Three Distinct Styles in Fall Skirts

The skirts of the season are of three notable types, all, however, of a certain similarity. The first and most popular, and perhaps the most graceful, is the skirt that is draped over to one side, with material drawn over one hip. It trails to the floor in graceful, tapering lines. The second, the full-gathered skirt of circular effect, has short back and front, with long sides almost to the ground. These sides usually have most of the gathers, and sway about in a most attractive manner. They are also generally façued with a light shade such as taupe, gray, or tan; or perhaps with a really brilliant hue like scarlet. In cases where the skirts are those complementing a metal trimmed bodice, the facing is likewise metallic—gold or silver lame. The third type, and a smart one, is the straight-gathered skirt slit from hem to hip. This necessitates an underskirt, which is often of very handsome material, or beautiful coloring. Such a skirt is shown above on the dress Gloria Swanson, the Paramount star, is wearing for her picture, "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew."

The dress is a Callot model, imported by Miss Swanson especially to be worn in this picture. It is of black satin, long waisted, ankle length, and shows a new neckline that is coming into favor—the shallow square. (This neckline, by the way, has by no means succeeded the ever-popular bateau line, but it is coming to the fore nevertheless.) The underskirt showing through the slit is of sand-colored wool crepe, and it also lines the wide sleeves. Matching stockings and slippers complete the costume. The slippers are banded in black.

Oregon State Fair To Star Replicas Of Noted Artists

SALEM, Sept. 18.—(Special.)—Perfect replicas of some of the world's greatest paintings are to be a new feature of the Sixty-first Oregon state fair, which opens here September 25. The art exhibit, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Weister, of Portland, gives promise of being one of the most popular displays on the grounds, and Mrs. Weister is expending every effort to make her department worthy of the widespread interest that has already been manifested in the art section.

Mrs. Weister is to have the assistance of Mrs. R. Bruce Horstall, wife of Oregon's renowned painter of bird and animal life.

The replicas of the great masters that are to be shown are the loan collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of New York city, which is being brought to the Pacific coast for the first time. All of the canvases are quite large, ranging from 32 by 40 inches to 45 by 60 inches, and include the following:

- "Waiting and Watching" by Jules Adolphe Breton; "Meditation" and "Woman Sewing," by Mary Cassatt; "Landscape," by Jean Charles Cazin; "Moorish Sentinel," by Georges J. V. Clarin; "Children Calling Cows," by Xavier de Cock; "The Rain," by William Anderson Coffin; "Puente San Martin of Toledo," by Lewis Cohen; "Clearing Off," by Mrs. Charlotte Buell Coman; "The Peace Pipe," by E. Irving Couse; "Children and Lizard," by Pena de la Diaz; "Wind-flowers," by Ruger Donoho; "Charles Foster," by Montague Flagg; "Lake Maggiore," by Sanford R. Gifford; "Charity," by Nicholas Gysis; "Golden Afternoon, Oregon," by Childe Hassam; "Vespers," by George Hitchcock; "Landscape," by Eugene Jettel; "William Cullen Bryant," by Thomas LeLear; "Portrait of a Young Girl," by Franz von Lenbach; "Autumn," by Anton Mauve; "The Cozy Corner," by Francis Davis Millet; "Marine," by Edward Moran; "Winter Light," by Leonard Ochtman; "A Night in the Catskills," by Artaur Parton; "Italian Garden," by Martin Rico; "Old Mill," by Theodore Robinson; "East Hampton Meadows," by Geo. H. Smille; "Nocturne, Temple d'Amour," by Edward J. Steichen; "In the Study," by Charles Meer Webb.

DISMANTLING OF DREDGER BEGUN IN CALIFORNIA

FAIR OAKS, Calif., Sept. 18.—The wrecking of the Natomas gold dredger number one near Fair Oaks began last week. The boat was constructed in 1916 and at the time was the last thing in dredge building.

Five years was the span of life allotted to it at the time of construction, but the ground proved valuable, and a year was added to the first decision. Three of the original crew of workmen still remain on the structure, two workmen and one offer. All others including the dredge master have changed.

Some of the scenes in the film of "The Hell Diggers" were taken on this dredger.

KLAMATH LUMBER INDUSTRY THREATENED BY RESERVOIR

KLAMATH FALLS, Sept. 18.—Threatened destruction of the lumbering industry on the Upper Klamath lake and loss of 100,000 acres of land bordering the lake shore by inundation is seen in the continued attempts of residents of Shasta valley, Siskiyou county, to use the upper lake for a store reservoir to irrigate 150,000 acres in Shasta valley.

The danger that the Shasta Valley project may be approved before Klamath county is awakened to the loss it would entail and has entered adequate protests, was discussed at the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday at the suggestion of J. F. Kimball.
