Letter Received from Hulet's—
Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Hulet write Ashland friends that they made the trip by auto to Merrill, with no difficulty whatsoever, in spite of the bad roads. The family Ford went right through. Some of their furniture, which went by auto truck, was badly broken and marred. They are getting settled and entering heartily into the new work of the pastorate of the two churches at Merrill and Malin.

Thanksgiving Services Held—
Ashland churches united in a real Thanksgiving service Thursday, the meeting being held in the Presbyterian church. The largest congregation for years was present. The double quartette, Mesdames Fuller, McGee, Misses Allen and Poley, Messrs. Wright, McCoy and McGee, with Mrs. Parsons at the organ, gave a beautiful anthem and led the songs of praise. The ministers each participated in the services, Rev. Chaney, the new pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church giving a fine discourse on the theme of continual Thanksgiving. The offering goes to the ministerial association for local relief work.

Milk Ordinance to Pass—
The new dairy ordinance will be passed at the next meeting of the city council, Tuesday evening, December 5, according to good authority. This is considered the most important of the new ordinances and makes it necessary for every person selling milk, whether the source of supply is one cow or a large herd, to file with the city recorder a certificate signed by state or county inspectors that the animal or animals are entirely free from tuberculosis. For the purpose of inspecting the dairies in the city, an official arrived in the city yesterday, and will continue here until all dairy cattle have been inspected. Those who contemplate selling milk are requested to have the testing done at this time.

French "Reign of Terror."
That period of the French revolution known as the reign of terror is generally considered to have extended from January 21, 1793, the date of the execution of Louis XVI, to July 28, 1794, when Robespierre and other sanguinary leaders were guillotined.

Age of a Fish.
The size and weight of a fish are no indication of its age. Its length of life is revealed, just as that of a tree is, by its rings. The fish has annual rings also, but not in its body. Put a fish scale under a magnifier and you notice the scale is covered with little rings—some close together and some farther apart. When the fish grows slowly because its food is scarce and the water is chilly, these rings lie close together, but when its food is plentiful and the water is warmer, and the fish grows bigger quickly—as it were, stretches its skin with good feeding—then the rings on the scales lie well apart. Each of these rings represents one year in the age of the fish. There is another way. It is by tracing out the markings on what are termed the earstones of the fish—the tiny hard things in its inner ear. Put these earstones under a powerful microscope and you see tiny light and dark rings. Every light ring tells of one year's growth. So by counting these light rings you arrive at the fish's age.

Melting Carbon.
Carbon may be melted and maintained in a liquid condition, according to the experiments of a French investigator. The heating was effected under great pressure in the electric furnace, and a curious phenomenon was noticed at 1,500 atmospheres, namely, that after a brief failure of the arc, the current refused to pass even when the power was much increased. It is supposed that as the carbon passed into liquid and transparent state, it assumed a rare allotropic form, becoming a non-conductor. The test was too brief for a study of this condition, but was made to include a sudden cooling of the molten carbon by a flooding with water of the interior of the pressure vessel. The minute diamonds were recognized in the gray powder thus obtained, the result being, however, not wholly satisfactory.

Each president spent the early part of her administration in making ready for the year's work. Some of the salient points during these administrations were the get-acquainted reception; clean-up days; rose carnivals and strawberry shows; tag days bringing in a good source of revenue. A local fair was held in 1911, which was a great financial success. It was managed exclusively by Ashland women.

Ever on the alert for entertainments that would bring financial rewards the Civic club gave "The Doll Shop," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "The Bachelor's Honeymoon," and other similar forms of attractions, designed to lure dollars into the coffers, with always the idea of a club house such as was dedicated today before the organization. The city band and boys' and girls' clubs were assisted by the Civic club from time to time.

Some of the activities of the Civic club during the years 1915 and 1916, when Mrs. E. D. Briggs was president, follow:

Bought out nursery stock and sold same to residents of Ashland, and for cemeteries and parks.
Organized the Young Women's Auxiliary.
Kept flowers at the depot all summer to be given to travelers.
Established a bulb and plant exchange.

Put six floats in the Fourth of July parade.

Collected old magazines and waste—at least two-thirds of a car—and shipped same in conjunction with Medford ladies; total receipts were $123.88.

Put on an Oregon products dinner.

Put on a large luncheon in conjunction with commercial club.

Piped water to and set to flowers Southern Pacific lot.

Instituted statewide contest for slogan and gave prize for same.

Held a pageant in Lithia park in conjunction with the Greater Medford club.

Put out a Civic club year book incorporated.

Gave money to assist in improving Mountain View cemetery.

Initiated the "city beautiful" work dividing the city into sections.

Bought and sold pennants with our new slogan.

Bought and gave away picture post cards of city at trains.

Helped toward supporting the city band.

Gave $25 for prizes for bird house contest, and placed same in the park.

Entertained Australian boys.

Receipts from activities were about $886.25, and disbursement about $764.95.

"On June 20, 1914, the Oregon State Bankers to the number of 150 were given a dinner in what was then known as Chautauqua park and the local bankers gave us $150," is the message from Mrs. C. B. Lamkin.

"The next big thing was the street carnival, when we received over $200. During this year we paid $48 for seats for the parks; to reinstate the normal school, $55; one scholarship for the polytechnic school then in Ashland, $125. After many other small things paid for, the year closed with $302 in the treasury.

"During the years 1918-1919, 138 packages for soldiers overseas were sent. We furnished meals for drafted men to the number of over 2000 and received $1000.40 from the Southern Pacific railroad, clearing $445.17 for same. We gave $300 to our war chest and $100 to get or try to get the normal reinstated. A donation of $35 was given to the Chautauqua club. The Civic club helped the chamber of commerce in furnishing a dinner in the city park for 300 editors of the United States.

"We made out of our salvage work over $1400, giving the local Red Cross all of this sum except only a little for expenses."

Mrs. Ida M. Gard writes from Port Angeles, Wash., stating that she is very sorry that she will be unable to attend the formal dedication of the Civic club building, but sends the following:

"In regard to the early history, will give you what I remember. Mrs. Meikle's term was emphasized by holding joint social meetings with the commercial club, sending out invitations to all the newcomers; a petition to the city council to have a park commission appointed, which resulted in laying the foundation of the beautiful park in Ashland. Mrs. Meikle and I were on the first park board.

"The Carnegie library was the salient work during the term of office held by Mrs. E. V. Carter. Other work accomplished was the obtaining of domestic science and manual training in the public schools. I was chairman of these committees. The adopting of an official rose for Ashland and a Rose show were also accomplished.

"The presidents held office for one year only, until Mrs. Briggs, she holding office for two years, as did Mrs. Lamkin. Since that time I have not been in Ashland. There is one president you have not listed. I cannot think of the name, but she lived on Granite street, and it was during war-time."

"The one undertaking I think of with the most pride," writes Mrs. Mary Meikle, 2549 Piedmont avenue, Berkeley, Calif., "is the part the Civic club took in securing the Carnegie library for Ashland. The library at that time was supported by its members and it was necessary for the city to support the library for a certain time before it received the Carnegie gift. Mrs. E. V. Carter, Mrs. Gard and Mrs. C. B. Watson met with Mayor Snell and the city council and secured an appropriation of $50 a month, making it a public library, and in a short time we had the Carnegie library.

"In those days Ashland was not the beautiful little city it is now. It was disfigured by barns and old fences and unadorned by any park except the Chautauqua. The Civic club undertook to remedy these defects by securing permission to beautify all the flatiron lots. We also purchased the large park known as the Boulevard park. To meet this debt we asked that a tax be set aside for park purposes, and so brought about the park board which has labored ever since for the beautification of Ashland, and whose work has resulted in making it truly "Ashland the Beautiful."

"We caused the removal of hundreds of these useless barns and fences; planned for the street lights by having molds made for the cement forms; provided receptacles for rubbish; beautified the railroad lots with shrubs and roses, and each year had a rose and strawberry show."
