OREGON PASTOR IN JAIL BREAK FOUND IN HOUSE

HERBERT WILSON AND HIS TWO PAIS ARE CAPTURED EARLY TODAY

EX-CONVICT SHELTERS BANDIT TRIO IN HOME

Man and Woman Arrested Near Los Angeles; Former Minister Said to Have Been Fond of Hunting and Fishing.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—Herbert Wilson, millionaire bandit and an ex-minister of Brownsville, Or., together with Guido Spingola, alias "The Mouse," charged with an $80,000 robbery of the Standard Oil company, and Adam Bluzyk, alias Adam Ward, who was under life sentence for the murder of his aged landlady, were captured in a house near here early this morning.

The house was occupied by Tom Garwood, an ex-convict and a Mrs. La Stange. Both of these were arrested.

Members of a sheriff's posse surrounded the house, seeing that they were surrounded, the trio gave themselves up to the authorities.

Wilson spent eight months in Oregon, serving as pastor of the Baptist church at Brownsville, coming to the state from Ontario, Canada, in the summer of 1914. He resigned the following year and returned to Canada, later removing to California. The church at Brownsville was his first regular ordination. He is said to be very fond of hunting and fishing, a wonderful fly caster and a dead shot.

LAD SLIGHTLY INJURED BY CAR WHILE CROSSING STREET

Kenneth Wood, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Wood, of the Home bakery, was slightly injured late Tuesday afternoon, when he attempted to cross North Main street, directly in front of the bakery.

The lad was on the east side of the street, and had waited until a number of cars had passed before he started to cross the street. A machine turned the corner close at hand and confused him, causing him to hesitate, which resulted in his being struck by the rear wheel of another car, which threw him to the pavement.

The injuries to the lad were very slight, as the car which he ran against had been brought almost to a stop before he came into contact with it, and a badly bruised leg is the apparent extent of his hurts.

NEXT OF KIN RECEIVES BENEFIT OF SOLDIER BONUS

SALEM, Oct. 18.—In the event of the death of an ex-service man who was entitled to the benefits of the Oregon bonus law, his claim reverts to his next of kin in the order named in the statutes and not to his estate, according to an opinion handed down by the supreme court Tuesday morning. The opinion, written by Justice Rand, was based upon the suit brought by Margaret Crane, as administratrix of the estate of Fred H. Crane, deceased, to compel payment of Crane's bonus claim to his estate. In affirming the judgment of Judge Kelly of the Marion county circuit court, Justice Rand holds that Mrs. Crane is entitled to the bonus payment as Crane's widow, but not as the administratrix of his estate.

Visitors from Glendale—Mrs. Fred Cornell and daughter Susie, of Glendale, Or., are guests at the W. C. Brown home.

COUNCIL SESSION NOT VERY LENGTHY

Little business of importance was placed before the city council at the regular session Tuesday night, and the adjournment order was given early. The council will meet at a special session Monday, October 30, for the purpose of considering the budget for the coming year.

Dairymen of the city are seeking an ordinance compelling those having but one or two cows to have the stock inspected before being allowed to sell milk in the city. The matter was referred to the sanitary committee for investigation.

That bicycles and motorcycles are being ridden on sidewalks on lower Oak street was reported. Names of the offenders were ordered to be turned over to the police for action.

Placing of additional street lights, investigated by Councilman Finley and City Electrician Easterling, were not approved for East Main street and the railroad. Two lights were asked for the entrance of the Chautauqua building on south Pioneer street and another near the Catholic church, on Sixth street. Both were referred to the light committee. Lights were ordered on the Boulevard beyond Indiana street.

Members of the street committee were asked to investigate the sidewalk on Sixth street, with instructions to see if action could not be taken before the arrival of cold weather. The committee was also given power to have several crossing gutters repaired.

Other business was the empowering of W. M. Briggs to represent the city in the circuit court in the case of the City of Ashland vs. Jesse Winburn, the confirmation of the appointment of Mrs. A. H. This was the announcement Tuesday of W. J. Loring, one of the members of the committee, who explained that the adjournment taken at the conclusion of the opening hearing was in line with the committee's plans.

Decision to adjourn until a Jackson hearing on October 26 will mean a lapse of more than a week between hearings. Loring said the San Francisco testimony was not completed and a later session would be held here after the Jackson hearing.

HAWLEY GUEST AT LUNCHEON BY 11 REPUBLICANS

CONGRESSMAN SPENDS A FEW HOURS IN THE CITY TODAY WITH FRIENDS

ADMINISTRATION'S WORK IS PRAISED BY SPEAKER

Points Out Return to Normalcy of Days of 1914; Optimistic Over Present Conditions; Favors Payment of Soldiers' Bonus.

Picturing the work of the past session of congress and the present administration during the past two years in an optimistic manner, Congressman W. C. Hawley spoke to a small gathering of prominent local Republicans at an informal luncheon at the Hotel Ashland this noon.

"Talk of democratic economy is the greatest joke I know," declared Mr. Hawley. "During the war that party wasted, gentlemen, absolutely wasted, the enormous sum of 15 billions of dollars, upon which we must now pay interest. We must call a halt on the creation of debts."

"Reduction of taxes, a real reduction for everyone, and not a transfer of the burden from one class of people to another, was accomplished by the passing of the revenue law of 1921. The present generation will not pay for the indebtedness incurred by the war. It must be handed down to the following generations. If we hand down the debt, we should also give them the assets. It is not ours to dispose of."

How the republican party had reorganized a war-torn nation, restored industry to a firm basis and the readjustment of millions of people made, and how there was now no problem of unemployment, all without a panic, was related by the speaker. Mr. Hawley also told how the nation had been restored to the basis of 1914, and how liberty bonds had been increased and the government's credit reinstated.

In commenting upon the soldiers' bonus, Mr. Hawley said: "We could have taken care of it this year. I was on the sub-committee that helped to frame the bonus, and twice voted for it over the president's veto."

Those present at the luncheon were: T. H. Simpson, J. W. McCoy, Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Woods, V. O. N. Smith, F. D. Wagner, Rev. J. S. Chaney, G. F. Billings, E. D. Briggs, Rev. C. F. Koehler and E. V. Carter.

SERGEANT NORTON MADE LIEUTENANT AT MONDAY DRILL

An advancement in rating was made in the 484th company, by Captain John Q. Adams, since his return from Camp Perry. As a reward for his faithful service, Sergeant Cecil E. Norton has been appointed a second lieutenant. This completes the commissioned personnel of the local unit, and is an advancement that is popular with the members of the organization. Sergeant Norton saw service overseas and was a member of the old First company, going into action with the 65th field artillery. Several others have been recommended for corporals, to be promoted from privates first class.

Former Captain W. M. Briggs and Dr. MacCracken were present at the regular drill night and talked on the future of the company.

Following a feed, members of the unit engaged in competitive drills and shooting. Sergeant Norton won first place for proficiency in the manual of arms, with Sergeants Sargent and Clary second and third, respectively.

Private Sam Prescott took first place in the competitive shoot. The course consisted of 10 shots, standing, at 50 feet. Shooting from a sitting position will be held next Monday night, while the following week kneeling and prone firing will be staged. The winner of the aggregate score for all positions, which will be completed on November 6, will be awarded an appropriate prize.

Scores made Monday night are: Prescott and Lieutenant Danford, 43; Hobson, 42; Briggs, Adams, Bates, A. F. Edwards and Johnson, 41; Norton, 40; Wilcox, Leach, Moore, Burns, Sargent, Ring, Butterfield, 39; Wentner, McNair, McCracken, Crowson, 35; McKinney, Carlson, Wertz, 34; Clary, 31; Edwards, Bristow, 30; Young, 29; Hansen, 21; Richards, 7; Slack, Wenner and Robertson did not participate in the contest.

Search is being continued for the two other victims.

LEAD POISONING FROM BEER VATS IN LONDON

ENGLAND PREPARES FOR PARTY FIGHT

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Both wings of the Tory party are busy recruiting in full strength today in preparation for tomorrow's struggle when members vote to support the coalition government of Lloyd George, or to withdraw.

Austen Chamberlain, spokesman of the house of commons, asks the party to support the premier.

If the vote is against Chamberlain's suggestion it is tantamount to a withdrawal by the unionists.

The premier tells the Tories that if Chamberlain is voted down, he will quit.

Concerning the new political attack on Lloyd George, Lord Gladstone, of the premier's party, says Lloyd George and the present policy "are both unacceptable to the liberals."

WOMAN'S NOTES TO RECTOR ARE FAR FROM COOL

MRS. MILLS PENNED BURNING LOVE LETTERS TO REV. HALL

MANY ENDEARING TERMS EMPLOYED BY WRITER

Admits She Could Rave for Hours; Bemoans Lack of "Lovesick"; "Dead Minister Called 'Babykins,' 'Honey,' 'Sweetheart' and Others.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 18.—Six additional letters received by Rector Hall from Mrs. Mills, "wonder heart" choir singer, forms another chapter in the tempestuous love tragedy. Excerpts follow:

"My darling, how will you seem today? I'm tired—I want to be with you and rest for hours. Honey, you put dear pictures in my hymn book. Oh, you sweet, adorable babykins of mine. Minnie used my hymnal for the organ. I wonder if she saw them—but I don't care.

"Oh, darling, if I had an income of my own, I would build a waiting love nest where we could dream unmolested. I could rave for hours, but must stop as there are peepers around."

Letter two reads: "Grandma is here and I must stop, sweetheart. My true heart, I could crush you. I am wild tonight and so happy I could dance very wildly."

Letter five: "I know that if you love me you will long and ache for my body. Have I ever made you want me? I never wanted to."

A cordon of police guard the Hall residence. Mrs. Hall is there, also Willie Stevens, her eccentric brother.

'WE SHOULD WORRY' IS MUSICAL COMEDY

"We Should Worry," to be produced by the local B. P. O. Elks at the Vining theatre, October 31 and November 1, under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Powell, is a musical comedy in three acts, with a kick in each and every line, accompanied by excellent music.

Among the many features of "We Should Worry," are the Elks' Pony ballet, the Cry Baby chorus, and the Fashion Revue chorus. As is the rule of such offerings, "We Should Worry" has a moral. That is—"Tell your wife. If you have a past, tell it to your wife on your wedding day. It's safer and comes cheaper."

The story of "We Should Worry" is woven around a man who is in love with his wife, but who has a mother-in-law that is the boss of his home. She endeavors to—oh, well, come and see it for yourself.

Developing a group of inexperienced musical talent actors is no light task, but according to reports that have been received in other cities, where the show has been directed by Mr. and Mrs. Powell, this has been accomplished in a highly satisfactory manner.

Mr. Powell will be kept busy this week selecting the personnel of his cast and expects to be in a position to make this public by the latter part of the week.
