FORD LOQUACIOUS ON PRESIDENCY AS PROVERBIAL CLAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—An interview with Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, is the basis of an article by Charles W. Wood in the issue of Collier's Weekly that appears August 26 next. It was only after they had passed a good part of two days together that Wood got Ford's permission to publish the interview.

"Will you run for president," Wood said he asked Ford. "Would you accept the nomination if it were offered to you?"

"I won't tell you," the manufacturer replied. Wood comments that a diplomat would have said that he could not answer.

"It doesn't mean anything to me," Ford added.

"What? The presidency?"

"No, the question."

"He wasn't dodging," writes Wood. "Henry Ford doesn't have to dodge political questions, but your questions, if you are to get an answer, must mean something to him."

"What about the tariff?" Wood asked.

"Tariffs are silly."

"What about prohibition?"

"I guess that's here to stay. If it is, it's in the big plan and it's good."

"What about immigration?"

"We need ten times as many people here as we have now."

KLANSMEN DEFY THREATS. INITIATE 4650 NOVICES

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Defying threats of prosecution, 25,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan initiated 4650 novices in the suburbs of Chicago last night, it became known today.

The conclave was held in the outskirts of the city. Most of the klansmen came with automobiles, which were parked in a great semi-circle around the field.

In the center of the field, a great cross covered with cotton was the shrine where the candidates took the oath. The cotton was fired when the oath was taken.

For the first time since the klan was organized newspaper men were admitted.
