NO RETIRING FOR HIM

Dr. Andrew Jackson Hutton, who examines the literary features of examination papers for the civil service commission, Washington, will be ninety-one years old December 4 of this year. His intellect is as keen as that of a man a third of his age, and he says he will not retire. Doctor Hutton was born in New Hampshire, was a soldier in the Civil war and department commander of the G. A. R. He studied medicine and received the degree of M. D. at Georgetown university.

CHINESE NOW CLAIM HONOR

Buddhist Priests Said to Have Discovered America Long Before Day of Columbus.

Legends common to the literature of both China and Japan relate that about the year 499 Hwai Shan, a Buddhist missionary, in company with five brother priests, found a land many miles to the eastward of China which he named Fusang. They sailed along the Chinese coast to Kamchatka and thence along the Aleutian Islands to Alaska. The description of the peoples they found fits the Aleuts and the Eskimos as they are today.

From Alaska, which they called Great Han, they sailed along the coast to Fusang. Hwai Shan describes the dwellings made of blocks of sun-dried mud, which housed many people; a description which fits the pueblos of ancient America. He mentions a plant used in making cordage and paper, which afforded vegetable milk and which yielded tender edible sprouts. The magney plant also answers this description.

He also describes a plant and its fruit which is the species of cactus commonly known as the prickly pear. From the Chinese records, therefore, Fusang was very like Mexico.

A few years ago the Chinese government directed its historian to make a search of the imperial records, and from them came the foregoing account.

PESSIMISM NEVER IN ORDER

Present Time Always Just as Good a Time as Any, if One Will but Consider.

Our age is bewailed as an age of Introversions. Must that needs be evil? We, it seems, are critical; we are embarrassed with second thoughts; we cannot enjoy anything for hankering to know whereof the pleasure consists; we are lined with eyes; we see with our feet; the time is infected with Hamlet's unhappiness—

Sickled o'er with the pale cast of thought. Is it so bad then? Sight is the last thing to be pitied. Would we be blind? Do we fear lest we should outsee nature and God, and drink truth dry? I look upon the discontent of the literary class as a mere announcement of the fact that they find themselves not in the state of mind of their fathers, and regret the coming state as untold; as a boy dreads the water before he has learned that he can swim. If there is any period one would desire to be born in—is it not the age of Revolution; when the old and the new stand side by side, and admit of being compared; when the energies of all men are searched by fear and by hope; when the historic glories of the old can be compensated by the rich possibilities of the new era? This time, like all times, is a very good one, if we know what to do with it.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Origin of Polka-Dot.

Silvered with the dust of decades is the polka-dot pattern in men's scarfs. Fashions may appear and disappear, but the polka-dot is peerless and disappearanceless. As regularly as sunrise and the seasons, this design brightens windows and wearers. It is one-and-invisible with the fine art of dress alike in America and England.

To the polka-dot is ascribed an odd ancestry. Its name, of course, is derived from the polka, an old-fashioned round dance with three steps to the measure. This dance, introduced in Europe by a Bohemian, round about 1835, spread to the United States at the time that Polk was a candidate for the presidency. The polka-dot was bracketed with Polk's name by political admirers, and polka-this and polka-that, from shirts to shoes, became a bit of furore in merchants' windows.

Wood Has Bad Reputation.

Elder is of ill-omen since Judas, they say, hanged himself thereon, yet it has the virtue of beauty in the days of wild roses and honeysuckle. Elder-flower-water is good for complexions, say rustic maids, and old-time farmers claim for elderberry-wine that it is "a pretty tidy tippie."

HANDS INDEX TO CHARACTER

Still Reveal Much, Though Probably Less Than Was the Case Some Few Years Ago.

Once it was possible to tell a "lady" by her hands—that is if you regarded a lady as "a female of the favored social class." She had well-kept hands because she did nothing to roughen them or enlarge their knuckles or cause premature wrinkles. Even if fortune had gone against her she somehow avoided the work that would mar the symmetry of those hands. She did without sugar for her tea and did needlework for money in order to avoid the work that she regarded as menial. And because a woman of this class knew that it was at her hands that others looked for an index to her social position it was her hands that she saved, wearing gloves by day and by night to keep them white and to protect them and repair them from the ravages of wind, sun and housework.

The situation is rather different now. The young woman of immigrant parents who sells tinware in the department store basement has elaborately manicured nails and hands that are smooth, but the wife of the college president has hands that clearly show the effects of work that we would once have regarded as menial.

Perhaps still to the keen observer hands have something to tell of their owner's rank or pedigree. There are some hands that no matter how diligently manicured always look a little grimy at the corners, and others, lacking entirely the luster of the manicure buffer, that are always scrupulously clean.

PRIZED AMBER AS ORNAMENT

Romans Secured It From "Barbarous" Germans, Who Had Small Idea of Its Real Value.

Amber, which is fossilized resin, was in great demand among the Romans for ornaments. Tacitus, in his "Germania," tells that it was gathered by the barbarian Germans. "They explore the sea for amber, in their language called 'gleese,' and are the only people who gather that curious substance," he says. "It is generally found among the shallows; sometimes on the shore. Concerning the nature of the cause of this concretion the barbarians, with their usual want of curiosity, make no inquiry. Amongst other superfluities discharged by the sea this substance lay long neglected, till Roman luxury gave it a name and brought it into request. To the savages it is of no use. They gather it into rude heaps and offer it for sale without any form or polish, wondering at the price they receive for it."

Poem Had Origin in Actual Life.

The famous poem about the boy who stood on the burning deck had its origin in an actual happening which constitutes a page in history. It was during Napoleon's expedition to Egypt that England sent Lord Nelson to capture him and annihilate his fleet. At the battle of Abukir the French navy was crushed and Napoleon was forced to flee, all but four of his ships being sunk, burned or captured.

Compass Plant Western Product.

On the prairies and plains of Utah, Texas and southern Minnesota there grows a wonderful plant which has proved useful to travelers wandering over these vast tracts of country. It is called the compass plant, or pilot plant, because of a peculiarity in the growth of the leaves, which grow alternately along the stalk, and point precisely north and south.

One of Noah's Pets.

It was swammy around Denver 2,000,000 years ago, according to Prof. J. D. Figgins, director of the Colorado Museum of Natural History. The traveler who wants to hobnob with the monsters of long ago can do so in the city park collection, in Denver, where the skeleton of an animal closely related to the present-day rhinoceros is on exhibition, one-half of it covered with an imitation hide.

Natural Qualification.

"Oliver Twist was always asking for more," remarked Senator Sorghum. "Yet he became a worthy citizen," observed the admirer of Dickens. "Yes. Probably he grew up eventually to be a tax collector."

Educational. Dancing plays a very important part in the education of boys and girls in Japan. In the better class families the dancing teacher comes every other day, regular practice is an affair of routine, and private entertainments, where the children perform are arranged by friendly families.—Omaha Bee.
