MOIST PLANKS MAY BE MAIN PLATFORM FOR NEXT ELECTION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Politicians of all shades of opinion are agreed that prohibition is in a fair way to become the chief argument two years hence. Despite the remarkable victories made by the wets it seems improbable that anything will be done in the next congress toward modifying the Volstead law.

Some liberals say it is not inconceivable in two years that the modification element will become so strong as to compel both parties to adopt a moist plank in their platforms. New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Illinois and California, either by voting down a more rigorous enforcement or in sending liberals to the next congress, have rolled up wet victories. Ohio, home of the Anti-Saloon league, alone voted down the beer and wine amendment.

OREGON HOMECOMING OPENS; STAGE SET FOR TONIGHT

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Hundreds of graduates and former students of the University of Oregon will journey to Eugene this week from all parts of the Pacific coast for the University's annual Homecoming festivities, which will open this evening and close Saturday night.

The chief attraction of the annual event will be a football game which will be played Saturday afternoon between the Oregon eleven and the Washington State college team. The two institutions are traditional football enemies and are represented this season by two of the strongest teams in the Pacific Coast conference. Gridiron critics are not prophesying the outcome of this contest for the teams are so evenly matched that even the most ardent of fans hesitates to give either team the edge. The Cougars will come to Eugene smarting under the whitewashing given them by the California Bears Saturday, while the Oregon eleven will be in the "pink" of condition, having had a two weeks' rest. The game promises to be one of the hardest fought gridiron battles ever played in the west.

The contest will be preceded Friday night by a gigantic street parade and bonfire rally. This is an annual event and each year becomes more noisy and hilarious.

Armistice day will be commemorated with a patriotic parade Saturday morning, in which Lane county organizations and students will combine. In the afternoon, a flag raising and military salute ceremony will be held on Hayward field before the football game is started.

Sixteen hundred graduates and former students of colleges other than Oregon, who are now making their homes in the state, have been invited to come to Eugene and participate in the Homecoming and at a ceremony to adopt the university as their step-alma mater.

A coast conference cross country race, big noon day luncheon, alumni meeting and Homecoming ball are on the program for Saturday.

Scores of former athletes of the university will return and parade about the field before the game starts. They will have a special section of seats and will be feted at a banquet Saturday night.

Special rates to Eugene are being offered on railroads at all stations in the state, for the benefit of the hundreds who will return to Eugene for the occasion.

WORLD RIPE FOR PROHIBITION IS SMITH MESSAGE

WAR LEADER SPEAKS TO LARGE CROWD AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

PLEA MADE FOR KEEPING ADEQUATE ARMY, NAVY

Colonel Does Not Favor Scrapping Of Defenses; Drinker of Moonshine Declared Greatest Present Menace to U. S. Constitution.

Teeming with interesting bits of French life, Colonel Dan Morgan Smith, commander of the Battalion of Death, 358th Infantry, 90th division, delivered a spirited address to a large crowd at the First Presbyterian church Thursday evening.

"I am not here to glorify war; there is no glory in war," declared the speaker. "But this does not mean that I want a big army or a large navy; it only means that I insist upon the protection of our fathers and mothers by the maintenance of a small but well equipped, well paid and satisfied army so that we may be able to meet any emergency that might arise.

"I also recognize," said Colonel Smith, "that there are thousands who patronize the bootlegger who have never thought of the harm they do. The man who threatens to pull down our flag and run up a dirty red rag; the bolshevik who preaches destruction of our form of government, nor the anarchist who seeks the destruction of our institutions by the means of bombs is not so dangerous to the community as the man who gratifies his appetite at the expense of the constitution of his country. The only plea that can be made on their behalf is the plea of the dying Christ, 'Forgive them, Father, they know not what they do.'"

Colonel Smith insisted that the world was ripe for prohibition, provided prohibition was made effective in America, and he called upon those in the audience who supported missionaries abroad to help bring about world prohibition by making prohibition prohibit in America. The peroration of his speech was: "If we enforce prohibition in America, the civilized world will go dry; the use of alcohol as a beverage will be outlawed in every country in the world. This we must do; the burden is upon your shoulders and mine, for as it is our duty to seek to Christianize the heathen in far-off lands, so it is becoming our duty, by our example and active assistance, to take the blessings of prohibition to every land where the cross of Jesus Christ has been or can be raised."

HOPE HELD OUT FOR INJURED LAD'S RECOVERY

Richard Hall, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hall, who was kicked in the back Saturday afternoon by 14-year-old Johnny Freeman while standing on the corner of Fourth and Main streets watching the Loomis parade go by, is reported to be slightly improved.

Young Hall left his home when the band began to play and went to the corner of Fourth and Main, where he was standing when the Freeman boy came by and, without any provocation, kicked him in the back. Hall sank to the ground with his legs paralyzed, apparently one of the vertebrae in his back having been dislocated. Two young men in a car saw the boy drop and stopped to investigate, after which they placed him in their car and rushed him to the hospital, where he was given medical attention. The men were not known by the Hall boy and did not make their names known either at the hospital or to the parents of the lad, who are very grateful to them for the kind service rendered.

After four days in the hospital, the lad was removed to his home on Fifth street, and the attending physician is hopeful of his recovering the use of his limbs, though he is still far from well.
