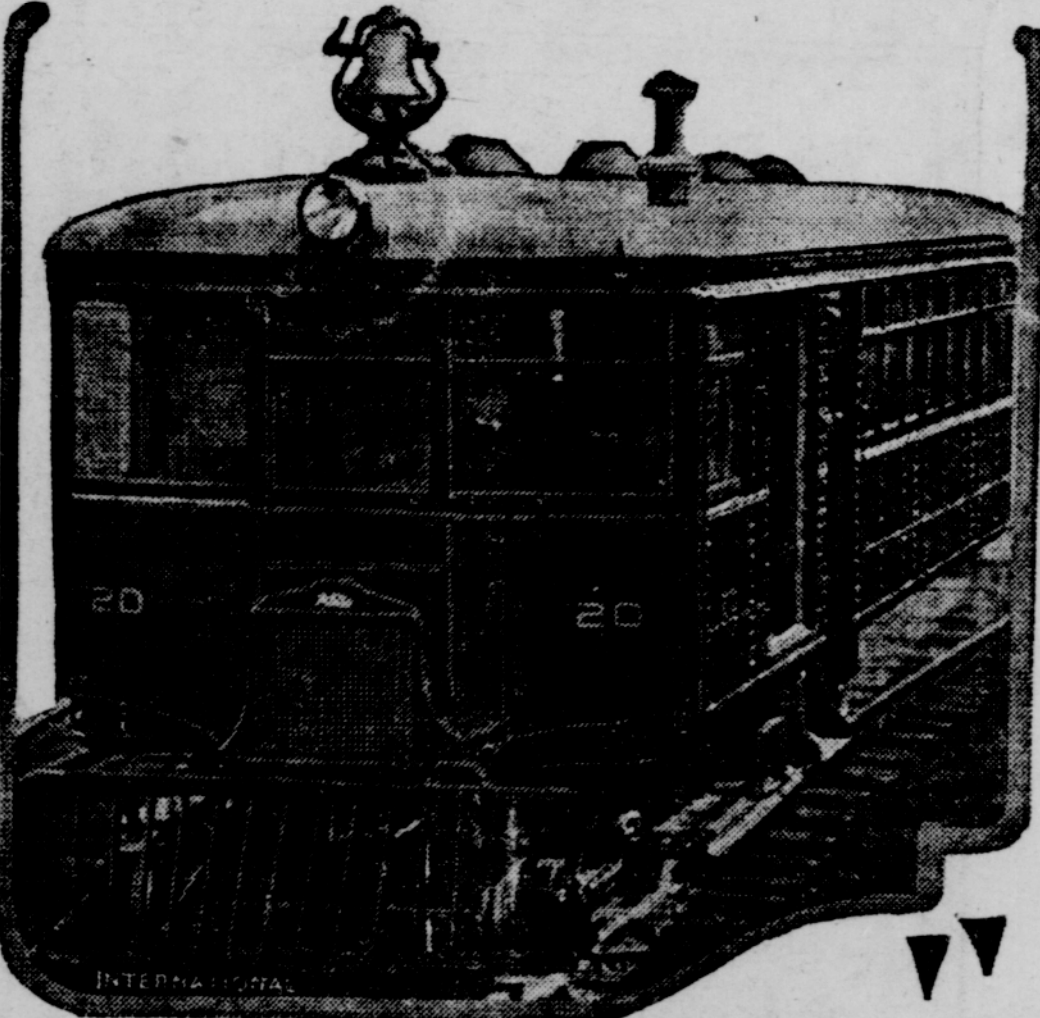

I have seen a greedy lawyer damn a soul without remorse, and a turkey buzzard feasting on the carcass of a horse; but of all the nauseating, croaking, blighting pests of men, 'tis the busy old town gossip, and the gender, masculine.

I would rather have a rattler coil itself upon my breast, or a flock of Gila monsters hissing 'round my place of rest, than to have an old he-gossip fix me with his rheumy eye and leer and slur and cackle at his neighbors passing by. You say there is no devil? You're mistaken—there he goes; see him wink and spit and hob nob with that bunch of old scarecrows; he fattens sleek on scandal and on misery he thrives, as he thrusts his old proboscis into other peoples' lives.

Let a man come out for office and he camps right on his trail, while his tongue works smooth and oily through the campaign without fail; he dips his dirty fingers in the man's forgotten past, and digs up all the breaks he's made and scatters them broadcast.

Should a feeble woman stumble In the straight and narrow way, She can never rise above it For he hounds her night and day; Or should fickle fortune fall you And you lose out in the strife, You are food for this old vulture All the balance of your life.

Ford Co. Turns Out Motor No. 6,000,000

Ford motor No. 6,000,000 was lifted from the assembly line in the Highland Park Ford plant at 9:14 a. m., May 18th. Just five and one-third seconds later No. 6,000,001 was finished.

The unusually heavy demand for Ford cars and trucks at the present time has necessitated the building of 5400 motors daily. These are shipped in carload lots to the various Ford assembling plants throughout the United States.

The first Model "T" Ford motor was completed on October 1, 1908, number 1,000,000 left the assembly line December 10, 1915; and number 5,000,000 came through May 28, 1921.

Commenting on this marvelous production, Harrison Brothers, the Ford agents in Ashland, pointed out that this record took in only the production since 1908, although prior to that time the company had built a great many motors of which no record had been kept.

TWO KLAMATH BOYS GET COMMISSIONS IN U. S. NAVY

Howard E. Orem, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Orem, of this city, and Ralph H. Wishard graduated from the Annapolis naval academy June 1, and were commissioned ensigns in the United States navy June 3, says the Klamath Falls Record.

The Klamath county boys were among approximately 300 midshipmen who received commissions. About 200 of this year's class were not graduated as an economy measure to reduce naval appropriations.

Ensign Orem has written his parents that the ship to which he was assigned will be in the Pacific in July. Ensign Wishard's plans are not known.

MEXICAN FINED IN COURT FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Frank O. Doreo, a Mexican, was brought into Justice Gowdy's court this morning and fined $25 on the charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Harry Morrow of the Bon Ton cafe. The Mexican had $14.50 in cash, and the court accepted $14 and the promise to pay the other $11 on June 26, and let him go.

The Mexican came into the cafe, and Mrs. Morrow came to wait on him, and was insulted by him both in acts and words. Whereupon Mr. Morrow appeared from the kitchen and proceeded to administer a sound beating. An officer was called who arrested Doreo, and he was taken before the court at once for trial.
