Venetian Note in Costumes to Fore

THE VENETIAN note struck last season is still on the crescendo. The tri-corne hat, bouffant skirt trailing into slender side points, tight bodice, buckled shoe, black lace flouncing, all prove that the note is being echoed in the millinery world, the gown world, and the world of accessories. It is indeed a fashionable woman that affects this period. In the accompanying photo of Pola Negri, the famous European screen star, who is now making the Robert Hichens story, "Bella Donna," as a Paramount Picture, she is shown wearing hat, gown, and cloak that are each the most chic adaptations of the Venetian mode. The tri-corne hat is of black tulle; plush—as it should be; and it is bound in tarnished silver, and trimmed with a coardee of the same. Tarnished silver is, by the way, very much sought after. The older it looks, the better! The gown has the Venetian tight bodice, and the skirt is bouffant, trailing into side points, as shown in the sketch to the left. Black lace forms the upper part of the bodice and the long tight sleeves that come well down over the hands. It may be noticed that no straps hold up the black taffeta bodice, the lace top doing duty for straps. This is quite all right for the slender Pola Negri, but not practical for a larger woman. There is a flounce of black lace at the bottom of the skirt, through which can be seen Miss Negri's chic feet shod in satin, and silver buckled. Black lace stockings she also wears. The cloak is velvet, and has a deep lace collar patterned after those sketched at the top of the picture—in true Venetian style. This outfit is one of many that the Polish star has brought with her to this country—exquisite things from Vienna, Berlin and Paris.

Exports of American Automobiles Doubled in 1922

By O. P. Austin - Statistician THE NATIONAL CITY BANK OF NEW YORK

(From the WEEKLY TRADE RECORD Issued by The National City Bank)

The American automobile is against 23,900 in the same months 8,354 against only 2,217 in the corresponding months of last year; an increase of over 100%, and motor trucks, of which we exported but a small number and the big accumulation existing prior to the war, are in the 9 months of this year 8,080 against 5,945 in the same months of last year. Passenger cars in September alone were 5,862 against 2,197 in September of last year. Curiously, too, this big increase in the 1922 exports of automobiles occurs in large degree in shipments to those parts of the world which are recognized as manufacturers of automobiles. The total number of passenger machines sent to the eight European countries enumerated in the Department of Commerce monthly record of countries of destination is over 13,000 against less than 3,000 in the same period of last year. To Great Britain alone, the greatest manufacturer outside of the United States, the total of passenger machines exported in the 9 months of 1922 is 3,645 against but 2,992 in the same months of last year; to Belgium, also a manufacturing country, 3,329 against 344 last year; while Canada, now a considerable manufacturer of automobiles, the number is 8,661 against 4,644 in the corresponding months of 1921. To Australia and New Zealand, in which all sorts of American manufactures are gaining in popularity, the number of passenger cars is
