SISKIYOU COUNTY SHIPS ORE SAMPLES TO FAIR

YREKA, Calif., Sept. 6.—More than a ton of specimen ores have been shipped from Siskiyou county to be placed on exhibition at the state fair in Sacramento. These specimens represent more than a score of varieties of minerals found in this county, among the richer minerals being radium bearing galena, gold bearing quartz, platinum and silver. Cinnabar ore and pure quicksilver in its native state are included.

These minerals are from more than 200 Siskiyou county mines, many of which are now in actual operation. Some are from lines that yield high assays and are awaiting capital for development.

The famous $150,000 Siskiyou county gold exhibit, which is said to be the finest ever in existence, will also be exhibited at the state fair. This exhibit was shown at the Shriners' convention in San Francisco, and then sent to Chicago, where it was shown at several large conventions.

Both the old and new Siskiyou county exhibits contain large pieces of gold shown in its pure native state in quartz, in galena, in porphyry and in mixed nugget form, some pieces being worth thousands of dollars.

Besides the minerals many varieties of building and ornamental stone are being sent to the fair, including red, green, gray and white marble, which is not surpassed for quality and is found here in abundance.

RIVER IN PLACE OF A SWAMP

Remarkable Upheaval Said to Be Without Precedent in History of British East Africa.

The bursting of a swamp 22 miles from Nairobi, writes the London Daily Mail correspondent, is without precedent in the history of the British occupation of Kenya colony, formerly British East Africa. Where once was a placid swamp covered with papyrus grass, there is now a permanent valley with a turbulent river, flowing down the center.

In the swamp was a floating papyrus mattress many feet thick and with about 20 feet of water beneath. Embankments were made and a bridge erected carrying the road across the swamp, and when the Thika railroad was also erected across this swamp at a point a few hundred yards below the road bridge.

Now many square miles of swamp water have been released. The effect was a break-up of the papyrus like the smashing of a log jam. The weight of the water wiped out the main and minor road bridges and seriously damaged the railway bridge, cutting off from civilization the whole of the huge agricultural area of the Kenya province around Mount Kenya.

Earthquake shocks were experienced in this district recently, and the theory of the government officials is that these caused the sudden collapse of the support of the swamp, that support probably taking the form of a rocky roof of huge underground caverns.

No floods below the valley are reported, and the volume of water must, therefore, have gone underground leaving behind a new and unexplored declivity many miles long, which may be the resting place of minerals or remains of scientific importance.

PUTS FAITH IN YOUNG MEN

Successful Merchant Tells of System Which Has Helped Him in His Business Career.

It takes time to do anything. Therefore, time is an important factor in all accomplishment. But the idea that there is an age limit on ability is headed for the discard. Where they are given a free rein, young men under 40, and even under 30—are coming to the front in surprising number. A man who is noted for his ability to make successes of young men said recently:

"The secret of my ability to hold men, and always to have a man to put in a responsible position is my policy of watching the young man closely. I keep an eye on all of them, and before they realize I know who they are, I am calling them into my office and asking for their advice. If their advice sounds at all plausible, I give them carte blanche to go ahead and work out the plan they suggest. Often it almost staggers them, but more often than not they make good. Too few of us realize the dormant ability we have around our business in the shape of young accountants, stenographers, clerks or young salesmen."—Forbes Magazine.

The Dianemologo.

This singular name is given by the inventor, Eduardo Torresty Quevedo, a Spaniard, to an apparatus intended to take the place of stenography in reporting speeches. The apparatus, which consists simply of a series of little bells, requires the co-operation of eight or ten writers. Each writer takes a single phrase from the speaker's mouth. At the tinkle of a bell on his left he begins to write what he hears. The bell on his right arrests him and sets his neighbor at work. By the time the circuit is made the first writer is ready for another phrase. Afterward the phrases, which are numbered in their order of taking, are reunited to form the entire report. Tried at the Athenee, in Madrid, the dianemologo is said to have given satisfactory results.—Washington Star.

Indian Emerald Mines Located.

The Conquistadores, when they seized the rich emerald mines of Colombia, forcing the native Indians to work them, suspected the existence of other mines. After a search of three years in Colombia, Christopher Dixon, engineer for the Colombian Emerald syndicate, says he has located some of the ancient mines hidden from the profiteering Spaniards by the natives.

The emeralds of Colombia are the finest, but not the biggest, in the world, and the country produces more than all the rest of the world combined. The recently rediscovered mines, Mr. Dixon said, are about two and a half days' journey from Bogota.

Depth of Death Valley.

Operations of the geological survey in Death valley have shown that the depth of that remarkable depression is less than has hitherto been supposed. The lowest point is 276 feet instead of 450 feet below sea level. Both the highest and lowest points of dry land in the United States, excepting Alaska, lie in southern California, and only 75 miles apart. The first is Mt. Whitney, 14,500 feet high, and the second is Death valley. Before the Salton sink was flooded it contained the lowest point of dry land, 287 feet below sea level.
