'TOWN DOCTOR' ADDRESSES MEN AT FORUM LUNCH

HUMANIZING BUSINESS NECESSARY IS STATEMENT OF WISEHAUPT

PROBLEMS OF ASHLAND DISCUSSED BY FULLER

Coming Winter Fair and Present National Guard Crisis Needs Co-Operation of Entire City; Next Forum Lunch Date November 20.

"Business must be humanized," declared Howard J. Wisehaupt, character analyst and self-styled "town doctor," to members of the chamber of commerce and their wives at the forum luncheon at the Virginia cafe today.

"Business has been divided into four eras," he continued. "The first was the muscle, when brawn counted and men took what they desired by force; the second was the head era, when men obtained results by clever scheming and manipulation; the third, and the present era, is of the heart. The last era, which none of us will see, but which has been predicted, is the soul era." Mr. Wisehaupt then proceeded to tell how the world had been transformed from the head to the heart era almost overnight by the war. That men were broadening and getting together more and more at noonday meetings was his opinion. The business world was characterized as not being sentimental, but merely human.

"Guessing in business must be eliminated," Mr. Wisehaupt said. "This is simple if you study people by tabulating their habits. How many of you merchants know how many people come into your store and leave without making a purchase? This can be learned by careful study of their habits."

Two important problems before the community at present were discussed by J. H. Fuller, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The coming winter fair, which needs the co-operation and assistance of every business man and resident of Ashland, and the existing crisis in the 48th company, Oregon National Guard, which is threatened with disbandment. Mr. Fuller asked for co-operation in arranging for a banquet for the guardsmen, to be given in the Armory, the date not yet decided, though the event will probably be held this month. He also announced that E. C. Robbins, dean of the school of commerce of the University of Oregon, would be the principal speaker at the next forum luncheon, November 20.

Guests and new arrivals in the city introduced at the luncheon today were, John H. Rudd, interstate secretary of the Y. M. C. A., of Portland, by G. H. Billings; Wirt Wright, new proprietor of the Ashland laundry, was introduced by V. O. N. Smith, as a fellow townsman from boyhood days; Miss Shyrock and Mr. Drake, business manager and secretary to Mr. Wisehaupt, respectively, by C. H. Pierce, and Mr. Keltner, representative of the Hawkinbury hotel system. Prof. I. E. Vining presided as chairman of the day.

Mrs. J. H. Fuller stated that she had just received a present of sweet corn and potatoes that had been planted after the 4th of July, and raised under irrigation, and that the product was as fine as any planted in the spring.

MRS. HALL DENIES BEING PRESENT AT HUSBANDS MURDER

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Hall today made a flat denial of being present at the murder of her husband and Mrs. Eleanor Hall, choir singer.

"I know nothing of the tragic affair," was her statement. She said it is unlikely that Dr. Hall wrote the letters. No one ever carried tales to her regarding her slain husband and Mrs. Mills. She was never jealous of Mrs. Mills or any other woman, and she said Mrs. Gibbons' story is manifestly untrue. The widow was calm and collected.

The name of a private detective was linked today with an alleged attempt to bribe Mrs. Jane Gibson, self-styled eye witness of the murder of Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. James Mills. The "pig woman" met the "feeler" with a blaze of defiance.

Newspapermen today had their first interview with Mrs. Hall, widow of the slain rector. It was carefully prepared and stenographers took every word verbatim.

TRUE GENIUS IS DISCLOSED IN "WE SHOULD WORRY"

PACKED HOUSE GREETES ELKS' MUSICAL COMEDY

PONY BALLET, CRY BABY CHORUS, FASHION REVUE, ALL PLEASE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell Aibly Directed Production That Will Long Be Remembered by Ashland People; Final Showing Tonight.

Though musical comedies and road shows may come and go, it is seldom that one is played that will live in the memory of the audience as will "We Should Worry," which opened for a two night showing at the Vining theatre Tuesday night, and which will be shown for the last time this evening.

From the first raise of the curtain to the final drop of the performance, every member of the cast, whether the part was a lead or a minor one, handled their lines and steps in a manner that was highly professional. Developing a group as large as the cast of "We Should Worry" into a troupe of musical comedy actors is no light matter, but this has been done by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell, under whose personal direction "We Should Worry" was staged and directed. Too much credit for the success of the production cannot be given these people. Two weeks ago today, the songs were first given to the chorus, and rehearsals began two days later. Twelve days in which to produce a comedy which delighted a packed house.

It is impossible to select any individual in the cast as standing out above the others. The leading parts were handled in a most able manner while those who had fewer speaking lines put their heart into the work, with the result that a splendid performance was given. The leading characters played their parts like veterans of the footlights.

Mrs. J. W. Shortridge sang the lead in the opening chorus, her clear voice lending charm to the show. With her were the famous Elks' pony ballet, the liveliest and snappiest of the choruses, was Genevieve Hensley, Pauline Johnson, Doris Montgomery, Dorothy Kellogg, Joyce ing nicely in "Cry Baby Blues" and "Nobody's Baby."

C. E. Hedburg scored a hit in the singing of "An Old Fashioned Girl," leading the Fashion Plate revue, as did N. P. Nims in an eerie song and specialty number in the second act, when the three butlers, Nims, M. W. Grubb and Clyde G. Young, presented "The Sneak," a song sung in darkness and featured with flashlights.

W. B. Allen, as "Thomas Bouncer," besides being physically cast for the part, handled his interpretation of the character in a manner that won for him much applause. Henry Enders Jr. and C. E. Hedburg were a worthy pair and carried the leading role for the masculine element of "We Should Worry." Another character part that was exceptionally well-portrayed was that of "Betsy Bouncer," played by Miss Leonilla Smith.

Showing her clever personality, Mrs. Frank Powell, who was cast for the part of "Tootsie Tompkins," delighted the audience with her singing and dancing, especially in her final appearance with the snappy appearing pony ballet. Miss Alberta Ward, as "Diana Johnson," delighted the audience with her singing.

Members of the cast and choruses were: Henry Enders as "Richard Tompkins," in love with his wife; Mrs. Frank Powell, "Tootsie Tompkins," in love with her mama; Miss Leonilla Smith, "Betsy Bouncer," in love with herself; Clyde G. Young, "Henry," a butler; K. P. Nims, "William," Mr. Tompkins' butler; M. W. Grubb, "John," another butler; C. E. Hedburg, "Jim Johnson," who loves everybody, SURE; W. B. Allen, "Thomas Bouncer," was in love, now a fugitive; Miss Robert Ward, "Diana Johnson," in love with her husband; Jerry Thornton and "Happy" Gillette, policemen.

Personnel of the Elks' famous pony ballet, the liveliest and snappiest of the choruses, was Genevieve Hensley, Pauline Johnson, Doris Montgomery, Dorothy Kellogg, Joyce Johnson, Ruth Flaekus, Lola Kelly, Adeline Coovling, Louise Ruger, Beth Johnson, Margaret Campbell and Dorothy Paddock.

"Cry Baby Girls," another pleasing chorus, were Effie Hazen, Delphine Sackett, Dorothy Reed, Maxine Monger, Velma Clapp, Olive Keeton, Alice Ruger, Dorothy Lamson, Inez Wilhite and Lois Russell.

In the "Fashion Plate Revue" were seen Bobbie Bowers, Esther Kleinhammer, Florence Marrett, Jessie Guthrie, Violet Gale, Dorothy Hazen, Pearl Hodgkinson, Edyth Platen, Mrs. C. G. Harkins and Mrs. Gerald Wenner, who was very sweet in her portrayal of "An Old Fashioned Girl."

Those who were featured in "The Girls of My Dreams," sung by K. P. Nims, were Mrs. C. A. McCune, "The Broadway Girl"; N. Maud Evans, "The Society Girl"; Helen Merrill, "The Girl of the U. S. A.," and Mrs. Ula Lear, "The Elks' Girl."

This evening the final performance of "We Should Worry" will be given, after which Mr. and Mrs. Powell will return to southern California, having completed their engagement in Oregon.

The musical score for the production was arranged by Mr. Powell, who showed his versatility by leading the orchestra and directing the show at the same time. The music was provided by a special orchestra composed exclusively of members of the Elk organization. Gowns worn by models in the "Girls of My Dreams Revue" were provided through the courtesy of the Enders company, while the hats were loaned by the Wineland & Shepherd millinery concern. Floral decorations were obtained through the courtesy of the Ashland Greenhouses.

Tickets for the final production this evening have been in great demand and another packed house will greet the performers again tonight. According to word this morning, the only seats available now are those in the rear of the balcony, but then, as the show has already been seen, WE SHOULD WORRY.

WHOLESALE HOUSE OF MASON EHRMAN BURNS AT MEDFORD

The Mason-Ehrman wholesale house at Medford was completely destroyed by fire, which started about 11 o'clock last night.

The building is a complete loss, nothing remaining but the brick walls to show for the fine three-story building. The contents of the building were also completely lost for the fire was under such headway when the fire department arrived that it was impossible to save any portion of the goods.

The building stood well apart from other structures in the vicinity, and only one of these was in danger by the fire which was saved by the playing of water on it from time to time.

Despite the fact that a large number of citizens turned out to help fight the fire and were about the building, together with the firemen, for the greater part of the night, not a single person was injured during the blaze. The water pressure was exceptionally good all during the fire and was in no way responsible for the fire getting beyond control.

Smoke was first seen coming from the building by parties attending a dance at the Nat about an hour before the fire whistle sounded, according to Gene Narrington, insurance man of Ashland and Medford, but owing to the location of the structure, it was thought that the smoke was coming from an engine in that vicinity, and was not investigated.

PROPOSED 1923 CITY BUDGET TO BE $46,794.32

TOTAL TAX LEVY OF 18.7 MILLS FOUND NECESSARY FOR NEXT YEAR

ALL EXPENDITURES ARE CONSIDERED BY COUNCIL

City Departments Proper Will Need $29,027.49, with Levy of 11.6 Mills; Bonds and Interest Add $17,766.83.

Original estimates, as furnished by department heads, for the proposed budget for the city of Ashland for 1923 are now on file at the office of the city recorder. Including all departments, the sum of $29,027.49 will be necessary to finance the city during the coming year, this amount being increased to $46,794.32 through the interest on outstanding bonds and the provision of a general sinking fund.

In order to operate for the year, $8,937.50 is considered necessary to meet the salaries of various city officers, lighting, insurance, fuel, telephones, telegrams, etc., in the general department. The police department will swell the total $5670, bringing the total for the department up to $14,557.50. Incomes derived from interest on funds, licenses, franchise fees, rent, fines, etc., are expected to contribute $5,548.95, decreasing the necessary expenditures to $9,008.55. This amount will be raised by a tax levy of 3.6 mills.

Provision for the continuance of the library department, for fuel, salaries, books, postage, etc., is made by setting aside $4,073.55, which will be decreased $250 through incomes from the school board, fines and other sources. The total expense will be $3,828.55. This will be covered by a levy of 1.53 mills.

Estimated expenditures for the park department will reach $5,754.05, including salary, annual payments, labor (the greatest factor), electric light globes, etc. From the sale of cups and auto camp fees $1500 will be received, leaving a special levy of 1.7 mills to cover the total expense, $4,254.05.

Protection from fire will cost the city $4,879.65 with no source of special income. This will be met by a levy of 1.9 mills. The street department will cost $5,880.58 to operate, with no source of income. A levy of 2.35 mills will be made to cover this department.

Both the sewer and cemetery departments will be taken care of at no expense to the city. The income from the sale of lots and the estimated balance at the end of the year counter each other with $400. Balance at the end of the fiscal year on the sewer system will be absorbed by the estimated labor necessary, at $190.

Publicity, and the Chautauqua park department will amount to $1,176.11, with no income and no balance. A levy of .47 mills will insure the operation of this department.

Interest on original sewer, auxiliary water, park, refunding, improvement, Bancroft bonds and the general bond sinking fund will be $19,266.83. An estimated balance of $1500 will be on hand, making the total for the year $17,766.83. A tax levy of 7.1 mills will be made.

Summarizing the total proposed expenditures necessary for operating in 1923, there will be, in various departments, exclusive of the interest and bond department, $29,027.49, covered by a levy of 11.6 mills. The interest and bond department expenditure, $17,766.83, will be covered with a levy of 7.1 mills. Total expenditures necessary are $46,794.32 with a total tax levy of 18.7 mills.
