Keep Off the Flowers

The city librarian has been endeavoring to grow flowers where the grass has been killed along the walks at the library, but despite the precautions taken to protect the flowers, some people insist on cutting across the flowers and breaking them down. The librarian would like to see the flowers grow without having to put up "keep off" signs.

necessary for the protection of the health and welfare of children."

PLAYGROUND NOTES

One of the mothers who has been actively interested in the playground has made possible the wading pool. A part of the creek has been walled off with rocks and a shallow pool of clear, running water affords delight to the smaller children.

Regularly organized games are interesting the older boys. Spirited games of captain ball, volley ball and baseball, are played with pleasure for all participants. Miss Chatin is a splendid coach.

The old sand has been removed from the sand box and this week will find fresh ocean sand to replace it. The sand box is always one of the most popular features of the playground.

Story telling in the middle of each afternoon is a pleasing diversion for the children at the playground.

Miss Chatin, the efficient supervisor of the playground, also has charge of the swimming classes. She will be at Helman's baths every Wednesday and Friday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. Procure your tickets from her or from the playground committee, which consists of Mesdames Perozzi, F. D. Wagner, and MacCracken.

TO ERECT $200,000 HOTEL AT RICHARDSON SPRINGS

CHICO, Calif., July 11.—Foundations for the new hotel at the Richardson Springs resort, eight miles east of here, are nearing completion and soon actual construction of the edifice will begin. The proposed hotel will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

The hotel will contain 100 sleeping rooms and will be ready for business next spring.

RESULTS TELL

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Ashland. Results tell the tale. All doubt is removed.

The testimony of an Ashland citizen can easily be investigated. What better proof can be had? W. Hardy, retired, 586 East Main street, Ashland, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and wouldn't be without them. I had attacks of kidney complaint and lumbago and suffered with dull backaches and pains through my kidneys. My kidneys weren't acting right when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They soon relieved these ailments and eased the aches and pains. I heartily endorse Doan's for they are a remedy of merit."

Price 60 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hardy had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. 26

Chambers of Commerce Laud Prohibition Benefits

Prohibition is a civic asset according to many of the chambers of commerce in leading cities of the United States which have sent strong statements approving the Eighteenth amendment to the Union Signal, the official publication of the national Women's Christian Temperance Union.

James S. Cady, secretary of the Minneapolis association, says: "Prohibition has been helpful to the cause in our community. It has promoted thrift and has been beneficial generally to the interests of our city."

Vance C. Criss, secretary of the Springfield, Mo., association: "Prohibition has been helpful to the community for the reason that the oncoming generation has not had the access to liquor that was had by young men and boys of four or five years ago. In other words there would seem to be less opportunity by far for the members of the next generation to become addicted to the liquor habit."

Nelson Marshman, associate secretary, Springfield, Mass., association: "I believe that prohibition has proved to be an economic asset to this community, and that it has promoted thrift among our people. A statement from the various savings banks shows that more people have savings accounts and that the balances are larger."

"The charitable organizations of the city tell me that taking into consideration the recent business depression, there are fewer people receiving aid than during the time before prohibition. The former saloons in most cases are being used for other lines of business."

"Prohibition has been, I believe, very beneficial to the general interests of our city."

Leading Women Opposed to Any Change in Volstead Code

Many nationally representative women take issue with Miss Elizabeth Marbury on the prohibition question, expressing themselves as unalterably opposed to any change in the Volstead code, according to a host of letters now being received by the Union Signal, official publication of the W. C. T. U.

According to Miss Marbury, "The women of this country were the first to demand prohibition, and they will be the first to repeal it."

When this statement came to the attention of various leading women, they protested in no uncertain manner. Some of their opinions, in part, follow:

Mary Anderson, director of women's bureau, United States department of labor: "Prohibition has been of benefit to the country. I have observed that a better standard prevails among the families of the working people and that the children are better fed and clothed. That statement can be substantiated by figures showing that every place where prohibition is enforced, more goods are being sold than previous to the time of prohibition. Instead of having the corner saloon as a workingman's club, we have transferred that club to the home."

Maud Wood Park, president of the National League of Women Voters: "The mothers of the nation are no more likely to wipe out the Eighteenth amendment than they are to demand the cultivation of typhoid germs in the water supplies science has purified."

Mina C. Van Winkle, president of the International Association of Policewomen: "National prohibition is one of the greatest safeguards to youth and to the home. There have been more broken homes, more destruction of character through weakening of the will, and more crime induced by drink than by any other known cause. Although we daily see the law broken, time will wear away the objection and abuse."

Catharine Waugh McCulloch, master in chancery of the superior court, Cook county, Ill.: "Prohibition has improved home life and promoted the welfare of women and children. The women with whom I associate are Congregationalists, college women, teachers, W. C. T. U. women, members of the League of Women Voters, women lawyers and doctors, members of the Federated Women's club, the Democratic Women's club, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the wives and mothers of my home city, and they are almost unanimously in favor of the Volstead act and its strict enforcement and will oppose its weakening by any 'light wine and beer' adjunct."

"The welfare of the home and the nation imperatively demand national prohibition."

Mary E. Wooley, president of Mt. Holyoke college: "My experience and observation have been that prohibition has had a great influence on the betterment of home life and the welfare of women and children among the classes that frequented the open saloon."

Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau of the United States department of labor: "From my own experience and observation, and a study of the available reports with reference to the effects of prohibition, I see no reason for changing my attitude concerning the Eighteenth amendment and the enforcement law."

"I regard national prohibition as
