In His Father's Steps

Several years ago a great man, now gone, walked in Rock Creek park. He delighted to plow through brush, wade in the creek and take unsuspecting friends on long hikes.

On his return, walking at a rapid pace down Sixteenth street, he always had a smile and a wave of the hand for the children who greeted him along the way.

He put the cares of his great office away when he went out to play. The other day three men, one in the lead, came walking up rapidly from Rock creek and cut around the base of the lion house hill in the zoo.

The leader was bare-headed and had on an old red sweater. "Come on, Nicky," he called to a man behind him.

So the party disappeared around the hill, led by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.—Washington Star.

Music Increases Egg Supply

Two young lady graduates of Toronto university are the owners of a poultry farm a few miles east of Toronto. They have been very successful. To lovers of music one of the ladies recently said something that is very interesting.

"Do you know that hens love music? Some time ago a ferret got into our henhouse and terrified our hens so much that the eggs fell off from 150 to 75 a day and we couldn't get them back to normal. One day a girl who was staying with us was working for several hours in the henhouse and she sang lustily the while. There was a marked improvement in the number of eggs, and we continued the experiment with success. We afterward heard of a farmer who installed a gramophone for his hens and got 3 per cent more eggs as a result."—Exchange.

Interesting Powder Horn Map

A map engraved on an old powder horn may lead to the location of the sites of several Cherokee Indian towns in western North Carolina, according to the Bureau of American Ethnology at Washington.

The powder horn is a loan from Hugh Kirk, Newtownards, County Down, Ireland, and dates from about 1750 when the English were beginning to open up the Cherokee region. It belonged to James Grant, member of a company of British soldiers stationed near Charlestown and near Fort Loudon and Fort Prince George in the Cherokee country about the time that these forts were besieged.

The horn is elaborately engraved with the royal arms of Great Britain and the map showing the ancient town of Ucassee and other towns in the region in which the soldier saw service.

Perpetual Motion Discredited

It seems hardly credible, but up to the year 1772, there was no scientist in all Europe who knew enough to categorically deny that there was such a thing as perpetual motion.

It remained for Sir Isaac Newton and the French scientist, De La Hire, to demonstrate beyond doubt the impossibility of attaining it.

Quite a little time passed before the scientific world in general was willing to accept the Newtonian theory, but finally the French Academy of Science at Paris, in 1775, publicly declared that perpetual motion was an impossibility and thereby branded all those who still insisted upon experimenting with it as charlatans.—Pittsburgh Leader.

OLYMPIC

MAKE 'EM LAY

The laying hens should eat about equal parts (by weight) of dry mash and scratch grain during the course of the day. However, due to the greatest digestibility and safe protein content Olympic Egg Mash can be fed in greater proportion. The mash feed makes the eggs. We recommend feeding Olympic Egg Mash so that it constitutes 60 to 65 per cent of the daily ration of feed. Feed only enough grain to keep the hens active and supply proper body maintenance. The skilled feeder is always on the lookout to see how his hens are eating. He cannot always rely upon feeding the scratch by weight or measure as the fowls' appetites vary with the weather, time of year and egg production. Ordinarily from 8 to 12 pounds of scratch a day will be given to a hundred hens. This should be divided into two feedings, giving about one-third in the morning and two-thirds at the afternoon feeding. Feed all scratch in a deep, dry straw litter. Feed the layers and arrange the laying house so as to furnish them the most exercise. The active hen is the healthy and most productive one.
