SAW WITH PROPHETIC VISION

Toronto Man's Remarkable Prediction of Wireless Telephony Made Many Years Ago.

A remarkable imaginative prediction of wireless telephony was made by Grant Balfour (J. M. Grant) of Toronto in a dialogue which appeared in an English magazine in 1880, and was afterward reproduced in a pamphlet entitled "Bahrak-Kohl," two Hebrew words, meaning the voice of the lightning. The characters of this little treatise were represented as in the neighborhood of the Jordan.

"The prophet now took from his girdle," says the narrative, "a small instrument resembling a trumpet for the deaf. Coming down to Mohammed, he asked him to turn his right side toward the southland, to put the broad end of the instrument to his right ear. The prophet then inquired where his home was.

"My home," replied Mohammed, "is in the extreme south of Arabia, 1,400 miles away."

"Listen now," said the prophet; "doest thou hear the sound of waves?" "I do," replied the sheik. "Where may they be?"

"These waves," answered the prophet, "are the waves of the Indian ocean breaking upon the Arabian shore."

Further describing the instrument, the prophet said: "The thing before thee is but a rude pattern in part of the coming needed device of man. No such device is required by a prophet of the Lord to entrust the lightning with a message. The prophet speaks, nay, he needs but to will, and it is done."—Toronto Globe.

HAS BIG LEAD IN VOLCANOES

United States Can "Boast" of More Than a Quarter of Those Known to Be Active.

Uncle Sam owns more than a quarter of the active volcanoes of the world, the report that two more have been born in Alaska making the grand total 106.

There are 64 smoking peaks in Alaska and the Aleutian Islands and many more in western United States, Hawaii and the Philippines. It is likely, however, if many of the so-called vents of the Mount Katmai region of Alaska would be classed as volcanoes this country could boast of the majority of the old earth's skin troubles—an unenviable record.

There are 417 active volcanoes on the globe that have been located to date.

There are numerous peaks in the Philippine Islands not sufficiently well known to establish whether they are volcanoes or smoke pots or vents. In Alaska there are hundreds of vents from which constantly issue steam and smoke, but which are not called volcanoes.

An occasional volcano bursts forth from the sea near the Aleutian Islands, but finally succumbs to the flood of sea water.

Author Blames Flapper's Floppiness And Laxity on her Discarding Corsets

Eleanor Gates Says Hanging Lower Lips Generally Accompany Uncorseted Waists

By ELEANOR GATES Author of "The Rich Little Poor Boy."

There still survive in the United States not a few gentlemen (they were bridegrooms in the seventies) who cling hard to the old idea that the corset is a harmful, painful, undesirable article of woman's apparel, and who would, if they could, rout the torturing contraption from the land.

I grant that corset-wearing can be abused—just as one can ruin the feet with over-tight shoes, and discourage the growth of hair by a too-tight bowler. But how far removed from the former combination of steel ribs and unyielding buckram bands is today's de-boned affair of much elasticity, especially and scientifically suited to each of the "nine types" of ideal feminine figure—style-giving, health-preserving, comfortable, graceful, sensible.

Consider the modern corset from the standpoint of psychology: The young women who have been shedding their "stays" these last couple of years have, whether they knew it or not, shed far more than that. For bodily slackness, and careless slouching, mean a loss of personal discipline. A corsetless waist is apt to accompany an air of unrestraint. Corsets come off, galoshes go unfastened, and, yes, lower lips hang. If you don't believe it, just observe the uncorseted young girl, in the shops and the restaurants and the theatres. Mouth-breathers!

An Aid to Self-Respect

For the corset is to a woman exactly what a uniform is to a man. It makes for an erect carriage. It tells its wearer that she looks well. Whatever she has put on has stayed put! And instinctively she feels self-respect. Can you imagine a man not suffering a loss of morale if we made him go to business or to a social function without his collar? The buckram is the bulwark of the conventions.

The corset and the collar slung aside, there also departs mental alertness. We say that a hat or frock or a her place second to none in which to work, to live, and to enjoy your great out-of-doors.

"I can add little to the satisfaction that must be yours in a work well done, but it gives me pleasure to know that the forests and your scenic beauties are safe when there are such men in your city to preserve them for the generations to come.

"Very sincerely yours,

U. S. OFFICIAL PRAISES LITHIA PARK AND WATER SHED

S. A. Barton, of the bureau of plant industry, United States department of agriculture, has been spending the past few days as the guest of Jesse Winburn at Sap and Salt. He has been studying the conditions on the watershed of Ashland creek in connection with the white pine blister rust, a disease affecting the white and sugar pine timber. While this infection has made its appearance in the Puget Sound country of Washington, it has not yet been found in Oregon and every precaution is being taken to keep it from getting a foothold in this state.

Mr. Barton has sent the following letter of appreciation, which we are permitted to publish:
"Mr. Bert Greer.
"Dear Sir:—I have learned from several citizens of Ashland of the part which you played and the leadership you initiated in creating that most valuable asset of your city—Lithia park.

"I have had the opportunity of observing many cities of our country, but nowhere have I seen one the size of yours with so beautiful a park, so well planned and so efficiently maintained. Your park board is to be much congratulated.
"Ashland is indeed fortunate: On its location, with its thousands of acres of agricultural lands, which have not nearly been brought to its ultimate production, and the forest and its scenic bounties streaming in to the very heart of your city and people.

"I spent the greater part of two days enjoying and examining the arboratum which is comprised in your city park. Another day along Ashland creek to Mount Ashland, and again through the Mount Wagner section. I found the sanitary conditions protecting the water supply excellent. The forest ever is a joy to behold. The reproduction of trees on the few old burns is coming on in fine shape. Protected from fire and disease, this water shed will always provide an abundance of the finest water and a natural park that would be the envy of cities many times the size of yours.
"Nature has been kind to Ashland but it would count for little if there were not among you those men who have the broad vision, the leadership and the means, who are developing your lands to the fullest, who have made your waste places a garden of Eden, and who are even now planning that Ashland shall take

Science Aids Starving

Science is helping the starving peoples of Russia and the Near East almost as much as American charity is relieving them. A problem has been to get foods with the needed vitamins to build up the impoverished, so that diseases attacking the undernourished could be banished. Yeast furnishes the needed vitamins but the space required to ship yeast added to the cost of relief. Vegex, one pound of which, it is claimed, has as much vitamin as ten pounds of yeast, is helping the undernourished in Russia and the Near East. Vegex also requires no argument to persuade those who need it to eat it. The trouble has been to secure enough of this concentrated vitamin product for those suffering from beri-beri and digestive and nervous disturbances. Reliable workers are appealing for as much of it as can be sent.
