GIVES POLECAT AN AIRING AND IS FINED TEN DOLLARS
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Frank B. King went into the wilds Sunday with his trusty rifle. The shooting was poor, so he brought down a polecat and put it in his bag. A friend dared him to take the trophy on the street car "for an airing." He accepted the dare.

Famous Film Stars' Favorite Coiffures

AGNES AYRES
"I am particularly fond of a coiffure in which my hair is dressed very close to my head," explained Agnes Ayres, Paramount picture star, in discussing hair dressing. The wavy marcel breaks the harshness of such a close hairdress, which is further softened by the little curly bangs which partly cover the forehead. No false hair is required and the hair is very easily arranged in this fashion. The lines are smooth and the general effect harmonious.

and just did manage to reach the outstretched arms of a brother officer. The car was able to proceed under its own power.
An hour later King was haled into police court and fined $10 for maintaining a public nuisance. As for the polecat, it would have to have more than the usual nine lives to do it any good, for it is buried good and deep.

KNEW OF HEART'S FUNCTIONS

Papyrus Proves That Ancient Egyptian Physicians Were Fully Conversant With Important Organ.

Egyptian physicians in the days of the Hebrew patriarchs knew the heart is the center of a system, throughout which its pulsations are felt. They performed operations, made diagnoses, catalogued cases and verdicts, and pursued investigations in a scientific spirit, according to a study of the Edward Smith papyrus made by Prof. J. H. Breasted of the University of Chicago.
Professor Breasted declared the ancient document lay in a coffin for "some three and a half millenniums." Pointing out that it was discovered by an American, Edwin Smith, the Chicago orientalist asserted it contained "incomparably the most important body of medical knowledge which has survived to us from the ancient Orient anywhere."
The passage about the heart reads in part: "There is in it (the heart) a canal leading to every member of the body. Concerning these, if the physician places the fingers on the back of the head, on the hands, on the pulse, on the legs, he discovers the heart, for the heart leads to every member and it beats in the canals of every member."

Wild Horses of Sable Island.
Ever since the dismal failure to colonize Sable Island in the Gulf of the St. Lawrence, when Canada was New France, there have been a few domestic animals on that bleak spot, relics of that ill-fated attempt. Some horses were among them, probably survivors of shipwrecks, for Sable Island is a dangerous place and bears the name of the Graveyard of the Gulf, from the number of gallant ships which found their end thereabouts. The horses multiplied and developed into a rough hardy little breed of ponies.

Detroit Has a Kite Day.
Kite day has become an annual event in Detroit. So popular has it become that competitors in the events of the seventh annual kite day in May were divided into two sections. Those who live east of Woodward avenue floated their kites in Pingree park and those who live west competed in Woodward park. The East side contest was particularly thrilling because it was participated in by Chinese, Korean and Filipino boys. Oriental peoples are the most expert makers and flyers of kites in the world, according to the Survey. This fascinating sport with them originally had an important ritual significance.

In His Favorite Role

Wallace Reid, Paramount picture star, likes nothing better than to officiate at the steering gear of a racing automobile. In his latest picture, "Across the Continent," an automobile story by Byron Morgan, he wins a transcontinental race and also the love of a pretty girl who, in disguise, acts as his mechanic. Reid and his leading woman, Mary MacLaren, are shown above in one of the scenes from the picture.
