TARKINGTON NOVEL FILMED

"The Man from Home" Finely Produced by Geo. Fitzmaurice

Foremost among the novels which have brought Booth Tarkington lasting fame, is undoubtedly "The Man from Home," which has now been translated to the screen and which will be showing at the Vining theatre tomorrow and Monday. With the action laid mostly in Italy, and several scenes in England and America, the story is a thrilling one and in its transference to the screen, it has lost none of its intensity. Produced by George Fitzmaurice for Paramount, it has been invested with the customary fire and vigor expected from this virile director. One of the chief details is the excellent cast, which comprises such favorites as James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Norman Kerry, Dorothy Cumming and John Milern.

"The Storm" is coming! And when it arrives at the Vining theatre September 19-20-21, see it, for it is one photoplay in a thousand.

"The Storm" will sweep you up in the intensity of its drama, thrill you with its stark realism, awe you with the majesty of a vast outdoors, and with the intensity of its drama, thrill you with its stark realism, awe you with the majesty of a vast outdoors, and with the intensity of its drama, thrill you with its stark realism, awe you with the majesty of a vast outdoors.

Fair is Monday—A one-day fair is planned by the Rogue River community club for that town Monday. Among the attractions offered are an athletic show and special musical numbers. Walter M. Pierce, democratic nominee for governor, will be the speaker of the day.

Returning Home—Mrs. Charles A. Miller and daughter Charlotte, of San Anselmo, Calif., stopped for a few days this week with the Dr. George J. Kinz family as they were en route home after a six weeks' trip through the north-west, including a two weeks' stay in Yellowstone park. They left Ashland for their home Thursday morning.

ANCIENT WATER SYSTEM FOUND AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 9.—A section of wood pipe, eight feet long, from the first pressure water system laid in Vancouver, in 1864, was unearthed by workmen digging the ditch for the steam heating system of the Vancouver Steam & Manufacturing company, and is at the shop of Chat Knight, No. 1014 Daniels street. The pipe was made from a fir sapling and has a hole three inches in diameter. Mike Wintler was head of the first water company, and the pipe line extended down Main street, with short branches on side streets. Months were consumed in boring the pipes, which were in short sections and fastened at the joints with iron bands. Before the pipe line was laid, water hauled from the river was sold to the residents for 25 cents a barrel.

portable photograph and a series of records, which, she claims, will give her the proper emotional feelings. An orchestra had been hired for the purpose, but Miss Prevost cares not for orchestral music.

Only once in a month of Sundays is there a picture that holds a greater appeal for men than for women, and "The Storm" is the one in the current month. "The Storm" is the eternal triangle in its most elemental form, a woman and two men fastened up in a mountain shack by an impenetrable wall of snow. The girl, an unsophisticated daughter of the forest primeval. One man, shut up in his own world of solitude. The other, shut off from his world of man's artificial gaiety and comfort.

Wesley Barry recently celebrated his fifteenth birthday. With the completion of his latest picture, "Heroes of the Street," he was tendered a party by Harry Rapf and the Warner Brothers at the coast studios. Wesley's mother presented him with a home projection machine and by the time he got through collecting the gifts the entire outlay covered two large tables.

ARRIVES IN ASHLAND FOR OFFICIAL VISIT

Mrs. Theresa Castner, worthy grand matron of the grand chapter of Oregon, Order of Eastern Star, arrived in Ashland this morning for her annual official visit. She was met by the worthy matron of Alpha chapter, Mrs. W. H. McNair, who entertained her until the noon hour. A luncheon was given at 12:30 at the Hotel Ashland in honor of the visitor, following which a lodge of instruction was held.

The official visit to the local chapter will take place tonight, and will be followed by a social meeting with refreshments.

STUDY CLASS WILL OPEN IN BROWN BUNGALOW CHAPEL

Quite a number of the people of Ashland have the mistaken idea that the building at 485 Boulevard, generally known as the "Temple of Truth," is still owned by the Spiritualist society, and it is the purpose at this time to announce that this place has not been in the hands of the organization for some years past. The building has been renamed the "Brown Bungalow Chapel."

A study class will open September 10 at 7:30 p. m. at the above mentioned building, and any earnest person will be gladly welcomed to come and study how we may better follow "in the steps of the Master."

Those who are anxious to see more of unity and brotherly love prevail—a step toward world peace—will find these lessons a great help. We will start with a "beginner's course," including the following subjects: "Seven principles of man and the universe," "Law of cause and effect," (Karma.) "Law of rebirth," (Reincarnation.) "Man's state after (so-called) death," (Devachan.) "Solidarity." Also the study of ethics, social science, philosophy, and other subjects of intense interest to all true students of life. Without a thorough understanding of the "seven principles," one can neither understand himself nor life as he finds it.

No admission fee. No collection.

QUITE HELPFUL SUGGESTION

Sally Just Naturally Hated to Return Without Something to Show for the Journey.

A young couple in the mountains of Tennessee set out to get married. The young man put a lump of beeswax in the bottom of the buggy and with his prospective bride drove to the nearest magistrate, who was also a storekeeper. The young man told the magistrate that he wanted to get married, and also mentioned that he was short of funds. Would the magistrate credit him till more prosperous times? The hard-hearted magistrate refused. "Well," said the young man, "I got a ball of beeswax here, if you'll take that I'll turn it in on the cost." The magistrate agreed and took the beeswax into the store and weighed it, returning with a disappointing news that it lacked a dollar and a half of being big enough to pay the fee. "Well, ain't y' trust me for the rest?" persisted the young man. The magistrate shook his head with finality. "Ain't do it."

BIDS DEFIANCE TO "KICKERS"

Editor's Encouragement to Writer Who Felt Like Giving Up in Face of Criticism.

"Some of the neighbors are making a howl about the items we are sending in," says a contributor of local news items to the Columbus (Montana) News, "so I believe that as soon as my supply of stationery runs out I will quit writing. Let some one else take the job if they think they can do so much better. I am getting tired of being bawled out every week, and would like to sit back and criticize some one else writing, for a while." To this the editor, not wishing to lose an able writer, brackets a comforting and finely independent reply: "Stay with em, kid! Don't let the jabbering of a few kickers unroll the cause in your disposition. If an editor or writer takes the scare that easy, we would have swapped our pen for a Fatima 10 years ago, and each and every issue since then. If our patrons don't like what you and I write let them stop taking the darned News, and then they will surely have no kick coming."—From the Outlook.

Work for Mathematician.

While putting a record on a phonograph the other day the writer was struck with the fact that a point on the circumference of the disc makes 78 revolutions a minute exactly the same as any point in nearer to the center.

In other words, while a point two inches, say, from the center is going around a certain number of inches, a point on the outer edge is going around a greatly increased number of inches in exactly the same time. Supposin' the disc were increased to a diameter of a mile—some record!—and the speed of this huge disc still maintained at 78 revolutions a minute, how fast would a given point on the edge be going?

Not being a mathematician, I leave this pretty problem to the bureau of standards, naval observatory or any one of the scores of statistical branches of the government service. It ought to be easy to work out for a person whose inclinations run that way.—Washington Star.

Sea Fishing for Giant Whip Rays.

The English hunter and explorer, F. A. Mitchell-Hedges, is fishing for sea monsters in the Caribbean, and he declares the sport to be far more exciting than hunting big game on land. Especially if one goes after giant whip rays, "the most deadly creatures in the ocean." They weigh some three-quarters of a ton, and are armed for offense with a long whip tail which carries a spike as sharp as a needle. "A fearsome poison is hidden in that spike. One blow, and the man who is struck by it dies in agony within three minutes." Mr. Mitchell-Hedges' party got two whip rays, nearly losing themselves and their canoe in the first fight, when they tried to land a ray that was only pretending to be stunned and attacked them savagely with his fiendish tail.

More Than Two Weeks.

The Russian calendar, thirteen days behind ours, rather annoyed some American business men who tried to place orders in south Russia during the reactionary regime of General Denikin. One of them in particular was slow to grasp, for instance, why our June 14 should be the Russian June 1. At length, when the idea had finally penetrated him, he still shook his head incredulously, remarking: "No, sree! You can't make me believe that these people are no more than thirteen days behind the rest of the world. It's hundreds—and years, at that."—Robert Dunn in the New York World.

Something Similar.

"Are scientists still trying to learn the monkey language?" asked Mr. Gilpping. "I don't know," said Mr. Dubwaite, "but if they want to hear a pretty fair substitute they ought to listen to my youngest daughter talking to one of her rab-rab friends over the telephone."

TO STUDY FLIGHT OF BIRDS

Students of Aviation Seek to Solve Riddle of the Albatross and Other "Soarers."

Students of aviation are trying to solve the riddle of how the albatross and other great "soarers" make effortless flight without wing beats. Special investigation of this phenomenon will be made during the motorless flying carnivals in France, Germany and Switzerland. All birds which have this wonderful power of gliding here and there with motionless outstretched wings are alike in one respect. Underneath their widespread wings, as they extend them in soaring, are clearly marked transverse ridges. What purpose those underneath-wing "ribs" or ridges serve is, at present, a mystery; but the significant fact is that all great soarers have them, whereas birds which do not soar, but move only by constant wing beats, have no such ridges. An ingenious theory is that by means of these "ridges" the birds focus, or compress, wind eddies as they sweep beneath the wings, and so manage to extract not only an upward "lift," but also a propulsive effort from them. Another explanation is that the bird is able to vibrate its apparently motionless wing, so that the transverse "ribs" accelerate the wind flow under the wing and obtain a reaction which drives the bird forward without any visible wing effort.

Educational.

Dancing plays a very important part in the education of boys and girls in Japan. In the better class families the dancing teacher comes every other day, regular practice is an affair of routine, and private entertainments, where the children perform are arranged by friendly families.—Omaha Bee.
