YE SHALL BE SATISFIED—Ye shall eat in plenty, and be satisfied, and praise the name of the Lord, your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you; and my people shall never be ashamed.—Joel 2: 26.

BELLEVUE IRRIGATION
 The Bellevue irrigation dinner at the Armory, by the chamber of commerce Thursday evening, was one of the most important of its kind ever staged in Ashland. It will likely result in crystallizing the sentiment out there in favor of joining the Talent district for irrigation of a large acreage east of town.

There were too few Ashland citizens present. Ashland—every man and woman here—should be enthusiastically for the movement. If means as much to Ashland as any one of the other great advancement movements now under contemplation, possibly as much as all of them. That is a section rich in possibilities. Without water it is an indifferent asset to the town, but with irrigation it will become at once the most important section to the prosperity and development of the city. Ashland is so constituted geographically and topographically that intense cultivation and production is her paramount need—both inside and outside her town limits—because her tillable area is so limited that only by intense cultivation can production become an important factor in community development. Irrigation for the Bellevue district means not hundreds, but millions, to the future of Ashland.

Engineer Dillard made it very plain that the district was certain of water enough from the Hyatt Prairie project to supply 9000 acres with one and one-half acre feet of water. Now there is 7000 acres in the district and the addition of the Bellevue district will not be a strain on the supply. Experience here shows that one acre foot is sufficient for the needs in this section. Therefore the district will have 33 1-3 per cent of their supply left after all the needs of the district is met.

Follow Bellevue district irrigation with a more adequate and practical water supply for the city, so that small growers here may be supplied adequately for intense production, and this community will blossom as a rose, she will advance in attractiveness and prosperity beyond the fondest hope of citizens. It will be the making of this section.

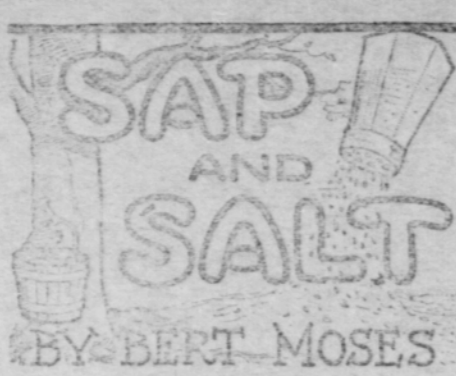

Ashland post of the American Legion went "over the top" in the recent Lyceum drive, due to the managerial ability of V. V. Mills, general chairman of the committee in charge. Comrade Mills devoted much time and no little amount of worry to the enterprise. Through the splendid co-operation of the Ladies Auxiliary of the organization, together with the assistance of many friends of the Legion, and to the thoughtfulness of the ministerial association, the financial success of the course has been assured.

American Legion posts on all sections of the state are beginning to think of Armistice day programs. Elaborate preparations are being made by many of them to celebrate the day when "cease firing" was sounded, and the Hun let the world officially know that he had enough punishment, mostly from the Yanks.

One of the big celebrations will be at Eugene. On this day the University of Oregon holds its annual home coming fests, and the varsity team will meet the gridiron men from Washington State college in a real football skirmish.

One of the gratifying signs of the Legion's prosperity and strength in Oregon is the number of posts that are building meeting halls for their own use. Two of these will be dedicated on Armistice day. They are at Marshfield and Newburg.

'We Should Worry' Proceeds Will Be Given To Charity

Things are moving fast these days around the Elks' club where preparations are now going on for their annual Christmas charity show.

The production this year—"We Should Worry"—is a musical comedy with a large cast of principals and a chorus of 50 and a bevy of girls who can sing and dance. The comedy itself is one long scream from start to finish, and the ten big musical numbers throughout the play are beautiful to look at as well as hear. The settings and costumes for the production were built specially for it and are dazzling to the eye.

Ashland's brightest stars of the home talent world will flash and sparkle in this production and at the conclusion of the rehearsal last evening, the Powells were loud in their praise of Ashland talent. The show will be brimful of pep and comedy and plenty of tuneful music will keep the audience in a hilarious mood the entire evening.

The proceeds of the performance and the Big Show Special will go toward the Christmas benefit fund of the lodge, to be used for Christmas gifts for the poor and help for the needy.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAD A FINE PROGRAM

Seldom have the Presbyterian ladies had a better program than that given Wednesday at the home of Miss Niver and Mrs. Curry. Miss Niver's devotional lesson from

God's answer to Elijah's prayer on Mount Carmel, illustrated by the wonderful answer to prayer of the Pilgrims, when the ship loaded with supplies appeared at the close of a long day of fasting and prayer, set every heart in tune with the promise of God that "My word shall not return unto Me void."

The company was then changed, by a little imagination, from a staid set of women into "boys" ready for the gold rush. A prospector, Mrs. Hulet, fired them with enthusiasm for the rush in. Mrs. Van Sant staked the claims (mission stations), Mrs. Silsby blazed the trail, Mrs. Lamkin produced some gold nuggets (news from the field) of rare quality, Mrs. Ross exhibited "pay dirt" of high average. Her talk on the changed lives of the natives and their needs led to the decision to petition our congressmen at once in behalf of the fisheries bill, designed to stop cannery companies from trap fishing, which privilege denied to the natives, often leaves them penniless for a whole season, and the other bill to protect the Indians from peyote, a narcotic not covered by the Volstead law. The prospector closed with a touching story of a great catch of fish at Point Barrow, in answer to the prayer of the lone missionary for the starving Eskimos.

The next meeting will be a school with Mrs. J. R. Wick, principal. There will be a geography and history class and spelling down and speaking pieces and lots of good things. Missionary meetings are not dull was the opinion of every woman present Wednesday.

LEEDOM will take the KNOCK out of your OLD TIRE or sell you a new CORD for $10.00. 39tf

Baseball Player Is Home—Ken Williams, premier circuit clown of the American league, should be credited officially with one more home run, bringing his total to 40 for the season. Ken just completed his 40th home run when recently he arrived home from St. Louis where he helped put Grants Pass on the baseball map. He was accompanied by Mrs. Williams, the trip being made in Ken's new Haynes roadster. They expect to be here for the next two weeks and will then go to Portland, returning at various times during the winter to visit Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Williams and friends.—Grants Pass Courier.
